Counsel for Plaintiffs

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE FOURTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF THE STATE OF IDAHO, IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF ADA

ST. LUKE'S HEALTH SYSTEM, LTD; ST. LUKE'S REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER, LTD; CHRIS ROTH, an individual; NATASHA D. ERICKSON, MD, an individual; and TRACY W. JUNGMAN, NP, an individual, Plaintiffs, vs. AMMON BUNDY, an individual; AMMON BUNDY FOR GOVERNOR, a political organization; DIEGO RODRIGUEZ, an individual; FREEDOM MAN PRESS LLC, a limited liability company; FREEDOM MAN PAC, a registered political action committee; and PEOPLE'S RIGHTS NETWORK, a political organization, Defendants.	Case No. CV01-22-06789 PLAINTIFFS' EXPERT WITNESS DISCLOSURES

Plaintiffs, St. Luke's Health System, Ltd., St. Luke's Regional Medical Center, Ltd., Chris Roth, Natasha D. Erickson, M.D., and Tracy W. Jungman, NP ("Plaintiffs"), by and through their attorneys of record, Holland & Hart LLP, hereby submit their disclosure of expert witnesses, which identifies the witnesses who may provide expert testimony at the trial of the above-captioned case. This disclosure is made in accordance with the Court's Notice of Trial Setting and Order Governing Further Proceedings dated October 17, 2022, and pursuant to Rule 26(b)(4) of the Idaho Rules of Civil Procedure.

5. Compensation Paid to Mr. Reinstein:

Mr. Reinstein is being compensated at an hourly rate of $500.

E. DEVIN BURGHART

1. Statement of Testimony:

Mr. Devin Burghart will testify and express opinions, consistent with those contained in his report, "Ammon's Army: Inside the Far-Right People's Rights Network." His report is attached hereto as Exhibit E.

Mr. Burghart will testify regarding his findings and conclusions relating to the formation of People's Rights Network ("PRN"), the structure of PRN, the objectives of PRN, the dangers posed by PRN, Ammon Bundy and his entities' roles in PRN, Diego Rodriguez and his entities' roles in PRN, and PRN's messaging and use of false conspiracies to push its agenda. He will testify regarding the actions taken and tactics employed by the Defendants to manufacture a false conspiracy and to publish false statements to harass and incite violence against the Plaintiffs. Mr. Burghart will testify regarding how the Defendants acted in concert to generate publicity and revenue for themselves based on the false statements and false conspiracies targeting the Plaintiffs.

Mr. Burghart will testify to the following opinions and conclusions:

a. Ammon Bundy founded and built PRN into a nationwide network that they assert has over 60,000 members. PRN's growth has been spurred by a fusion of Bundy's core of the far-right paramilitary supporters built up over years of armed standoffs with a mass base of new activists radicalized in protest over COVID-19 health directives.

b. PRN's objectives are to take over the government to impose its radical far-right vision on people. PRN declares a desire for governmental power to be used to protect the "righteous" against the "wicked". PRN seeks to establish a type of armed enclave-style "neighborhood" nationalism, where "righteous" neighbors stand against the "wicked."

PRN defines the "wicked" using far-right conspiracism, racism, antisemitism, anti-indigenous, and anti-transgender sentiment.

c. Bundy controls PRN. The organization is a fairly typically structured extremist group. Bundy sits atop the hierarchy—though in an unnamed, unspecified position. He is the main spokesperson for the group, and it appears that he has complete access to all the individual member information. Bundy is the network's leader and directs and promotes the network. Bundy oversees state and area assistants—those charged with coordinating activities and controlling access to information. PRN has a substantial and active Idaho chapter that Ammon Bundy leads and oversees.

d. Diego Rodriguez is a key figure in PRN. He is a frequent speaker at PRN events, including early meetings that gave rise to the organization. Rodriguez is an active member in PRN, facilitates the network's growth, and coordinates PRN's messaging and communications with Bundy. While having less authority than Bundy, Rodriguez speaks for the network and acts on the network's behalf.

e. Rodriguez is the founder of the Freedom Tabernacle Church in Boise, Idaho. The church promotes "Christian Dominion," described as "the duty of taking dominion over the Earth"; the objective being to impose his version of Christianity on all. Christian Dominionism is a form of Christian nationalism, arguing that Christians should take the reins of political and cultural power. Rodriguez's Boise-based Dominion Books is dedicated to "equipping believers to take dominion in this world." Rodriguez also serves as the Communications and Marketing Director for the Freedom Man Political Action Committee and operates the Freedom Man website. See https://freedomman.org/. Rodriguez contends that "[h]omosexuality is an abomination unto God and to all Christians." One tenet of Christian Domionisim is that "Biblical law" demands the death penalty for members of the LGBTQ community and other forms of governmental punishment for the "wicked". Rodriguez frequently uses antisemitic canards in his calls for "Christian Dominion". Rodriguez promotes policy positions in line with Cleon Skousen's National Center for Constitutional Studies, including opposing "state-run educational institutions" which Rodriguez contends have no authority in the "Word of God". Rodriguez states that "welfare, food stamps, subsidized housing, state run health care (i.e., Medicare, etc.), social security and publicly funded education" must be destroyed as an "unlawful expansion of state government into areas of life that are ordained by God to be fulfilled by church and families." Rodriguez has a long history of self-promotion, seeking financial gain and has desperately sought political relevance. He advertises himself as a skilled marketer and frequently uses his family to promote himself, his personal brand, and his various financial schemes.

f. In addition to PRN, Bundy and Rodriguez worked together on the Bundy for Governor Campaign. PRN was intertwined with the Bundy for Governor Campaign, as was Rodriguez's Freedom Man website.

g. Bundy, Rodriguez, and PRN pose a real and present danger to the community and to public servants. While Bundy, Rodriguez, and PRN speak in terms of "defending rights", they define "defense" and "rights" is such a way that they really are just advocating the use of violence to reach their objective of imposing their desired type of Christian Nationalist government on others. PRN's leadership and membership includes paramilitary and militia-type group members. PRN was established—and operates—as an "Uber-like" militia response system. PRN's messaging is intended to incite fear and promote violence. PRN uses harassment, intimidation, threats of violence, and doxing to silence those it opposes and push its agenda. PRN is willing and able to use violence to accomplish its objectives.

h. PRN has had and maintains active financial connections with entities controlled by Bundy and Rodriguez. PRN solicits "donations" from members, and those donations are funneled through corporations owned by Bundy and Rodriguez. Dono Custos, Inc., an entity owned and controlled by Bundy, is used to funnel money in and out of PRN. Similarly, Freedom Tabernacle, Incorporated, an entity owned and controlled by Rodriguez, is used to funnel money in and out of PRN. PRN uses conspiracy theories and false narratives to attract members, radicalize its base, push its agenda, gather donations, and incite fear and violence.

i. Bundy, Rodriguez, and PRN are aligned with a network of other extremist groups.

j. Bundy, Rodriguez, PRN, the Bundy for Governor Campaign, and the Freedom Man website, coordinated and created a false conspiracy theory that the police, the Governor of Idaho, the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, St. Luke's hospital, Chris Roth, Dr. Natasha Erickson, Tracy Jungman, and others, participated in a kidnapping and a child trafficking ring. They promoted the incendiary, false conspiracy that St. Luke's, Roth, Dr. Erickson, and Jungman were criminals who acted to facilitate and profited from the kidnapping of healthy children from "Christian" families and trafficking of those children to "homo-sexuals" who sexually abused and killed the children. PRN's creation of this false conspiracy theory is typical of how PRN usually operates, which is to create a false narrative in order to garner publicity, recruit members, enrage members, incited violence, manipulate members to act, silence its opposition, and garner donations to enrich itself.

k. PRN, through Bundy and Rodriguez, pushed its false conspiracy theory in order to attract members, radicalize its base, grow its political capital, intimidate and harm the entities and individuals identified, and financially enrich itself and its leaders, including Bundy and Rodriguez.

l. PRN, Bundy, Rodriguez, the Bundy for Governor Campaign, and the Freedom Man website employed language and messages which incited fear and promoted violence or the threat of violence against the individuals and entities identified. This threat of violence was real, and it was—and is—substantial. The threats posed by PRN, Rodriguez, Bundy, and the Freedom Man website are omnipresent. PRN's membership consists of armed paramilitary and militia-type members who are willing and able to use threats, violence, and force to silence its targets. PRN's coordinated use of false messaging and its armed and dangerous members presented—and continue to present—a dangerous risk to St. Luke's, Dr. Erickson, Roth, and Jungman.

m. PRN intended to and did dox, intimidate, scare, harass, and threaten St. Luke's Health System and its staff and patients. This coordinated attack was led, orchestrated, and promoted by PRN leaders, including Bundy and Rodriguez.

n. Almost one year after the armed gatherings at St. Luke's that caused the lockdown of the hospital, PRN, Bundy, Rodriguez, and the Freedom Man website maintain the false narratives, and continue to repeat and amplify the false and incendiary conspiracies to further endanger St. Luke's and others and to radicalize more intended members of PRN to take action by threatening others and by making financial contributions to the network.

2. Data and Information Considered in Forming Testimony:

A list of the data and other information considered by Mr. Burghart in forming his opinions is set forth as an Appendix to Exhibit E.

3. Exhibits that May Be Used as a Summary of or Support for Testimony:

Mr. Burghart may use as an exhibit any portion of his report and any materials referenced in the appendices to Exhibit E. He may also rely on any other expert's report.

4. Qualifications of Mr. Burghart:

Mr. Burghart's qualifications, including a list of all publications authored by him within the preceding ten years, and all cases in which he has testified as an expert in the preceding four years, are set forth in his CV, attached as an Appendix to Exhibit E.

5. Compensation Paid to Mr. Burghart:

Mr. Burghart is not being personally compensated. The Institute for Research & Education on Human Rights is being compensated at the rate of $300.00 per hour including any testimony at deposition or trial.

F. SPENCER FOMBY

1. Statement of Testimony:

At statement of opinions to be expressed and the basis and reasons for the opinions is set forth in Mr. Fomby's report attached as Exhibit F.

2. Data and Information Considered in Forming Testimony:

A list of the data and other information considered by Mr. Fomby in forming his opinions is set forth in Exhibit F.

3. Exhibits that May Be Used as a Summary of or Support for Testimony:

Mr. Fomby may use as an exhibit any portion of his report and any materials referenced in Exhibit F. He may also rely on any other expert's report.

4. Qualifications of Mr. Fomby:

Mr. Fomby's qualifications, including a list of all publications authored by him within the preceding ten years, and all cases in which he has testified as an expert in the preceding four years, are set forth in his CV, attached as an Appendix to Exhibit F.

5. Compensation Paid to Mr. Fomby:

Mr. Fomby is being compensated at an hourly rate of $300 for all services except deposition appearance (hourly rate of $450), trial appearance ($2500 per day non-testifying, $3500 per day testifying), and travel time ($1500 per day plus expenses $0.545 per mile).

II. NON-RETAINED EXPERT WITNESSES

Plaintiffs disclose the following witnesses in an abundance of caution. Much of the following witnesses' testimony will be factual, as each individual has personal knowledge of the facts underlying this case. Plaintiffs understand, however, that some of the testimony will involve both factual statements and opinions regarding the following witnesses' respective scientific, technical, or other specialized knowledge, helpful to the trier of fact.

A. NATASHA ERICKSON, M.D.

Dr. Erickson is a pediatric hospitalist at St. Luke's Regional Medical Center and has 12 years' experience in pediatric care. Dr. Erickson has extensive experience in diagnosing and treating children. In the course of her job responsibilities, Dr. Erickson provides inpatient medical care for hospitalized infants, children, and adolescents.

Dr. Erickson is familiar with the care St. Luke's provided the Infant, including the Infant's diagnoses and plan for treatment. She is also familiar with the harm suffered by her and her family as a result of Defendants' conduct and the measures she has been forced to take to deal with the risk of harm posed by Defendants.

Dr. Erickson has a Bachelor of Science degree in Biology from the University of Puget Sound and a medical degree from Eastern Virginia Medical School. She completed a post graduate internship in pediatrics and a residency in pediatrics at Eastern Virginia Medical School. During the first year of her residency, Dr. Erickson was awarded the Outstanding First Year Resident Award, and she was later selected to serve as chief resident. She has served on several committees related to patient safety and quality of care and is actively involved in resident and nursing education, having received an award for pediatric teaching excellence. Dr. Erickson is licensed by the Idaho Board of Medicine and the Idaho Board of Pharmacy and is a current member of the American Academy of Pediatrics. She is Board Certified in General Pediatrics and in Pediatric Hospital Medicine.

In addition to testifying about the personal effect Defendants' actions have had on Dr. Erickson and her family, Dr. Erickson will testify that she and her family suffered reputational, financial, and emotional harm due to Defendants' actions and have taken increased security measures due to the risks posed by Defendants. Dr. Erickson and her family have experienced disruptions in their day-to-day living owing to Defendants' conduct. Dr. Erickson experienced symptoms indicative of PTSD owing to Defendants' conduct.

Dr. Erickson will testify that at the time she was directly involved in the Infant's care the Infant's parents consented to all aspects of care, that the treatment plan for the Infant during the Infant's admission to St. Luke's Boise from March 1-4, 2022, met all applicable standards of care and was in the best interests of the Infant, and that the Infant was not vaccinated by St. Luke's at any time.

Dr. Erickson will also testify that she never contacted DHW and did not ask anyone to contact DHW regarding the Infant. Dr. Erickson did ask for a social worker to consult with the parents of the Infant regarding financial need and other issues.

Some of Dr. Erickson's testimony will rely on her expertise, including the following:

1. The medical condition and treatment provided to the Infant in March 2022. She will testify regarding her opinion that the Infant needed the medical evaluation and treatment that the Infant received at St. Luke's.
2. St. Luke's Health System's practices and procedures regarding admission, diagnoses, and treatment, and the hospital's reporting requirements. She will testify that, as it relates to the care she provided, she properly followed all relevant practices, procedures, and reporting categories relating to the Infant.
3. The Infant needed medical intervention because of the Infant's severe condition at the time of admittance.
4. The diagnoses, treatment plan, and care provided to the Infant was competent and in the best interests of the Infant. The Infant suffered from severe malnutrition and dehydration which, if left untreated, could have had serious heath and development consequences.
5. The Infant's treatment was hampered by the Infant's parents' refusal to provide basic medical history about the Infant and failure to properly characterize prior medical care received by the Infant.
6. Dr. Erickson will testify regarding the medical record that she generated or referred to relating to the medical care provided to the Infant.

7. Dr. Erickson may also refer to and testify regarding other medical records relating to the Infant's care and condition.
8. Dr. Erickson will testify that all aspects of care (including examination, evaluation, diagnosis, and treatment) that she provided to the Infant met the applicable standard of care.
9. Dr. Erickson will testify that the examination, imaging, and testing of the Infant that occurred at St. Luke's was appropriate and met the standard of care.

B. TRACY JUNGMAN, NURSE PRACTITIONER

Ms. Jungman is a nurse practitioner specializing in pediatrics at St. Luke's CARES in Boise, Idaho. She has over 20 years' experience in pediatric nursing and has provided assistance to over 1,700 patients in the last five years alone. She has extensive clinical experience in various inpatient and outpatient settings including PICU and Child Abuse Pediatrics. In the course of her job responsibilities, Ms. Jungman evaluates and treats children that may be victims of abuse, neglect, or other forms of maltreatment, and she is regularly called to testify in court in child abuse cases because of her expertise in recognizing and treating victims of child abuse and neglect.

Ms. Jungman is familiar with the events leading up to DHW's decision to contact the Meridian Police about the Infant on March 11, 2022, the measures St. Luke's CARES took to protect staff and patients during the March 2022 protests at St. Luke's, the care St. Luke's provided the Infant, the practices and procedures involved in child protection cases, the harm she and her family suffered as a result of Defendants' conduct, and the additional security measures she has taken to deal with the risk of harm posed by Defendants.

Ms. Jungman has a Bachelor of Science degree in Nursing from Boise State University and a Master of Science degree in Nursing from Clarkson College. She has substantial post graduate education in pediatric medicine, focusing on survivors of child abuse. Ms. Jungman facilitates the Idaho Child Abuse peer review for medical providers statewide, and frequently provides regional and statewide education to various entities regarding the identification, evaluation, and treatment of victims of child maltreatment.

Ms. Jungman will testify that she and her family suffered reputational, financial, interpersonal, and emotional harm due to Defendants' actions and have had to increase security due to the risks posed by Defendants. Ms. Jungman will also testify that she and her family have experienced disruptions in their day-to-day living owing to Defendants' conduct. Ms. Jungman will also testify that she experienced symptoms indicative of PTSD owing to Defendants' conduct.

In addition to testifying about the personal effect Defendants' actions have had on Ms. Jungman and her family, Ms. Jungman is expected to present evidence on the subject matter of St. Luke's role in DHW investigations and proceedings, St. Luke's medical advice regarding the Infant, the Infant's condition on March 12, 2022, the care that St. Luke's provided to the Infant in March 2022, and the interactions between St. Luke's and the Infant's parents.

Some of Ms. Jungman's testimony will rely on her expertise and will include testimony expressing an expert opinion, including the following:

1. Ms. Jungman and others she observed providing care complied with St. Luke's Health System's practices and procedures regarding admission, diagnoses, treatment, and DHW consultations and evaluations, and the hospital's reporting requirements.

2. The Infant needed medical intervention because of the Infant's severe condition at the time of admittance. At the time the Infant was admitted to St. Luke's, the Infant was severely malnourished, dehydrated, and was failing to thrive.
3. The treatment plan and care provided to the Infant by St. Luke's was competent and in the best interests of the Infant. If the Infant had not received care, the Infant could have died or suffered serious heath and developmental consequences.
4. The Infant's treatment was hampered by the Infant's parents' refusal to provide basic medical history about the Infant.
5. Ms. Jungman will testify regarding the medical record that she generated or referred to relating to the medical care provided to the Infant.
6. Ms. Jungman may also refer to and testify regarding other medical records relating to the Infant's care and condition.
7. Ms. Jungman will testify that all aspects of the care (including examination, evaluation, diagnosis, and treatment) that she provided to the Infant met the applicable standard of care.

C. CHRIS ROTH, CEO, ST. LUKE'S HEALTH SYSTEM LTD.

Mr. Roth is the current president and CEO of St. Luke's Health System. He has 30 years' experience in health care and has extensive experience in health care operations, emerging technologies, care delivery and care models, and consumer experience. In the course of his job responsibilities, Mr. Roth administers the hospital network which includes, among other things, managing over 14,000 employees, creating business strategies, and overseeing St. Luke's Health System's day-to-day operations. Mr. Roth reports to the St. Luke's Health System Board of Directors.

Mr. Roth has a Bachelor of Science degree from Utah State University and a master's degree in health-care administration from the University of Minnesota. He has more than 30 years of healthcare experience.

Mr. Roth is familiar with the economic and reputational harm suffered by St. Luke's Health System due to Defendants' actions, the effect Defendants' actions have had on employee productivity and morale, the security measures St. Luke's has been forced to take to protect its building, its staff, and its patients from the ongoing threats caused by Defendants, and the overall effect Defendants' actions have had on the day-to-day operations of the hospital.

Mr. Roth will testify about the personal effect the Defendants' actions have had on him and his family. Mr. Roth is expected to present evidence on the impact the Defendants' conduct has had on the health system's ability to fulfill its mission and its day-to-day operations.

Some of Mr. Roth's testimony will rely on his expertise and will include testimony expressing an expert opinion, including the following:

1. The health system's mission and the need to operate in an economically efficient way in order to fulfill that mission.
2. The health system's response to the threat posed by Defendants, including the need to lockdown and divert patients to other alternative health care providers on March 15, 2022, the need to implement "incident command" during and after the March 2022 protests, the need to monitor and deal with crowds of Defendants' followers, the need to take steps to protect providers and staff including the need to remove staff and provider profiles from the health system's website, the need to expend resources on public relations support to mitigate damages and correct misconceptions, and the need to increase security due to the threat posed by the Defendants including the need to add security personnel and make infrastructure improvements.

3. The health system experienced operational disruption due to Defendants' false statements and actions. The health system was required to divert staff and executives from their job responsibilities to deal with the security threat. Patients were prevented from obtaining needed care. Staff questioned their willingness to continue serving in their roles out of concern for their safety. And recruits were dissuaded from accepting jobs with St. Luke's Health System.
4. The health system suffered reputational and financial harm due to Defendants' false statements and actions, and this harm negatively impacted both the hospital and the community the hospital serves.
5. St. Luke's Health System suffered a loss of employee productivity and morale due to Defendants actions in March 2022.

D. KATE FOWLER, CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER, ST. LUKE'S HEALTH SYSTEM LTD.

Ms. Fowler is the current CFO of St. Luke's Health System and a certified public accountant. She has over 20 years' experience in accounting and finance for large organizations, including non-profit and health care institutions. Ms. Fowler oversees all accounting and finance personnel employed by St. Luke's Health System. She monitors and analyzes the finances of, and financial impacts to, the health system and reports directly to Mr. Roth, the St. Luke's Health System CEO, and also provides reporting to the St. Luke's Health System Board of Directors. In the course of her job responsibilities, she has become, and remains, familiar with the health system's accounting processes, financial data, and the economic harm suffered by the health system due to Defendants' disruptions and intimidation.

Ms. Fowler has a BA in Accounting and Business Administration from the College of Idaho and an MBA from Northwest Nazarene University. She began her career as an Auditor for a bank, then Senior Consultant for an accounting firm. Ms. Fowler then transitioned into management positions with Ernst & Young for over five years. Her career then took her into the medical field where she served as a Controller / Director, Health Information Management, transitioning into Chief Financial Officer at West Valley Medical Center. She started employment with St. Luke's Health System in 2015, where she first served as Finance Administrator – West Region, then Finance Administrator – Provider Operations. Her next position was Vice President Operational Finance. Ms. Fowler's current position is SVP, Chief Financial Officer. Ms. Fowler is expected to present evidence on the subject matter of the financial impact to St. Luke's Health System due to Defendants' conduct (the March 2022 disruptions at the Boise and Meridian Emergency Departments and ongoing threat Defendants perpetuate).

Some of Ms. Fowler's testimony will rely on her expertise and will include testimony expressing an expert opinion, including the following:

1. St. Luke's Health System suffered economic losses due to Defendants' March 2022 disruptions at St. Luke's Boise and Meridian campuses. The health system lost revenue due to increased canceled patient appointments and delayed care in numbers far higher than the normal rate of cancelation.
2. The health system has increased security due to the Defendants' disruptions in March 2022 and the ongoing threats, harassment and smear campaign in which Defendants have engaged. These increases in security include infrastructure improvements, installation and licensing of access software, and added security personnel.

3. The data underlying retained expert Dennis Reinstein's report setting forth economic damages is reliable, accurate, and properly supports the damages sought.

E. C.P. "ABBEY" ABBONDANDOLO, SENIOR DIRECTOR OF SECURITY, ST. LUKE'S HEALTH SYSTEM, LTD.

Mr. Abbondandolo is the Senior Director of Security for St. Luke's Health System in Boise, Idaho, and has over 40 years' experience in security operations, including in law enforcement working for a major police department and as head of security for a major hospital in Houston, Texas. Mr. Abbondandolo oversees all security personnel employed by St. Luke's Health System, directs and manages St. Luke's Threat Assessment Team, monitors and analyzes security risks, and designs and implements security protocols. In the course of his job responsibilities, Mr. Abbondandolo has become, and remains, familiar with the health system's security response and security operations, and the economic harm related to security that the hospital system suffered due to Defendants' disruptions and intimidation.

Mr. Abbondandolo is expected to present evidence on the subject matter of the operational and financial impact from a security standpoint to St. Luke's Health System due to Defendants' conduct (the March 2022 disruptions at the Boise campus and Meridian Emergency Departments and ongoing threat Defendants perpetuate). Mr. Abbondandolo will also testify about how Defendants' threats have been managed, during March 2022, and through the present. He will testify about security policies and practices.

Some of Mr. Abbondandolo's testimony will rely on his expertise and will include testimony expressing an expert opinion, including the following:

1. St. Luke's Health System was forced to invest substantial sums of money in additional security measures in order to defend itself, its staff, and its patients against the ongoing threat posed by Defendants. These additional security measures include increased security personnel and new security infrastructure.
2. The threat posed by Defendants was real and was substantial. It presented a real and present danger to the safety of patients and staff. There were several hundred protestors that gathered outside the Boise hospital, many of which were armed. A nationwide protest phone call campaign was organized by Defendants. External law enforcement agencies, including the Boise Police Department, the Idaho State Police Department, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation advised on and/or helped mitigate the threat, but that was not enough to eliminate the threat or prevent a breach of the hospital.
3. The hospital system was required to divert attention and resources to manage the risks posed by Defendants, meaning that regular and important work was delayed or cancelled.
4. The additional security measures the hospital system invested in were necessary in order to combat the threat posed by Defendants and to keep the hospital system's facilities safe for staff, patients, and the community.
5. The additional security measures would not have been needed but for the threat posed by Defendants.
6. Prior to the events giving rise to the lawsuit, the hospital system's security measures were sufficient for responding to the threats the hospital faced and were on par with what other similarly situated hospital systems were doing in regard to security. The hospital system had successfully responded to protests in the past, most notably the protests related to the COVID-19 pandemic, and it had successfully mitigated and eliminated threats posed by combative individuals. However, the threat posed by Defendants exceeded all previous threats, was beyond what any hospital system such as St. Luke's could reasonably prepare for, and created the need for additional security resources.

7. St. Luke's Health System has and follows reasonable policies, procedures, or practices relating to security training, security operations, and emergency response.

F. DENNIS MESAROS, VICE PRESIDENT OF POPULATION HEALTH, ST. LUKE'S HEALTH SYSTEM

Mr. Mesaros is the Vice President of Population Health for St. Luke's Health System, and he serves as the regional operational leader for St. Luke's Regional Medical Center, St. Luke's Elmore Medical Center, and St. Luke's McCall Medical Center. Mr. Mesaros oversees quality of care, patient outcomes, patient experience, stewardship, and the safety and wellbeing of staff and patients, and he is occasionally called upon to respond to high level emergency situations and events that impact hospital operations. In the course of his job responsibilities, Mr. Mesaros has become, and remains, familiar with the health system's emergency response procedures, patient care policies, practices and procedures, and facility operations.

Mr. Mesaros has a Bachelor of Arts in Economics from the University of Maryland College Park, and a master's degree in Public Administration, Health Policy and Management from Seton Hall University. He was formally trained in emergency management through the Federal Emergency Management Agency. Mr. Mesaros has over thirty years of employment in management and administration of health systems including the MetroHealth System, QualChoice Health Plan, The Lewin Group, Holy Cross Hospital, and Providence Centralia Hospital. He has been the Site Administrator at St. Luke's Health System for over eight years. In this position he has direct oversight for all patient care and facility operations.

Mr. Mesaros is expected to testify about St. Luke's actions taken during and after the March 2022 disruptions by Defendants.

Some of Mr. Mesaros's testimony will rely on his expertise and will include testimony expressing an expert opinion, including the following:

1. St. Luke's Health System's suffered operational harm due to Defendants' conduct (the March 2022 disruptions at the Boise and Meridian Emergency Departments, the nationwide phone protest, and the ongoing threat Defendants perpetuate).
2. The health system's policies, procedures, and practices relating to emergency response and DHW interventions. These policies, procedures, and practices are reasonable and within the applicable standard of care.
3. In accordance with DHW and police guidelines and advice, the hospital system effectively and competently implemented a safety plan to allow the Infant's parents to stay informed of the Infant's treatment and progress and to visit the Infant while the Infant was receiving care at St. Luke's Boise.
4. Defendants' actions posed a threat to the caregivers and prevented emergency medical crews from transporting patients to St. Luke's Boise.
5. The hospital system was forced to take steps to limit exposure of the pediatric care team to protect their safety, including removing ID badges, pictures, and names from documentation. These steps were needed because of the threat posed by Defendants.

G. RACHEL THOMAS, MD

Dr. Thomas is a physician with Emergency Medicine of Idaho, which contracts with St. Luke's. She solely works at St. Luke's emergency departments. She has extensive experience in emergency medicine, having worked in emergency medicine for the past 12 years.

Dr. Thomas on shift the St. Luke's Meridian emergency department on the night of March 11-12, 2022. She is personally familiar with the circumstances of Ammon Bundy's trespass at the St. Luke's Meridian emergency department, the ensuing disturbances by Mr. Bundy and his followers, the circumstances in which the Infant was brought to St. Luke's Meridian for medical care, the care provided to the Infant, and the Infant's transfer to St. Luke's Boise.

Dr. Thomas is expected to testify about the disruption Mr. Bundy caused, that it was serious and threatening, and that St. Luke's Meridian emergency department responded to and mitigated the disruption. One way in which St. Luke's Meridian responded to Mr. Bundy's conduct was to put the emergency department on divert status. Dr. Thomas will testify that children are not admitted to St. Luke's Meridian and can only be admitted to the children's hospital in Boise.

Some of Dr. Thomas's testimony will rely on her expertise and will include testimony expressing an expert opinion, including the following:

1. The medical condition of the Infant upon arrival at St. Luke's Meridian emergency department on the night of March 11-12, 2022. She will testify regarding her opinion that the Infant needed the medical evaluation and treatment that the Infant received at St. Luke's and that the Infant was severely malnourished.

2. St. Luke's Health System's practices and procedures regarding admission, diagnoses, and treatment, and the hospital's reporting requirements. She will testify that, as it relates to the care she provided, she properly followed all relevant practices, procedures, and reporting categories relating to the Infant. She will also testify that, while the Infant exited the emergency department through a different exit (not the exit to the ambulance bay), this irregularity was necessitated by Mr. Bundy's followers blocking the ambulance bay.
3. The Infant needed medical intervention because of the Infant's severe condition at the time of admittance. Dr. Thomas will testify regarding her opinion that her evaluation of the Infant upon arrival at the emergency department and the Infant's medical records indicated there was a serious risk to the Infant.
4. The Infant was medically stable for transport from St. Luke's Meridian to St. Luke's Boise. This means that the Infant was not likely to have a cardiac event or other catastrophic health incident while being transported from Meridian to Boise.
5. The circumstances that Mr. Bundy created—the mob of his followers blocking the ambulance bay—caused Dr. Thomas to place the emergency department on divert status, meaning that no ambulances would be routed to the St. Luke's Meridian emergency department. This decision was reasonable and prudent because there was a real threat posed by Mr. Bundy and his followers. In addition to blocking the ambulance bay, the Bundy mob were shouting that they would take the Infant back and that those in the emergency department were kidnappers and child traffickers.

6. The care provided to the Infant at St. Luke's Meridian emergency department was competent and in the best interests of the Infant and met the applicable standard of care.
7. Dr. Thomas will testify regarding the medical records that she generated or referred to relating to the medical care provided to the Infant. She may also refer to and testify regarding other medical records relating the Infant's care and condition.

H. JAMIE PRICE, MD

Dr. Price is a pediatric hospitalist at St. Luke's Regional Medical Center and serves as the current elected Chair of the Department of Pediatrics for St. Luke's. She has 12 years' experience as a pediatric hospitalist and 15 years' experience in pediatric care. Dr. Price has extensive experience in caring for children admitted to the hospital for neglect and abuse and in caring for children who are experiencing failure to thrive. In the course of her job responsibilities, Dr. Price has become, and remains, familiar with the health system's practices, policies, and procedures regarding admission, treatment, and overall care of infants, children, and adolescents.

Dr. Price has a bachelor's degree in Microbiology with Honors in the Liberal Arts from The Ohio State University and a medical degree from the University of Toledo College of Medicine. She completed a pediatric residency at Wake Forest University. Dr. Price is actively involved in pediatric education, having received the Pediatric Teaching Excellence award in 2018-2019. She is Board Certified in Pediatrics and Pediatric Hospitalist Medicine by the American Board of Pediatrics.

In addition to testifying about the care Dr. Price provided to the Infant, Dr. Price is expected to present evidence on the subject matter of the Infant's condition, care, and treatment received during the Infant's admission to St. Luke's Boise from March 12-15, 2022, the communications between St. Luke's and the Infant's parents, the effect the protests had on the hospital system's staff and patients, and the falsity of Defendants' statements concerning the care provided the Infant and the Infant's medical condition. She is also expected to testify that the Infant was not vaccinated by St. Luke's at any time.

Some of Dr. Price's testimony will rely on her expertise, including the following:

2. St. Luke's Health System's practices and procedures regarding admission, diagnoses, and treatment, and the hospital's reporting requirements. She will testify that, as it relates to the care she provided, she properly followed all relevant practices, procedures, and reporting categories relating to the Infant.
3. The diagnoses, treatment plan, and care provided to the Infant was competent and in the best interests of the Infant. The Infant suffered from severe malnutrition and dehydration which, if left untreated, could have had serious heath and development consequences. The Infant's condition had deteriorated between the Infant's discharge from St. Luke's on March 4, 2022 and the Infant's admission on March 12, 2022. The Infant needed medical intervention because of the Infant's severe condition at the time of admittance.

4. The Infant's treatment was hampered by the Infant's parents' refusal to provide basic medical history about the Infant and failure to properly characterize prior medical care received by the Infant.
5. Dr. Price will testify regarding the medical records that she generated or referred to relating to the medical care provided to the Infant. Dr. Price may also refer to and testify regarding other medical records relating to the Infant's care and condition.
6. Dr. Price will testify that all aspects of the care (including examination, evaluation, diagnosis, and treatment) that she provided to the Infant met the applicable standard of care.
7. Dr. Price will testify that the examination, imaging, and testing of the Infant that occurred at St. Luke's was appropriate and met the standard of care.

III. RESERVATION OF RIGHT TO SUPPLEMENT EXPERT DISCLOSURES

Discovery in this matter is ongoing and the Plaintiffs' reserve the right to supplement these expert disclosures and opinions as new information becomes available. The Plaintiffs' reserve the right to call any other expert witness identified by any other party, as well as the right to supplement, amend, and modify the foregoing based upon additional evidence and information developed as discovery progresses, consistent with Court's scheduling Orders and the Idaho Rules of Civil Procedure.

IV. RESERVATION OF RIGHT TO CALL REBUTTAL EXPERTS

The Plaintiffs reserve the right to call rebuttal expert witnesses at trial, and to call any experts identified or disclosed by Defendants. To the extent that Defendants may disclose expert witnesses, including rebuttal expert witnesses, the Plaintiffs expressly reserve the right to amend, supplement, or change its expert disclosures and to disclose rebuttal expert witnesses, if necessary, to rebut testimony by experts disclosed by Defendants and/or called by Defendants at trial. Upon receipt of Defendants' complete expert disclosures, the Plaintiffs will determine which experts will be called to provide rebuttal testimony.

V. CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION AND CONTACT INFORMATION

Portions of this disclosure and some of the expert reports attached as Exhibits contain confidential health information of the Infant. Footers have been applied in the affected documents, reading "CONTAINS CONFIDENTIAL HEALTH INFORMATION." Documents with such footer should be protected and treated as confidential.

Contact information of the expert witnesses has been redacted for their personal safety. Moreover, any communication intended for the expert witnesses must be directed through Plaintiffs' counsel.

Red Sky Expertise

- Agency history and standing
- Broad client overview
- Principal expertise

Red Sky is an independent, WOSB- and DBE-certified public relations firm headquartered in Idaho's capital city, where we have operated since our founding in 2008.

Red Sky has helped organizations of all sizes with branding and communication strategy and execution. We've worked across industries that power the state's economy and on behalf of many of Idaho's largest employers, as well as its startups, state agencies and associations, municipalities, economic development organizations and communities.

The common thread across all our efforts and engagements is a need to generate awareness with the audiences who matter most to each client, whether that is a statewide campaign or media and public speaking training and support for individuals.

Now in our second decade of operation, Red Sky is comprised of nine award-winning communication professionals with comprehensive expertise in strategic communication, including: public relations, integrated marketing, influencer engagement, internal communications, public affairs, social media, media relations and content development.

The nature of our business requires a deep understanding of message, from knowing what resonates with specific audiences to leveraging the right channels to reach them. Fifteen years of agency-specific experience in addition to the personal experiences of our team and partners across media, marketing, research, corporate communication and crisis communication is the basis of the following analysis.

Summary Findings

1. The defendants engaged in an intentional, calculated media and awareness campaign designed to damage the reputations of St. Luke's, Mr. Roth, Dr. Erickson, and Nurse Practitioner Jungman and maximize the reach of their message for various gains to themselves, their networks, causes and affiliated organizations.

2. The defendants leveraged a well-connected network and conspiracy- or grievance-based narratives embraced by that network to further amplify their message and impact reputations. Using remarkable message discipline with all proxies, the defendants conflated St. Luke's and its employees with events and perceived conspiracies outside of St. Luke's influence or control.

3. The defendants took specific steps to disparage St. Luke's and the employees involved in the incident with an assortment of mistruths, intended to impact their business and livelihoods by scaring patients, prospective patients and families from using their services.

4. A multi-year reputation campaign will be required to restore the reputations of St. Luke's, Dr. Erickson and NP Jungman in the public eye, given the extensive damages inflicted by the defendants.

As additional information or testimony becomes available, it may be appropriate to revise or supplement these opinions, analyses, or conclusions stated herein and provide testimony accordingly.

Conclusion #1: The defendants engaged in an intentional, calculated media and awareness campaign designed to damage the reputation of St. Luke's, Mr. Roth, Dr. Erickson, and Nurse Practitioner Tracy Jungman and maximize the reach of their message for various gains to themselves, their networks, causes and affiliated organizations.

Overview

The intent of any awareness and engagement campaign is to maximize your reach to as broad of an audience as possible. The most effective way to accomplish this is to leverage multiple communication and amplification channels that complement and build on one another, with the intent of driving this audience back to a website or other party-controlled platform to convert them into customers, subscribers, donors, followers, advocates, voters or an equivalent metric of success that benefits the parties promoting the message.

Based on our analysis, the defendants' communication efforts have all of the core elements of what we would consider a sustained awareness campaign. There is strong, emotional language designed to prompt attention and response from their target audience with clear calls to action. Those calls to action seek a variety of benefits, as detailed by a post from March 17, 2022 on the Ammon Bundy-led People's Rights website that cross-references Diego Rodriguez's FreedomMan.org platform. The asks range from donating money to joining protests to helping the defendants obtain media interviews to spreading the message via social media to calling and emailing the Idaho Department of Health & Welfare to exert pressure.[1]

We've seen consistency throughout this campaign of similar asks and calls to action, which continue nearly a year after the initial incident and the date that the infant was returned to his family. Based on this extended timeframe, and the evolving attacks on the reputation of St. Luke's and its staff well past the Infant's return to his parents, it appears that the defendants are intentionally sustaining this awareness campaign due to the personal and organizational benefits they continue to receive.

For this campaign, Diego Rodriguez, Ammon Bundy and their affiliated organizations used the following channels and approach to maximize the spread of their message:

a. Sustained traditional media coverage to broaden their audience reach.
b. Appearances on sympathetic audio and video streaming platforms to legitimize the cause and maximize spread among like-minded audiences.
c. Understanding of polarizing terminology to maximize outrage across all platforms, particularly social media, to further expand reach through shares, comments, and other forms of engagement.
d. Consistent promotion to their owned online platforms with the intent of improving their personal perception and reputation, broadening their audience (leads), and converting them to followers, consumers of their products and/or swaying them for political favor.

a. Findings: sustained traditional media coverage

Traditionally, media stories are driven by a source of conflict, further amplified by levels of celebrity involvement, and cemented by compelling visuals. Despite Rodriguez noting[2] on multiple public appearances that an independent health care worker unaffiliated with St. Luke's was the one who called Child Protective Services on the parents of the child in question, decisions were made to stage a protest at the St. Luke's in Meridian, Idaho on March 12, 2022. This is a highly visible area in the Treasure Valley, between two of the busiest intersections in Ada County[3]. This made for a compelling visual for media coverage, which was further amplified by the anti-government personality and Idaho gubernatorial candidate Ammon Bundy. Hours later, he would be arrested for misdemeanor trespassing for refusing to leave the premises. This occurred a day after officially filing to run for governor and days before the beginning of a separate trial stemming from a repeat trespassing charge at the Idaho State Capitol[4]. Each instance generated media coverage for Ammon Bundy.

Disruptions continued, including an armed mob gathering at St. Luke's in downtown Boise in the days surrounding March 15, when the facility was forced to go into lockdown and divert emergency patients elsewhere.

These two instances – Bundy's arrest and the St Luke's lockdown – generated significant media coverage within and beyond Idaho and established a media interest that continues today.

Methodology

Red Sky started by identifying all media coverage involving the core terms and variations of "St. Luke's" and "Ammon Bundy" or "Diego Rodriguez" as well as "Baby Cyrus" between the first media event on March 12, 2022 through March 7, 2023. We used Muck Rack to conduct the bulk of this analysis, which is one of the industry's most accurate media databases with media coverage analysis, keyword tracking, media outlet website traffic, general news monitoring and reporting functionality. As needed, we augmented these capabilities with Nexis Newsdesk, which also provides extensive media monitoring and analytics capabilities. It is also the leading resource of licensed media stories that other platforms use.

Collectively, before additional filtering, this analysis found more than 1,000 combined online articles and broadcast clips in slightly less than a yearlong timeframe. Because media stories can be syndicated, particularly by national entities such as the Associated Press, the same or mostly similar story can run at media outlets in several, or every, state across the country. This is of particular benefit to the Bundy-led People's Rights Network, who recruit members from every state.

To provide a more conservative analysis of the spread, Red Sky removed the bulk of these duplicate articles identified by the databases unless they were carried within Idaho or neighboring states. With this refinement, the media coverage generated by the defendants' actions resulted in:

- 403 articles published by media outlets with a combined audience (unique visitors per month to media sites) of 2.51 billion people.
- 204 broadcast clips, primarily television.

- A total viewer engagement of 54,608, which helped spread news further.[5]

The value of this media coverage to the defendants can be calculated in different ways, and should serve more as a range to consider when evaluating the awareness gains of Bundy, Rodriguez and their organizations.

One longtime measurement process used by the public relations industry is called advertising value equivalency (AVE). It is calculated based on what a media story would cost if it were an advertisement of similar stature. This is a much-debated measurement tool, as an audience's perception of a media story is different than an advertisement where the buyer completely controls the message. It also doesn't account for variables involved with purchasing ads, such as bulk discounts or packages, among other considerations. That said, AVE has been used for several decades to inform value of media coverage.

The equivalent advertising gain achieved by Diego Rodriguez, Ammon Bundy and their affiliated organizations from the media coverage was calculated using a typical AVE model provided by Muck Rack. This calculation amounts to $23,171,917.98[6] in advertising equivalency.

An alternative way to measure the impact and respective awareness and reputation gains to the defendants is to apply a different formula based on averages across industries of the effort and investment it takes to acquire a customer / supporter. Rodriguez, as a founder of a marketing agency[7], is likely familiar with these measurement processes.

This model takes some conservative assumptions into play, based on the audience reach above and industry standards:

- .05% of the full media audience of 2.5 billion actively sought and visited either FreedomMan.org or PeoplesRights.org after reading one or more articles.
- Of that audience, only 1% converted to donors, members or followers. Per MailChimp, a leading email marketing and automation tool, "a 'good' website conversion rate falls between 2% and 5% across all industries."[8]
- Assuming 50% of these conversions pledged an average annual donation of $20, that would be a net benefit of $125,000.

Media views converted to web traffic		Web conversion rate	Audience	Annual Donation (50% of audience)	Benefit Gained
Low (.05%)	1,250,000	1%	12,500	$20	$125,000
	1,250,000	1%	12,500	$50	$312,500

Medium (.10%)	2,500,000	1%	50,000	$20	$500,000
	2,500,000	1%	50,000	$50	$1,250,000

[5] Defined by Muck Rack as the number of times a link was shared, commented on or liked on social media networks, primarily Facebook
[6] AVE measures value of a media article based on the equivalent cost of placing an advertisement with the outlet. Per Muck Rack, this is calculated using an industry standard formula of unique visitors per month (UVM) times 0.025 (the industry standard estimated percent of how many visitors to an outlet view a given article) times 0.37 (industry standard dollar value per visitor).
[7] https://powermarketing.agency/about/team/
[8] https://mailchimp.com/marketing-glossary/conversion-rates/

High (.15%)	3,750,000	1%	112,500	$20	$1,125,000
	3,750,000	1%	112,500	$50	$2,812,500

Red Sky also evaluated media coverage that specifically referenced Dr. Erickson or NP Jungman, which are included within the totals above. A specific breakout of these articles shows:

- 10 total articles, the bulk of which are Idaho-based outlets.
- A combined audience (unique visitors per month to media sites) of 1.87 million people.
- A total viewer engagement of 290, which measures the spread of news or engagement on social media.[9]
- An advertising equivalency of $172,711.67[10] in media coverage.

b. Findings: Appearances on sympathetic audio and video streaming platforms to legitimize the cause and maximize spread among like-minded audiences.

Based on the count listed on the defendant-owned platform of freedomman.org and additional research, Diego Rodriguez or Ammon Bundy have appeared, or been referenced, on 56 shows between March 12, 2022 and February 6, 2023, some of which are repeat appearances. Shows range from local Idaho entities such as the Kevin Miller Show and Hoff Time Report with Wayne Hoffman, to nationally known, politically-focused platforms such as Diamond and Silk, InfoWars and the Stew Peters Show.

Different than the broader audience reach of traditional media coverage, each of these appearances reached more targeted audiences who are arguably more engaged with the messaging of the defendants. Multiple entities regularly speak to, or have guests, that promote similar theories involving medical kidnapping, child trafficking and CPS involvement in both. The Stew Peters Show, in particular, has a history of directing its listeners to target hospitals and apply "social pressure" which resulted in "tens of thousands of angry phone calls" directed at health care workers.[11]

Methodology

To quantify the potential added audience reach of these appearances by Mr. Rodriguez, an analysis was conducted to determine video views and audio listens as applicable by going to each respective source's platform. Where metrics were not available, audience metrics were sourced from Rephonic, an independent source of data tracking specific to the podcast industry with an extensive database. This analysis found:

- A total of 216,989 views or listens from 35 shows
- Of 20 shows without available views or listens, a combined audience of 35,300

[9] Defined by Muck Rack as the number of times a link was shared, commented on or liked on social media networks, primarily Facebook

[10] AVE measures value of a media article based on the equivalent cost of placing an advertisement with the outlet. Per Muck Rack, this is calculated using an industry standard formula of unique visitors per month (UVM) times 0.025 (the industry standard estimated percent of how many visitors to an outlet view a given article) times 0.37 (industry standard dollar value per visitor).

[11] https://www.bloomberg.com/news/articles/2022-10-06/podcasts-spur-listeners-to-swamp-health-workers-with-angry-calls).

- Consistent social media promotion and backlinks to Freedomman.org[12] as well as verbal references to the defendants and their preferred platforms

Note: these figures are likely underrepresented as some podcasts post across multiple channels with limited tracking options. Additionally, one show not counted in the views, listens or audiences is due to their content and channel being terminated by YouTube. See appendix for full list.

c. Findings: Understanding of polarizing terminology to maximize outrage across all platforms, particularly social media, to further expand reach through shares, comments, and other forms of engagement.

As founder and President of the Power Marketing Agency, Mr. Rodriguez proclaims his agency's expertise in developing and refining a message for specific audiences, claiming "our customers at the Power Marketing Agency can usually get 4 to 10 times more response from their advertising efforts by having us simply re-write the content so that it's actually effective."[13] The Power Marketing Agency also sells "a system designed to develop and automate an online marketing program that utilizes online videos; captures leads and delivers automatic follow-ups through email, text messaging, and direct-to-voicemail messages; drives visibility online for relevant searches, and incorporates a company's online presence into their overall marketing program."[14]

Rodriguez's expertise with message development, combined with an understanding of how the communication ecosystem rewards and amplifies specific terms, strongly influenced the campaign of disparagement against St. Luke's while benefiting his own profile, affiliated businesses, organizations, and campaigns. Polarizing terms, including "medical kidnapping", "child trafficking", "human trafficking", "child sex trafficking" were used by design to inspire outrage as Rodriguez applied his knowledge and leveraged a playbook tapping into well-established conspiracy theories. Rodriguez would eventually evolve this to include polarizing terms surrounding LGBTQ rights such as drag shows, transgender surgery, preferred pronouns and other divisive terms while claiming "St. Luke's makes big money off of the transgender agenda." [15]

This intentional, sustained and expanding use of polarizing terms is designed for audiences to pick sides and those termed as "conflict entrepreneurs" to join and amplify the cause as it drives additional awareness, engagement and a variety of benefits to all parties involved. These tactics opened additional channels to further the defendants' disparagement campaign, as detailed further in finding #2. They crafted an evolving narrative laden with language and accusations designed to spark fear, anger and outrage – an echo chamber of amplification that serves to both defame others and to drive personal fame. Because as Oscar Wilde said, "There is only one thing in life worse than being talked about, and that is not being talked about." Bundy and Rodriguez align strongly with this sentiment based on their actions to generate publicity for themselves and their organizations. Views and clicks are the new currency to show relevance and being talked about is key to the livelihoods, and they acted accordingly.

d. Findings: Consistent promotion to their owned online platforms with the intent of improving perception and reputation, broadening their audience (leads), and converting them to followers, consumers of their products and/or swaying them for political favor.

Methodology

Red Sky analyzed social media platforms, news sites, blogs, and publicly available online sources to provide an analysis of the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative and any potential connections with Diego Rodriguez, Ammon Bundy and their related platforms including FreedomMan and the Ammon Bundy for Governor campaign. The purpose of this analysis is to quantify the spread and reach of the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative and how it impacted key players through social media, news articles, and websites owned by key individuals. Key individuals include St. Luke's Hospital and its employees, Child Protective Services (CPS), Diego Rodriguez, Ammon Bundy, and their supporters.

Red Sky's team drew upon its market research experience to quantify the spread and reach of the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative:

- How many people saw the narrative (i.e., impressions)
- How many people interacted with the narrative through likes, comments, shares, etc. (i.e., engagement)
- How key players (and their media presence) were impacted

Note: Some terms that follow may be confusing to those without a marketing background. Please see appendix for key terms and definitions.

Red Sky utilized a variety of social media pages and websites for this analysis and focused primarily on the aforementioned key players. For a complete list of the sources used throughout this analysis, see appendix. Each social page and website was monitored according to their coverage of the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative. All posts, tweets, and news articles used in this analysis are verified to ensure they brought attention to the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative.

This analysis uses key terms (e.g. engagement, impressions). These key terms are defined in the appendix. References are cited throughout with footnotes.

Analysis Tools

This study uses two social media and website analytics tools. They are Spyfu[16] and Brandwatch[17].

SpyFu

Spyfu is an analytics software that allows you to search for any website domain (e.g. www.freedomman.org) and see the keywords it ranks for in the last 16 years. Keywords are ideas and topics that define what your website content is about and can be searched in a search engine such as Google.[18] An example of a keyword is 'grocery store'. Keywords can also be brand names, such as Facebook.

Brandwatch is a social media analytics tool that tracks billions of conversations happening online daily, including conversations happening on blogs, news, forums, videos, Twitter, reviews, images, etc. It allows companies to understand consumer insights and trends, conversations, influencers, and brand perception (i.e., how consumers feel about a brand).

Red Sky conducted queries to collect and analyze social data (i.e., posts, articles, comments, shares, likes, and tweets). Queries find specific data by using specific keywords or criteria. Queries also help automate data management tasks, summarize data, and allow for statistical calculations and analysis. Red Sky utilized Brandwatch through its Buzzsumo[19] and Consumer Research[20] tools to conduct this analysis.

BuzzSumo is a cloud-based platform that gives insight into engagement, content, and outreach across social media and searches.

Consumer Research collects data and gives access to deep consumer insights from 100 million online sources and over 1.4 trillion posts.[21] Consumer Research utilizes queries that can accomplish a few different tasks.

For this analysis, "Brandwatch" will be used throughout this analysis rather than speaking to each tool (Buzzsumo and Consumer Research). The following terms were used for queries in Brandwatch:

- "Baby Cyrus"
- "Save Baby Cyrus"
- "Save Cyrus"

Analysis

This analysis consists of three sections: Freedomman.org, Ammon Bundy-owned sites, and Facebook. These three sections represent the majority of the spread and reach of the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative. The findings for each section are:

- Freedomman.org has seen increased engagement and search engine optimization performance because of the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative
- Ammon Bundy, his websites, and social media account have seen increased engagement because of the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative
- Facebook pages and profiles related to the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative have seen increased engagement.

FreedomMan.org

FreedomMan.org is a blog by Diego Rodriguez, Baby Cyrus' grandfather. The following is a summary of the site:

"The purpose of FreedomMan Press is to advance the cause of Freedom, Liberty, and the founding principles of the United States of America. To accomplish this, it is our priority to eliminate the scourge of voter ignorance and apathy through mass information, education, and activism."[22]

On March 12, 2022, the day that Baby Cyrus was evaluated and transferred to the pediatric floor of St. Luke's Health System (the alleged kidnapping), Diego Rodriguez started coverage for the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative on FreedomMan.org.

From March 12 through November 14, 2022, Diego Rodriguez posted more than 60 blog posts about the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative, alleged kidnapping, and multiple agencies' involvement in it, including St. Luke's Health System. To date, Diego Rodriguez continues to post about the narrative nearly a year after the events that took place on March 12, 2022.

In these 60+ posts, Diego Rodriguez makes the following claims:

- Refers to CPS as a "state-subsidized child trafficking ring"
- Accuses St. Luke's Health System of "medical kidnapping"
- States his grandson (Baby Cyrus) was "forcefully (stolen) away from (his) parents at the point of a gun"[23]

"Police, doctors, CPS, the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, and Judge Laurie Fortier all worked together to violate rights, destroy a family, and physically and emotionally harm the lives of innocent citizens"[24]

Diego Rodriguez's viewpoint can be understood in his blog post on Freedomman.org titled, "The True Enemy of America".

FreedomMan's Increased Engagement

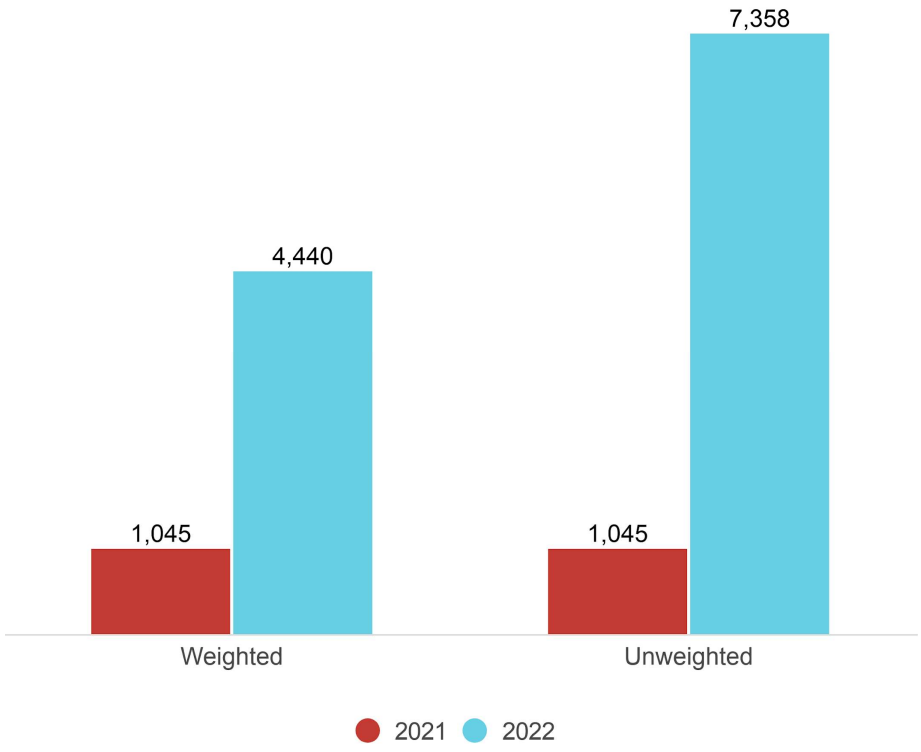

Once Diego Rodriguez started covering the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative, FreedomMan.org's engagement increased by 325% compared to his cumulative engagement in 2021. Engagement data is calculated by adding the cumulative number of likes, shares, comments, and re-tweets but does not include the number of views (i.e., times the post was visible on the site). Red Sky calculated engagement across all FreedomMan's Baby Cyrus-related 60+ posts and all 36 blog posts from 2021.

The weighted engagement across FreedomMan is 1,045 engagement for 2021 and 4,440 engagement for 2022 (325% increase). Engagement is weighted to balance as if there had been an equal number of posts between the two groups. The unweighted engagement is 1,045 engagement for 2021 and 7,358 engagement for 2022 (604% increase).

Note: Engagement is calculated by totaling the number of likes, comments, and shares on each published post. Share data was unable to be pulled for FreedomMan.org. Figure 1 only includes engagement via 'likes' and comments. Weight is calculated by dividing the total number of posts in 2021 by the number of "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative-related posts in 2022. This was then multiplied by the total engagement number in 2022. Total engagement in 2022 may be underrepresented due to new blog posts and new interactions occurring.

FreedomMan's Increased Search Engine Optimization Performance

Red Sky conducted website analytics on FreedomMan.org to determine its search engine optimization performance. Search engine optimization performance is the ranking that a website has in the search engine (e.g., Google) search results. For example, when a person searches for something in Google, a ranking is how far towards the top that website is displayed in the search results. The higher the search results the better for the website.

SpyFu was used to conduct website analytics. SpyFu tracks different websites to see every place they've shown up on a Google search. This includes every keyword bought on Google Ads (an advertising platform) and in different areas where keywords show up online. An organic keyword is a keyword used to attract traffic through search engine optimization ("SEO").

FreedomMan.org analytics show that many of the organic keywords involving the theme of 'cps corruption' would result in a backlink back to Freedomman.org – thus, acting as a form of advertising and bringing attention to the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative and Freedomman.org.

Some of the organic keywords that were found in this analysis include:

- Freedom man pac
- Diego rodriguez boise
- Freedom man idaho
- Judge laurie fortier
- Laurie fortier idaho
- Idaho cps laws
- Cps idaho falls
- Idaho cps corruption
- Nancy shaffer exposes cps
- Cps boise idaho
- Cps idaho
- Cps twin falls idaho
- Aggravated circumstances cps
- Idaho cps reporting
- Corrupt cps
- Cps in idaho
- Cps corruption stories
- Fake cps worker kidnapping

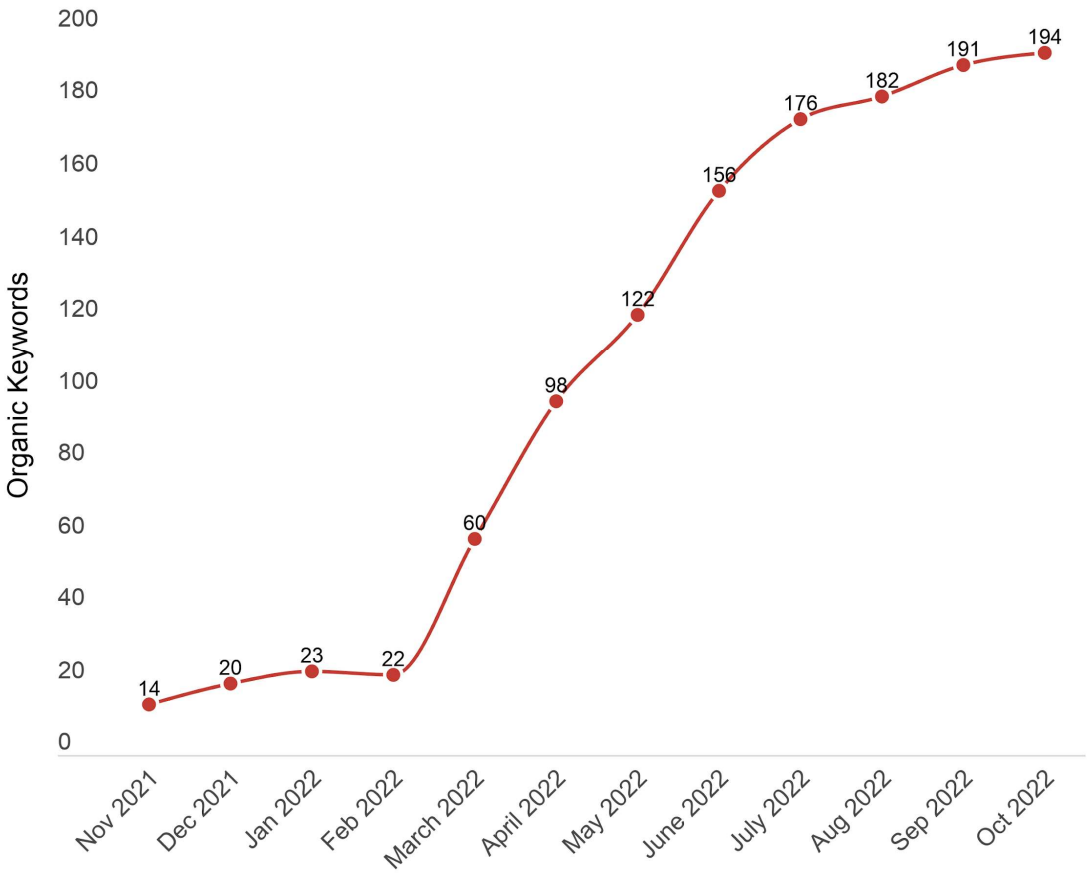

In Figure 2, organic keyword usage increases by nearly 3x from February to March. This increase persists through October 2022. The average number of organic keywords from December 2021 to February 2022 was approximately 20 organic keywords. This increased to 60 organic keywords in March 2022 and continued to climb to 194 organic keywords in October.[25]

This keyword increase indicates that FreedomMan.org was showing up in search engine (e.g. Google) searches more often than previously. FreedomMan's substantial growth in website traffic correlates with the Baby Cyrus narrative. Keywords drove traffic to Freedomman.org and brought attention to the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative.

The dramatic increase in keywords in March is likely due to the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative. Keywords such as 'judge laurie fortier,' 'laurie fortier idaho,' 'cps boise idaho,' diego rodriguez boise,' and 'freedom man idaho' are directly related to the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative. Additionally, the more generic keywords (e.g. 'Corrupt cps,' 'cps corruption stories,' etc) still resulted in FreedomMan.org, bringing more attention to the Baby Cyrus case and more traffic to the website.

Note: Figure 2 data is collected using SpyFu and a query of freedomman.org. Organic Keywords are keywords used to attract traffic through search engine optimization ("SEO").

In addition to an increase in keywords, Freedomman.org has seen an increase in SEO clicks. An SEO click is when a page receives traffic from a Google organic (non-paid advertising) search result. The estimated monthly SEO clicks indicate the average number that each keyword received over the course of the month.

Red Sky's SpyFu analysis shows the average monthly SEO clicks started at three (3) from November 2021 to January 2022. February had zero clicks, but March SEO clicks rose to nine (9) and climbed to sixty (60) monthly clicks in August.

Figure 3 shows a change in March that continues to drastically improve SEO clicks as time progresses. There is a correlation between the increased traffic and the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative and timeline of events.

Note: Figure 3 data is collected using SpyFu and a query of freedomman.org. An SEO click is when a page receives traffic from a Google organic (non-paid advertising) search result.

FreedomMan.org also had an increase in SEO click value since the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative first began. SEO click value is a way to see how much value a site could credit to its SEO performance (i.e. how a website ranks in Google searches). Every keyword has an estimated SEO monetary value.

In March 2022 and April 2022, there was a cumulative value of $1,742 SEO clicks. Compared to before the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative, February 2022 only had a click value of $8.70. There is a dramatic reduction in May 2022 to $12 per click but then it regains value to a final average of $90 from July 2022 to October 2022 (see Figure 3).

The cumulative click value between March 2022 and October 2022 totals $2,221.30. See Figure 4 for the estimated monthly SEO Click Value from November 2021 to October 2022.

Note: Figure 4 data is collected using SpyFu and a query of freedomman.org. SEO click value is a way to see how much value a site could credit to its SEO performance (i.e. how a website ranks in Google searches).

FreedomMan.org benefited due to the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative. There were 56 unique backlinks (see appendix for this definition) and a correlation between the narrative and search engine optimization improvement.

Ammon Bundy

Red Sky identified at least 11 Ammon Bundy-owned sites (See appendix). Owner sites are any online property owned and controlled by a brand, such as a blog, website, or social media channels. An example of an owner site is the @realammonbundy Twitter account controlled by Ammon Bundy or the Ammon Bundy for Governor campaign.

Of the 11 Ammon Bundy-owned sites, Red Sky was unable to quantify engagement and impressions across four of them: Gab, CloutHub, Truth Social, and Rumble, due to the ethical implications of signing up for private sites. Only seven sites were available publicly: Facebook, Instagram, VoteBundy.com, Youtube, Twitter, Telegram, and Gettr. Red Sky reviewed these sites to quantify impressions and engagement.

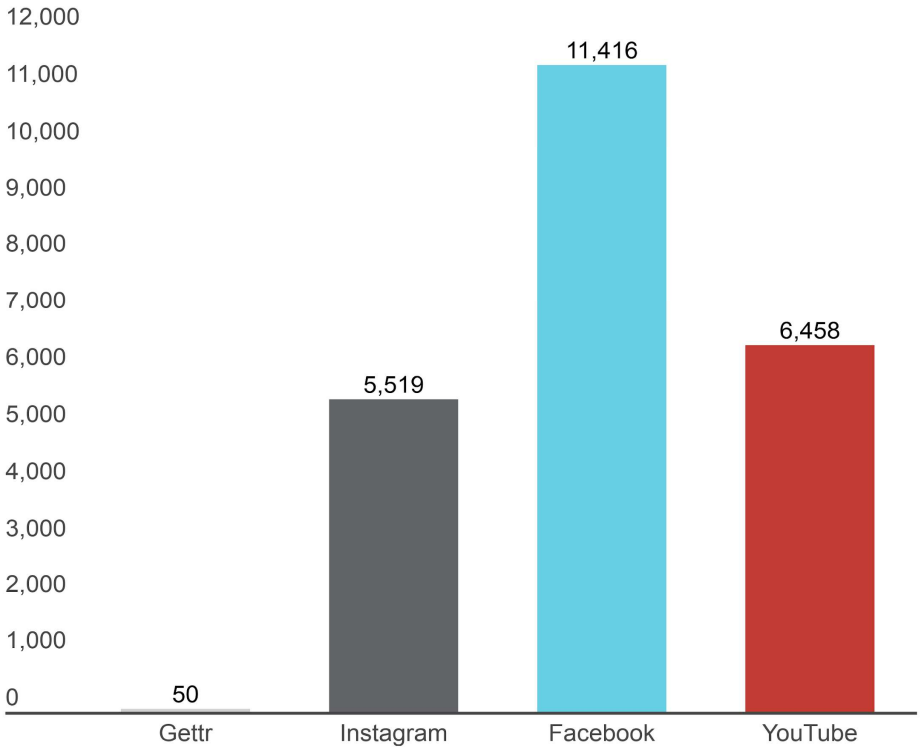

Ammon Bundy Engagement & Impressions

After compiling likes, shares, and comments, Red Sky found that these seven Ammon Bundy-owned sites (listed in appendix) generated an engagement of 23,443 related to the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative. Additionally, Figure 5 shows the number of engagements across four Ammon-owned sites between March 2022 and November 1, 2022. Engagement is calculated by totaling the number of likes, comments, and shares on each published post.

Engagements were calculated based on 28 out of 93 Ammon-owned posts related to the Baby Cyrus narrative. Because data was only available for these 28, the number of engagements is underrepresented for related links for Baby Cyrus and Ammon Bundy, as are impressions. Additionally, 33/93 Baby Cyrus (and Ammon Bundy)-related links gave access to impressions/views.

The results are as follows: Facebook is the highest driver of engagement at 11,416 (nearly half at 48.70%) for Ammon Bundy. Instagram (5,519 representing 23.54%) and YouTube (6,458 representing 27.55%) generated similar amounts of engagement. Gettr has the fewest engagement at 50 (less than 1%). On the 33/93 posts where impression data was available, there was a total of 96,336 impressions (a.k.a. views).

Note: Figure 5 only compares sites where engagement data was available. Thus, it may be underrepresented due to a lack of data access to CloutHub, Rumble, Gab, etc. Engagement is calculated by totaling the number of likes, comments, and shares on each published post. Additionally, Instagram comments were often limited/comments were shut off.*

Ammon Bundy's Increased Search Engine Optimization Performance

Organic keywords ranged between 50 - 78 keywords between the months of November 2021 through February 2022. In March, there is an increase to 92 organic keywords, peaking in May 2022 with 147. Organic keywords stay mostly consistent between May 2022 and September 2022 (Figure 6). Many keywords were directly or indirectly associated with Ammon Bundy's run for governor. However, keywords that indicate relatedness to the Baby Cyrus narrative include:

- Diego rodriguez boise
- Medical kidnapping boise
- Marissa anderson idaho
- Judge fortier ada county
- Cps corruption stories
- Welfare check idaho
- Corrupt cps
- Is the foster care system corrupt
- Why is cps so corrupt
- Judge laurie fortier
- Cps boise idaho
- Freedom fighters idaho
- Cyrus anderson
- Idaho cps corruption
- Laurie fortier idaho
- Medical kidnap
- Idaho trespassing law
- St luke's twin falls idaho phone number
- Ammon idaho news
- Mother's rights in idaho
- Freedomman org cyrus
- Idaho trespass law

Note: Figure 6 data is collected using SpyFu and a query of votebundy.com. Organic Keywords are keywords used to attract traffic through search engine optimization ("SEO").

Estimated monthly SEO clicks rose from 91 to 469 between March and May 2022. In Figure 7, there is a dramatic uptick in SEO clicks from March to May, indicating that something, whether news articles or other content of interest, caused an increase in SEO clicks. This timeline is consistent with the peak times of the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative.

In December 2021 and January 2022, the estimated, monthly SEO click value was $15.50 and peaked in March 2022 at $222 (Figure 8) This marked increase in March 2022 indicates that people were likelier to click on Bundy's website during the same time frame that the Baby Cyrus narrative was most popular. In May 2022, the click value returned to a 'normal' level (43.9) for the Votebundy.com site.

Marissa Anderson's Profile

Diego Rodriguez's daughter and mother of Cyrus, Marissa Anderson, is another key individual in the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative. Marissa Anderson also spread the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative on her personal Facebook profile page. Many of her posts link viewers to FreedomMan.org. Other content includes health updates on Baby Cyrus.

Marissa Anderson's 26 posts regarding the narrative received engagement. The total engagement was calculated across all of Marissa Anderson's Facebook posts and weighted to reflect the number of posts. Marissa Anderson received 833 weighted engagements in 2021 and 5,397 in 2022 (a 548% increase). Engagement is weighted to balance as if there had been an equal number of posts between the two groups. The unweighted engagement is 833 for 2021 and 14,032 in 2022(a 1,585% increase).

Note: Weight was calculated by dividing the total number of posts in 2021 by the number of Baby Cyrus-related posts in 2022. This was then multiplied by the total engagement number in 2022. Engagement is calculated by totaling the number of likes, comments, and shares on each published post.

Further, on November 2nd, 2022, Marissa Anderson endorsed Ammon Bundy for Governor citing her experiences with Baby Cyrus as a reason to vote for him. Red Sky found there were 69,800 views across 9 different Baby Cyrus videos that Marissa Anderson posted.

'Save Baby Cyrus' Page

On March 14th, 2022, the 'Save Baby Cyrus' Facebook page was created – two days after Cyrus' alleged kidnapping. This page generated 120 posts between its creation date and September 12, 2022. Many posts referred viewers to Freedomman.org or Marissa Anderson's health updates. Nearly all posts were focused directly on Baby Cyrus and the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative.

Across the 120 'Save Baby Cyrus' posts, the total engagement was 38,643. Five video posts drew 8,500 impressions.

- Number of likes/reactions: 31,121
- Number of comments: 3,609
- Number of shares across: 3,7834

Levi Anderson Profile
Due to his connection with Marissa Anderson, Diego Rodriguez, and as the father of Baby Cyrus, Levi Anderson's personal Facebook page is included in this analysis. Levi Anderson posted on his personal Facebook page regarding the narrative 4 times. These posts add little significance to reach and engagement overall – though these 4 posts generated more engagement than his posts in 2021.

Worthy of note, on November 2nd, 2022, Levi Anderson endorsed Ammon Bundy for Governor and used the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative as a reason to vote for Ammon. In his endorsement post, he states, "Ammon Bundy stood up for my family, and he will do the same for all of Idaho!"[26]

Overall "Save Baby Cyrus" Reach
Red Sky conducted a query using Brandwatch. Based on Brandwatch query results, the reach of the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative is estimated to be at least 2,635,413 unique accounts. Reach is simply the number of people who see a specific piece of content.

The "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative has at least 84,049 engagements. Figure 10 shows the comparison between the engagement on the "Save Baby Cyrus" Facebook page (38,643 engagement), Ammon-owned sites (23,443 engagement), Marissa Anderson's Facebook profile (14,032 engagement) and the Freddomman.org website (7,358 engagement).

Mention Volume Peak Times

Mentions refer to any post that consists of the phrase "Save Baby Cyrus," "Save Cyrus," or "Baby Cyrus." There are three (3) peak times when the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative was most mentioned. Figure 11 shows the results of how often "Save Baby Cyrus" "Save Cyrus" or "Baby Cyrus" came up in the Brandwatch query. As noted, these results were individually verified to relate to the Baby Cyrus narrative.

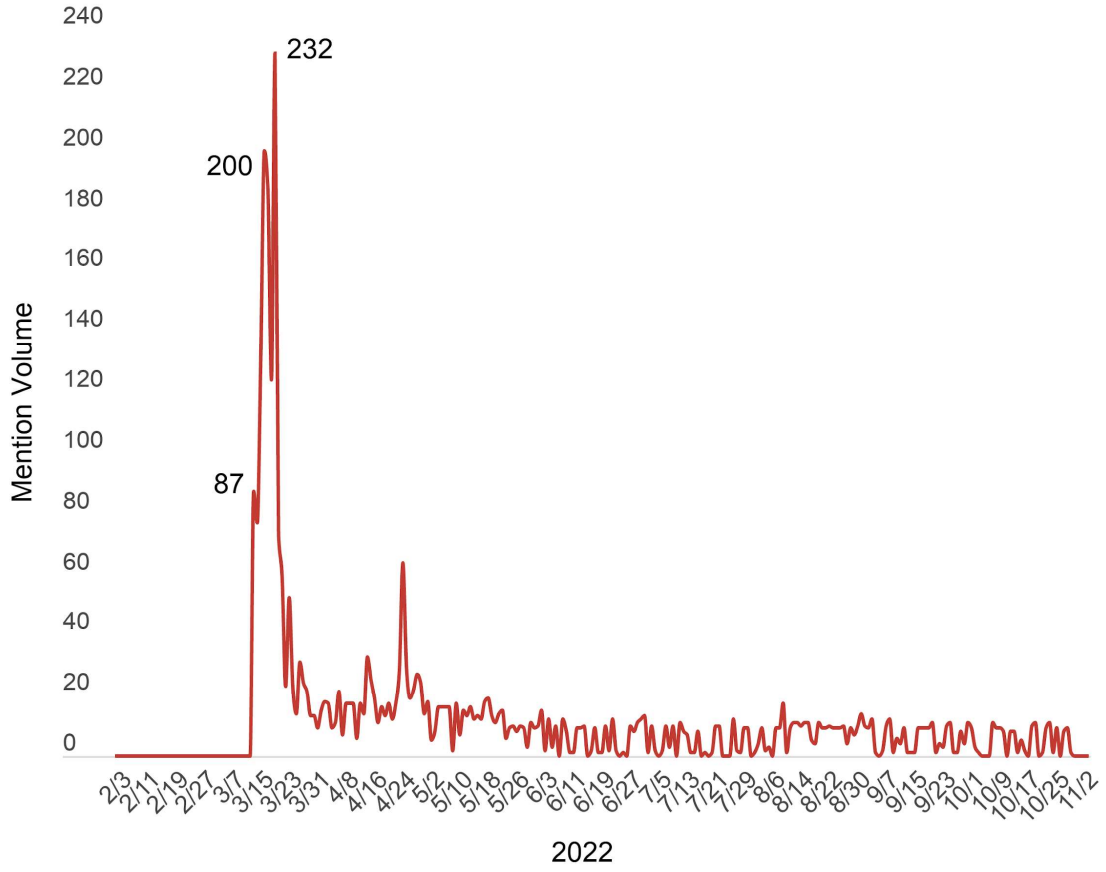

Peak Time 1. March 12th through March 20th, 2022
This peak primarily comes from posts with baby Cyrus hashtags:
#savebabycyrus
#babycyrus

Peak Time 2. March 22nd, 2022
This is the largest of the three peaks and resulted from stories, posts, and shares across news sites, Disqus, Twitter, Frankspeech.com, and more

Peak Time 3. April 23rd, 2022
This peak stemmed primarily from retweets based on an EpochTimes article[27]

Estimated Financial Cost for Similar Campaign Reach

Diego Rodriguez, Ammon Bundy, and Marissa Anderson were large contributors to spreading the Baby Cyrus narrative. Because it was so far-reaching, other ideas were perpetuated widely, such as Baby Cyrus being medically kidnapped by St. Luke's Health System. To gain a better understanding of the typical costs associated with spreading any marketing message, Red Sky calculated the estimated financial cost of implementing a "Baby Cyrus and Ammon Bundy campaign".

First, a background: there are many ways to calculate advertising costs across social media and privately-owned websites. To give an idea of general marketing prices, here is a quote from WebFX, a digital marketing company:

"This year (2022), the average small-to-midsized business (SMB) spends $2,500-$12,000 for content marketing each month."[28]

The following content depicts how much an ad campaign that received the same amount of reach/engagement as the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative might cost.

[28] https://www.webfx.com/digital-marketing/pricing/

Engagement Campaign

An engagement campaign shows posts to people who are most likely to be interested in and willing to interact with them by liking, sharing, or commenting on them. If more engagement was the goal of the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative and Ammon Bundy for Governor campaign, then the following would be the potential costs of such a campaign.

This engagement campaign analysis:

- Utilizes cost-per-click (CPC) for comments and shares.
- Utilize cost-per-like (CPL) for 'likes.'
- The CPC cost is dependent on the platform. Facebook's average CPC is $1.71[29], whereas Twitter's CPC is $1.35[30]. CPL is Facebook-specific and averages $1.07[31].

Other metrics are those based on SpyFu, well-known for its quantifying capacities. Lastly, the costs of buying backlinks are included. Backlinks are not always bought. However, it is possible to buy backlinks or guest posts in order to boost traffic to a website. This has been included in FreedomMan.org's estimate in lieu of engagement cost.

(Note: It has been established that Freedomman.org increased in traffic correlating with the Baby Cyrus narrative. Because of this, quantifying the backlink costs instead of likes, shares, and comments gives more accurate results).

Table 3. Total Cost Estimates - Engagement Campaign
Table 3 shows the overall value of the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative and Ammon Bundy for Governor campaign. Value is calculated through cost-per-like (CPL) and cost-per-click (CPC) across key players' pages. Please note that value is likely underrepresented due to a lack of data access across CloutHub, Rumble, TruthSocial, Gab, etc. For a breakdown of calculations, see Appendix 3.

	Likes (CPL) is $1.07[32] for Facebook	Comments (CPC) is $1.71 for Facebook[33]	Shares (CPC) Facebook is $1.71 for Facebook[34]	Retweets/Mentions (CPC) is $1.35 for Twitter[35]	Total
Freedomman.org	See Table 1				$6,578.10 - $13,981.3
Ammon Bundy	$7,798.16	$4,133.07	$2,925.81	Included in 'Twitter Engagement' row	$12,857.04
Marissa Anderson	$9,067.18	$5,167.62	$4,404.96	Data unavailable	$18,639.76

Grand Total					$89,461.99 - $96,865.19

Note: "Data unavailable" means the research team was unable to quantify metrics either due to the irrelevance to the platform or due to a lack of data access.

Limitations
This analysis is dependent upon available data including views, likes, comments, and shares. Consequently, there are some limitations. Some sites do not publicly show the number of views or shares. Others, like Instagram, had limited comments or did not allow comments. Examples of the limitations include:

- Only 52% of data is represented through the Ammon Bundy sites' data that was collected.
- Across FreedomMan.org, only 50% of data is represented. Shares and views were unavailable.
- The Save Baby Cyrus page represents 75% of views, 'likes', comments, and 'shares' data.
- Marissa Anderson's personal Facebook page shows 78% of views, likes, comments, and shares data.
- Ammon Bundy-owned accounts on Gab, TruthSocial, and others weren't accessible without the creation of an account/profile.

Sub-Conclusions

- The defendants' communication efforts reflect what would be considered a sustained awareness campaign, with specific calls to action designed to benefit the defendants through donations or actions, while elevating their reputations.
- The defendants used sustained media coverage to broaden the reach of their campaign, and benefits to themselves.
- Bundy and Rodriguez leveraged interviews and appearances on sympathetic audio and video streaming platforms to maximize connections with like-minded audiences.
- The defendants employed polarizing terminology to maximize outrage across all platforms, to further expand reach through shares, comments, and other forms of engagement. This included the intent to connect St. Luke's Hospital and its employees into a conspiracy of child trafficking and medical kidnapping involving Child Protective Services and other government agencies as well as ongoing disparagement of its organization, Dr. Erickson and NP Jungman.
- The defendants' awareness campaign was designed to improve their personal perception and reputation, broaden their audience and convert them to donors, followers, voters or members of their organizations.

- Specific benefits to Bundy and Rodriguez include:
    - 403 articles published by media outlets with a combined audience (unique visitors per month to media sites) of 2.51 billion people and an advertising equivalency of $23,171,917.98[36]
    - Traffic and social reach increases across several websites and social media accounts. This included 5,664,835 views of "Save Baby Cyrus" content where Ammon Bundy channels were among top sharers and an engagement increase of 325% for FreedomMan.org. A range of $89,461.99 - $96,865.19 would be required to achieve an equivalent engagement campaign by paying for likes and clicks.
    - Appearances on 56 shows to broaden their audience, with extensive cross-promotion to FreedomMan.org or Bundy-owned properties.[37]

[36] AVE measures value of a media article based on the equivalent cost of placing an advertisement with the outlet. Per Muck Rack, this is calculated using an industry standard formula of unique visitors per month (UVM) times 0.025 (the industry standard estimated percent of how many visitors to an outlet view a given article) times 0.37 (industry standard dollar value per visitor).

[37] These calculations do not include any expenses Defendants may have incurred in obtaining this value for themselves. Our understanding is that Defendants have refused to respond to discovery requests in this case. To the extent the Defendants disclose legitimate expenses they have incurred, we reserve the right to adjust our calculations accordingly.

Conclusion #2: The defendants leveraged a well-connected network, combined with conspiracy- or grievance-based narratives embraced by that network, to further amplify their message and impact reputations. Using extensive message discipline with all proxies, the defendants intentionally conflated St. Luke's and its employees with events and perceived conspiracies outside of St. Luke's influence or control.

Overview

"I can't tell you how important it is for us to get as much coverage as possible."[38]

Diego Rodriguez made his intent clear during on one of his first podcast appearances relating to his grandson's health, an appearance total that now exceeds 50 in less than a year's time. He, Ammon Bundy and their associates' collective goal was to reach as broad and as sympathetic an audience as possible to "get the word out to everybody. So they can make their phone call. So they can, you know, post it on their social media, so they can send it to everybody that they know, so they can support in every way possible." [39]

Knowing this intent, specific actions taken by the defendants become clear: to maximize their reach and benefit, regardless of the impact to those seeking or providing care at St. Luke's facilities. They sought to accomplish this goal via two primary methods:

- Applying the core tactics of an intentional disinformation campaign, with specific emphasis on aligning with and expanding on established conspiracy theories
- Message delivery and discipline that positioned the Rodriguez family and supporters as protagonists fighting against a government conspiracy to steal children, in which St. Luke's and its employees are purportedly part of.

Methodology:

Red Sky reviewed all "Baby Cyrus" related posts on FreedomMan.org, social posts from Ammon Bundy platforms, the Baby Cyrus Facebook page and related posts from Marissa Anderson, and listened to or reviewed transcripts of press conferences and 50+ podcasts with appearances by Diego Rodriguez. Members of our agency who developed this report also reviewed several studies, articles, reports, and other research relating to misinformation and disinformation campaigns and the increasing spread of conspiracy theories to assess the strategy and tactics involved, which are cited and/or listed in the appendix. Finally, we assessed the tactics and messaging involved by applying our collective decades of experience in communications ranging from media to corporate communications to crisis communication and training, to traditional marketing and PR campaigns.

Analysis:

a) Defendants applied the core tactics of an intentional disinformation campaign

While Red Sky has planned and implemented a wide range of communication and awareness campaigns during its history, we have not and do not actively engage in targeted disinformation campaigns. For this analysis, we relied on insights from the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA), specifically their Tactics of Disinformation and Disinformation Stops With You documents.

First, CISA defines disinformation as "deliberately created to mislead, harm, or manipulate a person, social group, organization, or country"[40]. The organization further notes that "disinformation actors use a variety of tactics and techniques to execute information operations and spread disinformation narratives that pose risk … designed to make disinformation actors' messages more credible, or to manipulate their audience to a specific end. They often seek to polarize their target audience across contentious political or social divisions, making the audience more receptive to disinformation."[41]

Common disinformation tactics that the CISA details includes devising or amplifying conspiracy theories, taking advantage of alternative communication platforms with less content moderation policies, exploiting information gaps and spreading targeted content. Each of these tactics was employed by Rodriguez and Bundy as part of their disinformation campaign against St. Luke's and others.

Devise or Amplify Conspiracy Theories:

A Political Psychology study defines conspiracy theories as attempts to explain the ultimate causes of significant social and political events and circumstances with claims of secret plots by two or more powerful actors[42]. CISA notes that "disinformation actors capitalize on conspiracy theories by generating disinformation narratives that align with the conspiracy worldview, increasing the likelihood that the narrative will resonate with the target audience."[43]

In this case, the defendants claim on the freedomman.org website that "My grandson, Baby Cyrus was kidnapped by police officers from Meridian, Idaho at the behest of the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare for no reason other than financial gain. The story and the actions of all bad actors, including police officers, politicians, St. Luke's hospital, nurses, doctors, the prosecutor, the judge, and other bureaucrats have been so egregious…with some believing that this is now the highest profile CPS kidnapping case in American history."[44]

The conspiracy narrative spread by Rodriguez and Bundy aligns with existing CPS kidnapping narratives and intersects with other influential conspiracies including QAnon's "save the children" campaign which is based on an unfounded belief that a cabal of global elites tortures and sexually abuses children in Satanic rituals. In this theory, CPS and others are the funnel for this supposed child trafficking ring.

Researchers at Washington State University's Murrow College of Communication noted created a study to determine which conspiracy theories spread fastest on Twitter during COVID-19. The study, published in the Journal of New Media and Society, found that "While each theory appears to have a different subject, the social media narratives often overlapped," said Porismita Borah, associate professor in Washington State University's Murrow College of Communication. "The conspiracy theories might be using different strategies, but the narratives are often connected. These theories have a lot in common in that they try to make the stories part of a bigger conspiracy so that if people believe in one conspiracy, then they tend to believe in the other."[45]

In addition to regularly repeating the CPS child trafficking ring theme, Rodriguez's podcast appearances would evolve to include blanket statements on the corruption of the healthcare system at large and conspiracies around Covid-19:

"I mean, doctors and and big hospitals is criminal, what they've been doing to Americans for years in the name of of cancer, research and curing diseases, and they're just killing people. And most people never knew it until COVID. COVID comes around and realize, oh, wow, they're just killing people for profit."[46]

He would add more details to the CPS conspiracy, linking a former senator's death to an investigation of the organization:

"… Senator Nancy Shafer, who 12 years ago, one of her constituents came to her with a similar issue to what happened to Baby Cyrus and she recognized and realized the wickedness of CPS, and she began to do investigative reporting… she went around the United States giving speeches exposing the wickedness of CPS and was working on a documentary with the film crew to expose the entire thing. And right before her documentary was about to expose the money trail, who's getting the money where it's coming from how the system works, the whole works. Her and her husband were found shot dead in their home. And that was the last time anybody ever did a real serious research into child protective services.[47]

Eventually, Rodriguez would conflate the CPS with another target of right-wing extremist efforts that gained additional prominence later in 2022 - the LGBTQ+ community:

"…you know, we call it the, the gay Jihad movement, because literally, these people are the ones who run CPS, it's not just leftist, but CPS is 100% completely run … all their leaders and most all states are lesbians, gays, trans, transgender, whatever, whatever else you want to come and they're very specifically anti-Christian, anti-conservative, anti-right wing, and they have been given 100% godlike power not just over you and I and our families but over police officers, meaning you could get a two week training as a social worker and you now rule over police officers to tell them what to do and how to destroy families in just two weeks training."[48]

Rodriguez also evolved his attacks on St. Luke's and its legal counsel to include anti-LGTBQ+ remarks, from mocking the use of pronouns to claiming both supported kids drag shows to claiming St. Luke's performs transgender surgery on minors. [49]

Abuse Alternative Platforms:

As CISA notes, "disinformation actors may seek to take advantage of platforms with fewer user protections, less stringent content moderation policies, and fewer controls to detect and remove inauthentic content and accounts than other social media platforms. [50]In reviewing the list of Rodriguez's podcast appearances, only one was hosted on mainstream platforms such as YouTube where content moderation was emphasized, and that account was terminated. The bulk were hosted on rumble.com, frankspeech.com or self-contained platforms that grant much wider ability for participants to spread misinformation, disinformation and disparagement without repercussions. This enabled Rodriguez to perpetuate the conspiracy and disparage St. Luke's and others.

Exploit Information Gaps:

As another disinformation tactic, CISA notes the use of data voids, or information gaps. "Disinformation actors can exploit these gaps by generating their own influence content and seeding the search term on social media to encourage people to look it up. This increases the likelihood that audiences will encounter disinformation content without any accurate or authoritative search results to refute it." [51]

This tactic was used in several instances by Rodriguez, Bundy and others involved with the disinformation campaign, particularly with St. Luke's. Laws, such as the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 (HIPAA), ensure patient privacy and prohibit any public disclosure of health information without approval by the patient. In this instance, the parents of the infant involved would have needed to grant this permission. As an infant under CPS custody, this patient was further insulated from any ability to disclose health-related information.

This allowed Rodriguez, members of his family, Ammon Bundy, and others to control the narrative and repeatedly claim falsehoods or inaccuracies as facts, many of which have been refuted in affidavits by NP Jungman and Dr. Erickson or St. Luke's. These inaccuracies include:

- The infant was simply dehydrated, a completely normal expectation as he transitions to solid foods. In her affidavit, NP Jungman notes the infant "appeared listless, lethargic, dehydrated, and thin. His weight was at the .02 percentile for age, meaning he weighed less than 99.98 percent of similarly aged children, which is consistent with moderate to severe malnutrition. …the level of dehydration and malnutrition the Infant was experiencing could have potentially devastating effects on a child's health and development." [52]
- NP Jungman diagnosed the infant without evaluating him. This is false. I did not diagnose the Infant until evaluating him independently, which occurred on March 12." [53]
- Dr. Erickson called CPS. Based on Dr. Erickson's legal affidavit: I did not inform DHW or any other government entity about the Infant at any time. I understand that on March 11, 2022, the Meridian police declared the Infant at risk of imminent harm, found the Infant, and transported the Infant to a St. Luke's hospital in Meridian ("St. Luke's Meridian"). I played no role in any of those events. I did not refer the Infant to CPS. I had no contact with the police or DHW about the Infant on March 11, 2022 or at any other time.[54]
- St. Luke's was doing this purely for profit. According to the medical billing records reviewed by Red Sky, the Andersons were eligible for and received Medicaid-subsidized care. St. Luke's provided over $34,000 in medical care to the Infant, and the Andersons were not billed for any of that amount.[55]

- That the family were the heroes and only victims of this experience. While high-level disruptions to hospital operations by protests at multiple locations have been documented, the impact on individual healthcare workers is potentially more pronounced. NP Jungman detailed regular calls by the St. Luke's team caring for the infant to update the Infant's parents, where "the parents refused to provide basic medical history about the Infant (for instance, information about whether the Infant had had routine newborn screening (PKU) completed and results of prior allergy testing), even though that information would aid in the Infant's care and treatment. During the phone call on March 12, when I declined to provide my name, the Infant's mother Marissa stated 'nothing will happen to you unless you do something to my baby' and 'I won't tell anyone your name unless something happens to my baby.'" Jungman noted seeing "crowds of protesters outside the hospital, shouting profanity and holding firearms and signs" and having "to take an alternate entrance into the building to avoid the protesters' harassment and intimidation" during the dates of these calls, during which she could hear the protestors. She also "understood from online video postings that the protesters had been called to St. Luke's by Ammon Bundy."[56] Bundy's personal history provides critical context to this threat by the infant's mother to name Jungman publicly to his supporters. Bundy was a leader of an armed takeover of the Malheur National Wildlife Refuge in 2016, where one member of the group described as a militant by the FBI, was killed.[57] In 2014, Bundy and his family confronted Bureau of Land Management officers over a grazing rights dispute involving his father where the Bundys enlisted multiple militias, including the Oath Keepers and Three Percenters[58], and Bundy was tased multiple times despite warnings from officers as he advanced.[59] Two involved with the standoff would kill two Las Vegas police officers eating lunch and a third person at a Wal-Mart a few months later. [60] Given this history and the type of supporters Ammon Bundy draws to protests, one could expect violence to be an intended result. Despite whatever assurances were made by the infant's mother, NP Jungman was named repeatedly and is still listed online at the time of report development at https://freedomman.org/cyrus/kidnappers/tracy-jungman/.

Spread Targeted Content:

CISA details another common tactic used by the defendants where "Disinformation actors produce tailored influence content likely to resonate with a specific audience based on their worldview and interests. These actors gain insider status and grow an online following that can make future manipulation efforts more successful." [61]

As detailed above, Rodriguez and Bundy leveraged a network of podcasts and influencers whose more extremist values aligned with the audiences they seek. They caught and maintained the attention of these influencers and audiences by tapping into the most effective tool for achieving a viral spread of information: anger.

In a Smithsonian Magazine article, Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania Professor Jonah Berger shared the results of a study where he and a colleague analyzed media articles that were most shared and noted that a piece of content's chances of going viral had less to do with a positive or negative tone and more to do with how activated someone felt after seeing it. "Anger is a high-arousal emotion, which drives people to take action," he told Smithsonian Magazine. "It makes you feel fired up, which makes you more likely to pass things on."[62]

The narrative of a young family seeking help for their sick infant, who is innocently caught up in a government conspiracy to medically kidnap their child as part of a calculated child trafficking ring is designed to inspire outrage. The defendants extended that outrage through social posts, videos, interviews and other communication channels sympathetic to their cause, often leveraging the us vs. them mentality indicative of conspiracy thinking. They also sought to pair anger with fear with statements that it could happen to your family or those you love. The twitter post below from Bundy [63]reflects this approach.

This post links to a YouTube video on Bundy's channel titled "Your children do not belong to you!" which takes place after a custody hearing where he states the judge has "taken hundreds of children. And she done it with his Dr. Natasha Erickson here in Idaho. And these doctors work in conjunction with CPS and, and with these judges." Bundy then closes the video with his impression that, as a parent "you don't really own your children … Because the state owns them, and they take them when they want how they want when they want." [64]

The above is one example of many, where Bundy and Rodriguez are leveraging anger, outrage and fear to generate goodwill for them and their cause, inspire action and gain a broader audience of followers.

The SPLC is the premier U.S. non-profit organization monitoring the activities of domestic hate groups and other extremists. It noted in its report on Conspiracy Propagandists that, "Paranoia is at the center of propagandist messaging. These individuals peddle narratives that paint the world as a battlefield between the forces of good and evil. The ideas, often riddled with misinformation and disinformation, target institutions and public figures that exist in contrast to their worldview. The issues faced by society today are depicted in apocalyptic terms that leave no room for compromise..."

Related to the spread of the messaging, "With the emergence of social media, propagandists leveraged the ability to reach large numbers of uniformed people and flood online spaces with wild unsubstantiated claims decrying government institutions and key figures as being "tyrannical." As a result, conspiracies have been allowed to flourish in an environment where misinformation and disinformation is dispersed among considerable amounts of valid and verified content."

b) Message delivery and discipline

[62] What emotion goes viral fastest? | Smithsonian Magazine

Finding the most effective communication channels for an awareness campaign is critical for any message to reach its intended audience. Being able to deliver a compelling message is what engages and activates that audience however, and maintaining the discipline to stay on message across channels and through multiple spokespeople is equally important.

As we analyzed the different channels used by Rodriguez and Bundy, from their owned online and social platforms to interviews, the consistency of message was evident. Consistency is key to ensuring a message is both received and remembered, and the defendants employed some proven tactics and structures to ensure the story they were telling would inspire others to join their cause.

Sociologist Stephanie Baker from the University of London studied the commonalities of social media influencers and conspiracy theorists in a study referenced in an ABC article in late 2020; "Both influencers and conspiracy theorists present themselves as anti-establishment underdogs on a 'hero's journey', comparable to Biblical tales of good versus evil, Dr Baker says."[65]

This hero's journey is reiterated across podcast appearances by Rodriguez and the Baby Cyrus section of FreedomMan.org, social posts by Bundy and the infant's family and repeated by those associated with or supporting the narrative. It is summarized in their own words on FreedomMan.org: The Baby Cyrus Story: How an innocent family had their only son forcefully kidnapped by corrupt police officers working as part of the Government Subsidized Child Trafficking Ring known as "CPS."[66]

Within this narrative, key events that ultimately led to the infant being taken from the parents are downplayed or omitted entirely, notably the child's health condition. Examples of this include:

"And after one of Baby Cyrus's vomiting episodes, he had become dehydrated, which is common. You typically just rehydrate with Pedialyte or something of that nature. But in this case, this nurse wanted Baby Cyrus fully rehydrated…"[67]

- Diego Rodriguez

"And when they get in there, they weigh baby Cyrus and they began to automatically act and they look at you know, baby Cyrus wasn't vaccinated and and who knows what else they look at… so they began immediately to kind of have this undertone of threatening the family because baby Cyrus is a little like a few ounces underneath the weight that recommended weight."[68]

- Ammon Bundy

These statements fail to note that the infant in question was hospitalized for three days and diagnosed with severe malnutrition, and that the parents consented to this care. [69] These facts are essentially omitted from the primary website page (https://freedomman.org/cyrus/story/), except in comments by Rodriguez where he claims: "…it was Dr. Natasha Erickson from St. Luke's hospital who both intimidated them into racking up a medical bill for thousands of dollars, but she also is the one who initially contacted CPS and started this whole train rolling down the tracks. So yes, St. Luke's is responsible, specifically through Doctor Natasha Erickson. And the main reason for her doing so, was that she apparently discriminated against Levi and Marissa for having not vaccinated Cyrus. She even threatened to call CPS if Levi and Marissa tried to leave before she finished running all of the meaningless tests and exams she wanted to run (which all proved to be needless since Cyrus came back with a 100% clean bill of health), so Levi and Marissa complied and stayed in order to avoid hassles from CPS. Natasha Erickson called CPS anyway." [70]

Per Dr. Erickson's sworn affidavit, none of these claims about CPS are true.[71] In several instances, Rodriguez notes that his daughter was unable to make a scheduled appointment with a provider unaffiliated with St. Luke's, who called CPS which initiated the police being called to locate the infant and ensure he received care by transporting him to the hospital in Meridian. Neither Rodriguez nor Bundy have shared the medical evaluation on March 12, 2022 that noted "his weight was at the .02 percentile for age, meaning he weighed less than 99.98 percent of similarly aged children, which is consistent with moderate to severe malnutrition.[72]

Instead, the narrative focuses on the heroics of Rodriguez and Bundy to rally supporters to St. Luke's Meridian initially, followed by their Boise location, and how their ability to apply pressure dramatically shortened the infant's time under CPS purview and with St. Luke's, which they continue to implicate as being part of this broad conspiracy. As of February 28, 2023, the FreedomMan.org website managed by Rodriguez has a "Child Trafficker Profile" page with NP Jungman's image [73]and a disproved statement that she diagnosed the infant despite never seeing him.[74] Dr. Erickson is categorized under kidnappers on the same site[75], where she is described as "CPS Referrer and Destroyer of Families," perpetuating the falsehood that she called CPS on the Andersons. Both individual pages state "full expose coming soon."[76]

While components of the narrative may include or omit elements depending on the communication format or individual speaking, these core elements are consistent. Based on our analysis, and experience with developing communication plans, talking points and other communication materials, we believe messaging efforts were closely coordinated between Rodriguez, Bundy and their associated organizations.

Language Use

As noted previously, the defendants leveraged anger, outrage and fear to generate goodwill for them and their cause, inspire action and gain a broader audience of followers. This is apparent in how Rodriguez and Bundy used specific and intentional language to inspire action.

Since the initial incident, the defendants intentionally and repeatedly used conspiracy-weighted terms such as "medical kidnapping", "child trafficking ring" and "child sex trafficking" to align with and augment conspiracy theories to expand the reach of their message. As they crafted this narrative, St. Luke's and its employees were painted as part of a government conspiracy to steal children.

More recently, Rodriguez has published a blog post that closes with language that conflates the lawsuit against him with the polarizing, high visibility topic of LGBTQ+ rights. The post claims that St. Luke's and its counsel are "two of Idaho's primary sponsors and supporters of the transgender and gay agenda, sponsoring not only the Boise gay pride parade, but by doing so, you and they were knowingly sponsoring a kids drag show." It further states that St. Luke's Boise performs transgender surgery on children. [77]

These references are likely selectively chosen due to the prominence of these issues being discussed by right wing media and at state legislatures across the nation. It also follows fallout involving a canceled kids drag show tied to the Boise Pride Festival in 2022 [78]and the ongoing disruption and planned riots at gay pride events. [79]Like the bulk of the disinformation campaign efforts, this recently pursued language by Rodriguez is designed for an audience to choose sides, and to align with his entire worldview if they agree on a different issue.

Finally, there is a persistent usage of the word "wicked" throughout the appearances and posts of Bundy and Rodriguez. Similar to the hero's journey simplifying these episodes into right versus wrong and a young family versus a corrupt and far-reaching child trafficking conspiracy, wicked implores an audience to choose the side of the righteous. It defines, with religious overtones, that anyone involved in keeping the infant from its family is evil, even if their intent was to provide the care needed to restore his health and ultimately reunite him with his parents.

Sub-Conclusions

- Bundy and Rodriguez deployed common disinformation tactics that amplified conspiracy theories, took advantage of alternative communication platforms with less content moderation policies and exploited information gaps while spreading targeted content.
- Due to patient privacy laws, St. Luke's was at a significant disadvantage to counter the narrative created by Rodriguez, members of his family, Ammon Bundy, and others which repeatedly claimed falsehoods or inaccuracies as facts.
- The defendants leveraged anger, outrage and fear to generate goodwill for them and their cause, gain a broader audience of followers and incite specific actions.
- The consistency of messaging and calls to action indicates communication efforts were closely coordinated between Rodriguez, Bundy and their associated organizations.
- The defendants intentionally and repeatedly used conspiracy-weighted terms such as "medical kidnapping", "child trafficking ring" and "child sex trafficking" and more recently "transgender and gay agenda", along with framing those involved in religious overtones of 'good versus evil', to align with and augment conspiracy theories to expand the reach of their message.

Conclusion #3: The defendants took specific steps to disparage St. Luke's and the employees involved in the incident with an assortment of mistruths, intended to impact their business and livelihoods by scaring patients, prospective patients and families from using their services.

Overview

As noted in the prior section, the defendants displayed a commitment and intentionality to implement a targeted disinformation campaign to reach a sympathetic or potentially sympathetic audience. The goal of these efforts is to defame and disparage every individual and organization they perceive to be involved in the CPS child trafficking conspiracy. This includes the St. Luke's organization, Dr. Natasha Erickson, Nurse Practitioner Tracy Jungman and CEO Chris Roth, among others.

Misinformation efforts by the defendants have evolved to further impact St. Luke's reputation within its communities by implying it uses government-provided or donated funds to perform gender surgery on minors. They are also spreading mistruths tied to executive compensation intended to sow further mistrust.

As Bundy's prominence grows within the political climate of Idaho, where he received more than 101,000 votes for governor, his messages are often presented to elected individuals at the city, county and state levels of government. At minimum, this emerging reality requires more effort for St. Luke's to correct the narrative with factual information.

Methodology

Our agency analyzed the owned platforms – websites and publicly accessible social media channels – of Bundy, Rodriguez and their affiliated organizations. We also listened to or reviewed videos and podcasts hosted on these channels or others where Bundy or Rodriguez appeared and spoke involving Baby Cyrus to determine the type of language and accusations used by these individuals against St. Luke's and its employees.

Evidence

What follows is not every instance of disparagement, but a collection of disparaging language and questionable or untruthful claims that Rodriguez and Bundy have shared on their respective online and social media platforms, as well as what they have stated in interviews on sympathetic podcasts and blogs. This provides an example of their repeated claims that can be summarized as:

- St. Luke's intentionally kills its patients and provides substandard healthcare.
- St. Luke's and its employees are complicit in the defendants' perceived CPS child trafficking ring conspiracy theory.
- St. Luke's falsely reported on the infant's condition to support the kidnapping conspiracy.
- St. Luke's improperly received and/or administered funds related to Covid-19 and is using these to sue Bundy and Rodriguez and/or perform gender surgery on minors.
- St. Luke's intent is to steal babies as part of a conspiracy to take kids from Christian parents and have them adopted to gay couples.
- St. Luke's is suing Rodriguez and Bundy to stifle free speech, as defendants have only stated facts.

Combined with the actual physical protests on-site and its impact on patients and healthcare workers, along with extensive media coverage of said protests, the overall intent was to damage the reputation of St. Luke's, particularly with current and prospective patients, as well as current and prospective staff. Below are examples of statements made on the defendants' owned channels and appearances on shows sympathetic to their cause:

FreedomMan.org

- As of March 1, 2023, the FreedomMan.org website managed by Rodriguez has a "Child Trafficker Profile" page with NP Jungman's image [80]and a disproved statement that she diagnosed the infant despite never seeing him.[81]
- Along with Jungman, Dr. Erickson is categorized under kidnappers on the same site[82], where she is described as "CPS Referrer and Destroyer of Families," perpetuating the falsehood that she contacted CPS and initiated the entire episode.
- Both individual pages state "full exposé coming soon," planting the seed for negative revelations to come, whether any are eventually posted or not.[83]
- On Erickson's page on FreedomMan.org, they posted a screenshot of the contact page she asked her employer to take down due to doxing efforts[84], along with the following language: "From Levi and Marissa's experience with Dr. Natasha Erickson, it is obvious she has a "god complex" and loves to threaten families using CPS as a weapon when people don't do what she tells them to. If she was so quick to threaten Marissa and Levi with a call to CPS if they tried to leave the hospital, imagine how many other families she has abused in her years of work at St. Luke's?"[85]
- "Baby Cyrus has been in custody of the state and is now at St. Luke's Pediatric Hospital in downtown Boise. He has been in their 'care' since approximately 1:00 am Saturday morning (March 12th). Levi and Marissa were 'allowed' to see their own child last night for 2 hours—while escorted by Idaho State Police and a social worker.

  Baby Cyrus is in worse condition than ever. Levi and Marissa reported that he 'is not even the same child. He is unresponsive and lethargic and his spirit has completely changed. He is unrecognizable from the child he was when they stole him away from us.'

  Cyrus also has two pricks, with bruising, in one of his hands that the hospital claims are from IVs, but there is an IV in his other hand, so these marks are incredibly suspicious. The hospital staff swears that he has not been given vaccines or any other treatment not authorized by the parents."[86]
- Chris Roth and St. Luke's are making money off of child trafficking, pure and simple. [87]
- Diego Rodriguez comment on post announcing St. Luke's suit against him: "With few exceptions, everything they are claiming I have said are things I definitely said and that I stand by to this day.

St. Luke's is corrupt. They do kill people, fully aware that their protocols are the cause of death. St. Luke's did profit off of the kidnapping of my grandson and they profit off of every child that is brought to them when CPS kidnaps babies. CEO Chris Roth has profited outrageously off of the pandemic, earning outrageously more money than any CEO previous to him. Dr. Natasha Erickson absolutely threatened to call CPS on my daughter if they left the hospital "against her medical advice."[88]

Post: Come No More Upon Me, A Warning Letter From Ammon Bundy

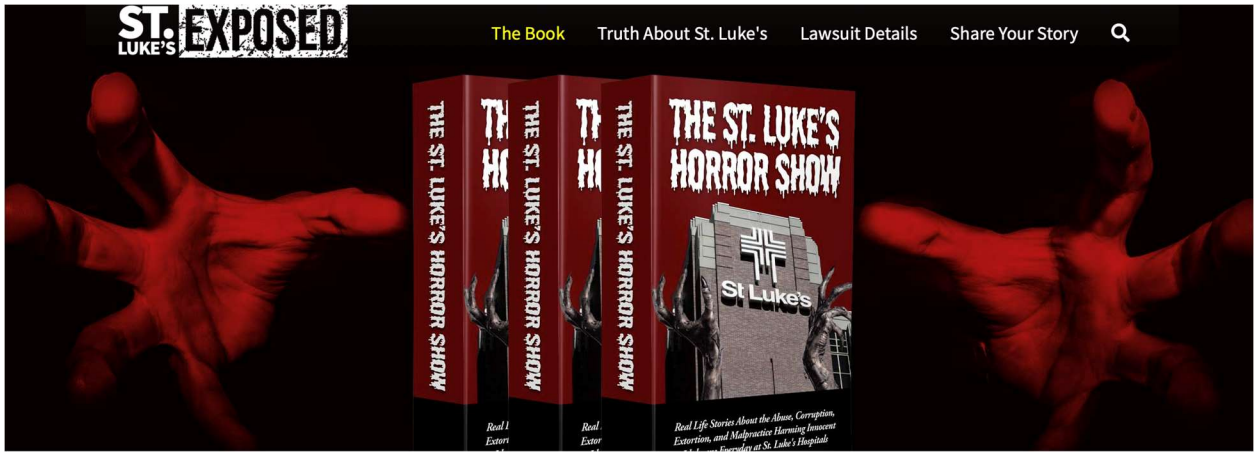

- "However, I do not find it a coincidence that St. Luke's Hospital, the #1 PRIVATE beneficiary of the federal COVID funds coming through Governor Little and the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare (IDHW), the #1 PUBLIC beneficiary of the COVID funds, are the two institutions that carried out the assault against the Chavoya family, who happens to also be some of my best friends. They did so by falsely reporting baby Cyrus' condition and sending the police after them." – Ammon Bundy[89]
- I was informed by two very creditable (sic), independent sources (one a high-ranking Ada County Official and the other an attorney who works with St. Luke's hospital) that St. Luke's CEO gave Holland & Hart a blank check to financially destroy Diego and I for speaking out against them in the role they played in taking baby Cyrus. So, rather than taking action to ensure that the situation with baby Cyrus does not happen again, instead, St Luke's CEO, Chris Roth, has authorized hundreds of thousands of dollars of donations given to St. Luke's Hospital to pay a law firm to financially destroy baby Cyrus' family and those who stood with them. – Ammon Bundy[90]
- To date, St Luke's team of attorneys have used the courts to put a lien on my home, forcing me to sell it. I have been forced to liquidate all my assets except a few and my family and I have no idea when any of this will end. St. Luke's CEO, Chris Roth, has given Holland & Hart a blank check to financially destroy Diego and I. Mis-using the courts, they have put us under constant threat of losing everything we have worked for our entire lives. Never once have I knowingly stepped inside a St. Luke's medical facility in Idaho. Never have I or my family received any medical treatment from a St. Luke's provider. I owe them nothing, yet they are trying to take everything. Anything I said about them (which was very minimal) I believe to be absolutely true, but they are using the courts to chill free speech and punish anyone who exposes them to the public. All of this, when they are the people who participated in stealing a baby from loving parents. Holland & Hart receiving open payments from St. Luke's Hospital to destroy lives by abusing the court is a prime example of Judicial Terrorism (JT). – Ammon Bundy[91]

- St. Luke's Sponsors Gay Pride Parade's and Drag Queen Shows and Child/Minor/Underage Sexual Exploitation: St. Luke's Hospital has been a sponsor of "gay pride" events in Idaho for years. This year, in 2022, it was particularly egregious as they were sponsoring the sexual deviancy of minor children by having them perform perverted acts on stage as if they were "drag queens."[94]

Ammon Bundy on Rumble: St. Luke's Hospital Executives Seek $7.5 Million & My Arrest[97]

- "St. Luke's hospital executives are:
  - Committing horrible crimes against children in Idaho,
  - Using the courts to silence anyone who may tell the truth about what they are doing."
- Now just to make this connection, here's a list of just one portion of the COVID relief funds that went to St. Luke's Hospital. It's over $121 million coming directly from the governor's office to St Luke's hospitals. And I just wonder how much of this money is going to mutilate children in Idaho. Now, if you you know, most of their annual funds come from donations that the good people of Idaho give St. Luke's or taxpayer dollars and what are they using it for? They're using it for you know things like child sex changes and to pay high dollar attorneys to come after their political enemies. – Ammon Bundy [98]

- "…she said the only place that they could get an IV in an infant was at the local St. Luke's Hospital. Well, my daughter and son a lot, obviously didn't want to go there. … So they very reluctantly, based on that advice took Baby Cyrus with the understanding that he would be there at this hospital for a few hours get rehydrated, and they go right back to the clinic. And that would be that. Well, these hospitals you guys all I mean, for people who don't know, you know, secondary to CPS, probably the greatest wickedness we have in America is the modern allopathic medical system. I mean, doctors and and big hospitals is (sic) criminal, what they've been doing to Americans for years in the name of of cancer, research and curing diseases, and they're just killing people. And most people never knew it until COVID. COVID comes around and realize, oh, wow, they're just killing people for profit." – Diego Rodriguez [101]

- "They put the IV in and they're like, Okay, can we go now? Oh, no, you cannot go. You absolutely cannot go if you leave, it's going to be against medical advice. And you know, we're going to call CPS on you. And they threatened to call CPS just for asking to leave after baby Cyrus was hydrated." – Diego Rodriguez [102]
- "And the the doctor at this point, Dr. Natasha Erickson at St. Luke's is like, Absolutely not. If you guys leave that would be contrary to my medical medical advice. And if you guys do leave, I'll have to call CPS …" – Diego Rodriguez [103]
- "They want you to believe that baby Cyrus was somehow in danger or being malnourished. Not only is this completely false, but the truth is that baby Cyrus fell to his worst condition in the so called care of this very hospital right here. The care that was received at this hospital was absolutely atrocious. And every moment that baby Cyrus is in the care of St. Luke's without his parents, and specifically his mother is dangerous and hazardous to his health. We know for a fact from a report published by the industry itself by John Hopkins University and medical university, that the third leading cause of death in America is doctors over 250,000 plus Americans die every year from doctors." – Diego Rodriguez [104]
- "I just don't see in any way how Meridian police or CPS state of Idaho, and St. Luke's was right in any way about this. They took a baby from a loving mother and father, who's doing all they could to take care of this baby" – Ammon Bundy[105]
- "So you're talking about some 13 year old kid who wants to have a sex change, you know, a a physical, physically altering sex change St. Luke's Hospital in Boise, Idaho is one of them. Think about that. Even advertised it on their website. So these people are making … making money off of you know, transvestitism they're making money off of this moral perversion. And all of this is all inclusive under the same thing, because when they steal these babies, and these babies are taken away from good godly families, and then they are going into adoption, guess who they are more than likely going into adoption to they're going to adoption into into homosexual couple families. So you got to, you know, two homos are getting these children that they have stolen, kidnapped from godly Christian families or or otherwise." – Diego Rodriguez[106]

A breast feeding baby belongs with his mother, and these parents should have found the help they were seeking by turning to medical professionals at St. Luke's Children's Hospital - NOT the nightmare in which they are now living.

The State of Idaho and St. Luke's Children's Hospital need to SEND BABY CYRUS HOME![107]

Sub-Conclusions

- The disparaging language and untruthful claims, which continue beyond the incident, indicate the overall intent was to permanently damage the reputation of St. Luke's, particularly with current and prospective patients, as well as current and prospective staff.
- The goal of these efforts was to defame and disparage every individual and organization the defendants perceived to be involved in the CPS child trafficking conspiracy.
- Misinformation efforts by the defendants have evolved to further impact St. Luke's reputation within its communities by implying it uses government-provided or donated funds to perform gender surgery on minors.
- Bundy's prominence within the political climate of Idaho continues following his failed campaign for governor, with his false narratives being presented to elected individuals in various levels of government. This likely requires additional effort by St. Luke's to correct the narrative with factual information.

Conclusion #4: A comprehensive, multi-year reputation campaign will be required to restore the reputations of St. Luke's, Dr. Erickson and NP Jungman in the public eye, given the extensive damages inflicted by the defendants.

Overview

Red Sky is in the business of helping individuals and organizations gain awareness with key audiences through communication strategy, channels and tactics. Based on our detailed analysis that precedes this section, it is our professional belief and recommendation that a multi-year advertising, PR and marketing campaign will be required to restore the reputational damage to St. Luke's, and its employees inflicted by Ammon Bundy, Diego Rodriguez and affiliated entities through their coordinated, targeted, sustained and high-visibility attacks.

The proposed reputation campaign that follows does not account for the substantial impacts to all of St. Luke's operations, particularly its communication staff, infrastructure and approach. Similar to the potential for mistruths being presented to policy makers, there is no simple method to quantify the full impact of the harm committed – both to date and an ongoing future state, given this disparagement campaign continues as of the writing of this report.

But there are continued lost opportunities as the St. Luke's communications team must continually focus on safety issues, monitor online comments, counter mistruths, and manage several other challenges resulting from the disparagement and disinformation campaign led by Bundy and Rodriguez. This results in lost opportunities to promote more positive aspects of the work St. Luke's is doing to improve community health, share news of new specialties or services available, and other communication efforts that it has historically focused on within its markets.

Ultimately, St. Luke's mission is to serve the public. The mistruths spread by the defendants involving any type of religious discrimination or inaccuracies about services that divide a community or make patients think twice about using its services due to safety or personal concerns directly impacts its mission. Its ability to serve is diminished. While the proposed reputation campaign takes these elements into account, the long-term impact of the defendants' campaign will not wholly be mitigated by this campaign alone.

Methodology

Red Sky, as part of its ongoing operations as a marketing, public relations and strategic communications agency, regularly scopes and develops multi-faceted awareness campaigns that leverage its internal expertise as well as its expert partners who specialize in design, media purchasing, advertising and related spaces. As such, our agency is familiar with the various components that follow, their associated costs and the efforts required to manage and deploy an awareness campaign.

In the 15 years that Red Sky has operated, and the years of collective national/global communications experience of our staff preceding our agency, we have been involved in efforts to enhance and/or repair the reputation of several clients. Our name is based on this premise, how communicating consistently in times of crisis and calm is critical to an organization's reputation. Moments of lost trust leave a lasting impact that requires years of investments and communication to restore with key audiences. This is notably quantified by a Deloitte study of corporations enduring scandals which were found to have lost "20-56 percent of their market cap over a period ranging from three months to two years."[108]

Because healthcare is an exceptionally personal choice, the impact on trust is even more profound than other industries and businesses. In this instance, Ammon Bundy, Diego Rodriguez and their affiliated organizations sought to damage trust by consistently stating St. Luke's played a significant role in a medical kidnapping conspiracy, disparaging its quality of care, and deploying armed protestors to physically shut down operations and intimidate health care workers, patients and the community at large. At minimum, these efforts were designed to influence three distinct audiences that have a significant and direct impact on St. Luke's and its overall operations:

- Current patients: from those who were directly impacted by the disruption to those who will choose to avoid similar instances to those who are influenced by the misinformation campaign of Bundy and Rodriguez and choose alternative options or its competition.
- Prospective patients: who may reflect the concerns above or become aware of them as they research St. Luke's for specific health care needs.
- Prospective employees, primarily health care staff: who may be recruited from other states or regions and are aware or become aware of the protests and intentional disruption of operations by malign forces seeking to intimidate health care workers and those they care for.

Approach

Our approach is grounded by the intent to repair reputational damage of both the individuals and organization defamed and otherwise impacted. This requires a long-term, comprehensive campaign that spans all communication channels and methods of influence available that reach the aforementioned audiences of current patients, prospective patients and prospective employees. Awareness efforts would target both the residents of Idaho communities where St. Luke's and their care providers operate that comprise the core of their prospective patient base as well as targeted areas from which the health system recruits.

As an agency, we traditionally start with a strategic session with clients and stakeholders to determine the goals of the campaign, their primary audiences, how we reach them and what actions we want them to take, if any. Based on our understanding of the respective and collective impacts to the reputation of St. Luke's, Dr. Erickson and NP Jungman, we have the core components to inform a strategic recommendation and what some general costs would be, based on similar campaigns and budget ranges provided by partners in recent history.

Ultimately the goal is to restore trust in the communities they serve, and we are employing all channels in these communities to ensure the messages are received, given the variety of channels people use to receive information, varying levels of trust and need to repeat a message for retention.

The costs involved in a widespread communication campaign can be categorized into three primary categories: the strategic approach (what is the right message for each audience), developing and supporting the communication assets (applying the message, customized by audience / channel) and channel costs (e.g. what an ad or commercial costs to run online, on a podcast, on TV, etc.).

Below, these costs are estimated based on our knowledge of the reputation damage and categorized primarily by the strategy and support costs via agency fees and the channel costs, which follow.

Idaho Awareness Campaign
Agency creative development and management fees

Tactic / Focus Area	Budget
Strategic planning sessions (2)	$20,000
Media management	$125,000
Project management, ongoing strategic counsel	$300,000
Tracking/reporting reputation management	$40,000
Video production (assumes one video every 2 months) • 60, 30 and 15 second spots • On-site testimonial interviews, branded videos, b-roll and voice over talent	$240,000
Radio script development and recording • assumes 13 spots @ $3,500 per spot	$45,500
Billboard creative • assumes 6 versions	$30,000
Ad creation for print • assumes 26 ads and 4 versions	$150,000
Digital ad creation	$150,000 - $200,000
Podcast ad development	$40,000
Search engine management, keyword search	$30,000
Web page content, custom landing pages	$50,000 - $200,000
Total	$1,220,500 - $1,420,500

Idaho Awareness Campaign Media Spend
St. Luke's Operating Markets: Boise, McCall, Sun Valley, Twin Falls

Tactic / Focus Area	Monthly budget	Yearly budget
Broadcast (TV, Radio)	$55,250	$663,000
Billboard	$26,000	$312,000
Transit / logistics	$11,808	$141,700
Print	$26,000	$312,000
Digital platforms (Hulu, Spotify, YouTube)	$32,500	$390,000
Custom digital targeting/using third party partners	$10,833	$130,000
Targeted Podcasts	$6,500	$78,000
Search Engine Marketing	$10,833	$130,000
Media Relations, Media & Sentiment Tracking, Training[109]	$5,417	$65,000

[109] Public relations support would span a number of support areas, from training and preparation for media interviews to pitching for and tracking media coverage, and would also include focus groups to understand changes in perception and reputation of those who were disparaged.

Focus groups; pre and post campaign		$160,000
Total	$185,142	$2,381,700

Note: this is a general estimate. We are not able to quantify precise # of ads in market, but our approach would focus on key markets and rely on focus groups and other metrics to determine where budget is allocated over time.

Targeted Healthcare Recruitment Awareness Campaign: Key Recruiting Markets (National)

Tactic / Focus Area	Monthly budget	Yearly budget
Targeted digital healthcare and recruiting platforms, broad digital platforms (Hulu, Spotify, YouTube)	$32,500	$390,000
Targeted industry podcasts	$6,500	$78,000
Print	$32,500	$390,000
Search engine management, keyword search	$10,833	$130,000
Estimated agency creative and management fees		$400,000
Total		$1,388,000

Idaho Awareness Campaign Phase 2: General Public
St. Luke's Markets: Boise, McCall, Sun Valley, Twin Falls

Red Sky recommends optimizing media spend and marketing channel performance to determine years 2 through 5, assuming a 20% reduction in budget unless media is placed on a national level. Typically, media spend and agency fees are reviewed after annual strategic planning sessions to inform detailed budgets and media plans. Based on this approach, the costs would scale down in subsequent years as follows.

Year	Agency fees	Idaho Awareness Campaign (media spend)	Recruitment campaign (media spend + agency)
Year 2	$976,400	$1,905,360.00	$1,110,400.00
Year 3	$781,120	$1,524,288.00	$888,320.00
Year 4	$624,896	$1,219,430.40	$710,656.00
Year 5	$499,916.80	$975,544.32	$568,524.80
Subtotal	$2,882,332.80	$5,624,622.72	$3,277,900.80
Year 1	$1,220,500.00	$2,381,700.00	$1,388,000.00
Total Costs	$4,102,832.80	$8,006,322.72	$4,665,900.80
Combined Costs	$16,775,056.32

Reputation and Personal Brand Support for Dr. Erickson and NP Jungman

The above campaign aims to combat misinformation, rebuild trust and solidify positive brand awareness and patient engagement for all who are employed by St. Luke's. However, additional strategies and tactics are recommended specifically for Dr. Erickson and NP Jungman to address safety concerns and minimize the negative impact of the disparagement campaign on their personal brands and professional reputation. The unfortunate reality of targeted disparagement campaigns is the inability to wipe the slate clean or revert to a timeframe prior to the incident. Instead, the intent is to employ several opportunities to minimize the harm.

The outrage rhetoric and calls to action from Bundy, Rodriguez and their affiliated organizations that individually targeted Dr. Erickson and NP Jungman have led to online and in-person harassment beyond their place of work[110]. Again, our analysis of their style of communication reflects the use of marketing techniques designed to incite action. Instead of signing a petition or buying a product, Bundy, Rodriguez and their organizations are putting Dr. Erickson and NP Jungman at a much higher risk of violence by portraying them as dangerous criminals.

Beyond public safety concerns, the reputation damage from the misinformation and impact on search engine queries will necessitate a parallel campaign of rehabilitation. In cases like these, Red Sky has recommended a series of tactics, including:

- Subscription with an online privacy platform to remove personally identifiable information (eg., OneRep, DeleteMe, Reputation Defender) at an annual cost of $200 - $500
- Deployment of a reputation management campaign that would include creation and promotion of professional content and management of online reviews and social posts at a flat fee cost ranging from $5,000 - $25,000.

Beyond the recommendations above, there are ongoing costs that could last forever if they want to continue to protect their names. Those costs go toward suppressing the rhetoric from the defendants and making sure that true information mitigating misinformation is always available in searches or other forums where people can find the propaganda put forth by the defendants.

Sub-Conclusions

- A multi-year advertising, PR and marketing campaign will be required to repair the reputational damage to St. Luke's and its employees, as inflicted by Ammon Bundy, Diego Rodriguez and affiliated entities through their coordinated, targeted, sustained and high-visibility attacks.
- While the reputation campaign will focus on repairing the impacts of the disparagement campaign, it cannot quantify or solve for the lost opportunities to positively promote St. Luke's, its services and its focus on community health, nor truly fulfill its mission.
- The reputation campaign, estimated at a five-year cost of $16,775,056.32, will help but not fully restore the career and safety impacts to Dr. Erickson or NP Jungman.
- Our recommendations for Dr. Erickson and NP Jungman include online privacy services and a reputation management campaign. The cost range for these services, per individual, is an additional $5,200 -$25,500.

Appendix 4. Key Terms and Definitions

TERM	DEFINITION
Backlink	A hyperlink from one website to another. Typically used to hyperlink to a reference (e.g., blog post, news article). Influences website traffic and improves Google search rankings.
Content	Creative element published to the internet. Examples of content include text, images, video files, etc. Content can be published to a website, blog, social media post, etc.
Click Value	A way to see how much value a site could credit to its SEO performance. Every keyword has an estimated SEO value, very similar to how keywords have an average cost-per-click value on the PPC side.
Cost-per-click (CPC)	A marketing payment method where you pay for a 'click' on an advertisement post.
Cost-per-like (CPL)	A marketing payment method where you pay for each 'like' an advertisement receives.
Cost-per-mille (CPM)	A marketing payment method, also known as cost-per-thousand, is where you pay per one thousand views (impressions).
Cost-per-view (CPV)	A marketing payment method for video campaigns where you pay for each view.
Cost-per-engagement (CPE)	A marketing payment method where you pay for an engagement (like, comment, share, retweet, etc).
Domain	The hosting name of a website. Examples of domains are Google.com, Yahoo.com, and Microsoft.com.
Engagement	Umbrella term for actions that reflect and measure how much an audience interacts with content. Social media engagement can include likes, comments, and shares, but varies by platform. Engagement is calculated by totaling the number of likes, comments, and shares on each published post. Note: If post shares are not public, these statistics are omitted from the total.
Keyword	Ideas and topics that define what your website content is about and can be searched in a search engine such as Google. An example of a keyword is 'grocery store'. Keywords can also be brand names, such as 'Facebook'.
Impression	Total number of times a user opens an app or website and an advertisement or post is visible.
Mention	"A single article of content with a message by an author with corresponding metadata returned as a result of a Query or Channel

	search, such as a Tweet, Comment, Blog Post, Forum Message, News Article, Image or Video."[1]
Organic Keyword	Keywords used to attract free (non-paid) traffic through search engine optimization.
Original Post	Content that is unique in that it's never before been published online in precisely that way.
Outreach	An action that brings awareness to a brand, website, social media page, etc.
Reach	The number of unique accounts that have actually viewed your content
Topic	Themes that are most mentioned throughout a Brandwatch query. They can be words or phrases.
Query	"A keyword-based search utilizing Boolean operators to scan for matching results across select social networks and publicly accessible open websites."[2]

Appendix 5. Cost Estimate Calculations

Engagement Campaign - Cost Estimate Calculations for Table 3
	Likes (CPL) is $1.07[3] for Facebook	Comments (CPC) is $1.71 for Facebook[4]	Shares (CPC) Facebook is $1.71 for Facebook[5]	Retweets/Mentions (CPC) is $1.35 for Twitter[6]
Freedomman.org	See Table

Note: Data unavailable means the research team was unable to quantify metrics either due to the irrelevance to the platform or due to a lack of data access.

Appendix 6. Additional Results

Powermarketing.agency

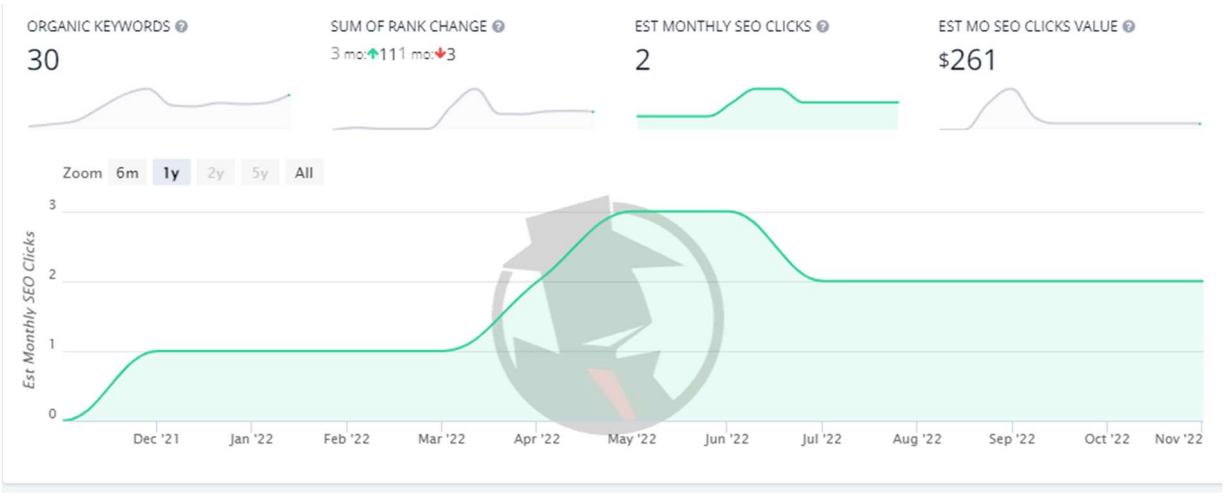

Powermarketing.agency is Diego Rodriguez' marketing company website. Because it is not directly related to the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative it is not included in the narrative of this analysis report. The general trends match those of Freedomman.org and VoteBundy.com and show relatedness to the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative and timeline.

Organic keywords rose from 8 to 19 between February - March 2022. Organic keywords peaked at 35 in May 2022. This is a similar trend to Freedomman.org and VoteBundy.com.

Note: Data is collected using SpyFu and a query of powermarketing.agency. Organic Keywords are keywords used to attract traffic through search engine optimization ("SEO").

From November 2021 to January 2022 estimated, monthly SEO clicks value was zero. This rose to 1.03k in February 2022 and peaked in March 2022 at 1.63k. This may or may not correlate to the "Save Baby Cyrus" narrative.

Note: Data is collected using SpyFu and a query of powermarketing.agency. SEO click value is a way to see how much value a site could credit to its SEO performance (i.e. how a website ranks in Google searches).

Nearly a year after gubernatorial candidate and right-wing activist Ammon Bundy was wheeled out on a cart after allegedly trespassing on statehouse grounds, he appeared in court for the second day of his jury trial on Tuesday, where he said the police had no authority to make an arrest. … Bundy was also arrested for trespassing at St. Luke's Meridian on Saturday; it is unclear when that arraignment will be. Bundy told the Idaho Press he doesn't believe this week's trial will affect his run for governor.

vallow's case has been on hold for months while she under-goes mental health treatment -- that also puts chad's case on hold. The state argued it would be more cost efficient to try the cases together since witnesses and evidence are the same.
Prosecutors also argued the delay on vallow's case is not enough reason to sever at this point. Judge steven boyce will consider the arguments and issue a written decision in the coming days.
For now, the couple's…

Report:	Forensic Psychiatric Evaluation Summary Report for Damages
Re:	Natasha D. Erickson, MD (DOB: 10/26/1984) Pediatric Hospitalist Physician, St. Luke's Health System
Case:	ST. LUKE'S HEALTH SYSTEM, LTD; ST. LUKE'S REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER, LTD; CHRIS ROTH, an individual; NATASHA D. ERICKSON, MD, an individual; and TRACY W. JUNGMAN, NP, an individual, Plaintiffs, vs.AMMON BUNDY, an individual; AMMON BUNDY FOR GOVERNOR, a political organization; DIEGO RODRIGUEZ, an individual; FREEDOM MAN PRESS LLC, a limited liability company; FREEDOM MAN PAC, a registered political action committee; and PEOPLE'S RIGHTS NETWORK, a political organization, Defendants
Case No:	CV01-22-06789
Dates of Evaluation:	November 7, 2022 and March 1, 2023
Date of Report:	March 8, 2023

Mr. Stidham and Ms. Henderson,

At your request, I performed a psychiatric evaluation of Dr. Erickson in order to assess her psychiatric status and determine the impact to her of the actions of the defendants in this case. Dr. Erickson is a pediatric hospitalist in the St. Luke's Health System and was targeted by the defendants via doxing and cyberstalking as a result of her involvement in the care of baby Cyrus, the grandson of plaintiff Diego Rodriguez, on and after March 15, 2022. The child was admitted twice to SLHS for severe malnourishment and dehydration and was temporarily placed into protective custody of the Idaho Department of Health & Welfare as a result of the parents' repeated failure to present to critical medical follow-up. The defendants immediately rallied their base and held a protest at St. Luke's campuses in Meridian and then Boise as well as launching online campaigns against Dr. Erickson, St. Luke's CEO Chris Roth, CARES provider Tracy Jungman, NP, and others including a judge, police officers, a community pediatric nurse practitioner, Aaron Dykstra, at Functional Medicine Idaho and a Health and Welfare social worker. Dr. Erickson's photo and contact information was published along with the others listed above on a Freedom Man Press website as being a "medical kidnapper" and a "child trafficker." Ammon Bundy participated in the protests and is quoted in one of the published websites as saying "Our children must be protected from these people who despise traditional Christian families and desire to tear us from our little children." He then alleges that there is a larger conspiracy with "thousands" of children and families affected and implies that Cyrus was only returned to his family due to their protesting. Both Mr. Bundy and Mr. Rodriguez have also stated publicly that St. Luke's is kidnapping and trafficking babies for profit.

Further, filings indicate that the defendants are representing themselves in this matter and have also doxxed and defamed Mr. Stidham and Holland & Hart law firm by disseminating false information including that they are "immortal, corrupt, fraudulent" and "financially support sexual perversion, gay pride and kid drag shows" as well as "in bed with the judges and the court house and IDHW and more."

Based upon the defendants' actions, I am producing a summary report of my findings to protect the plaintiffs from any further damages due to disclosure of their personal information. I am also very concerned about my reports being disclosed directly to the defendants and utilized or released inappropriately and would ask the court not to release them to the defendants directly and if possible have them sealed.

QUALIFICATIONS OF EXAMINER:

I have attached a copy of my most recent Curriculum Vitae. Briefly, I am a board certified psychiatrist and forensic psychiatrist, licensed to practice in the state of Idaho since 2005. I am the sole proprietor of Forensic Psychiatry Services of Idaho, PLLC. As a forensic expert I am trained in the performance of evaluations for various civil and criminal matters including assessment of competency to stand trial, risk assessments for sentencing, disability evaluations and evaluations for malpractice or tort claims. I am a recognized expert witness in state and supreme courts of Idaho, Oregon, Washington, California, as well as federal and military courts and at the appellate level.

I have practiced clinically in various settings, including prison, jail, forensic state hospital, VA and military inpatient, outpatient, and emergency room settings. I am also an expert in and have taught telepsychiatry and primary care consultation models to extend psychiatric services to underserved areas of the state.

I have evaluated and treated individuals in both clinical and forensic settings with a variety of psychiatric and medical diagnoses including schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, major depression, post-traumatic stress disorder, traumatic brain injuries, personality disorders, substance use disorders, autism spectrum disorders, intellectual disability and neurocognitive disorders.

I am a Clinical Assistant Professor in the University of Washington Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences, and the Forensic Curriculum Director for the Idaho Track of the psychiatry residency. I teach and supervise both clinical and forensic psychiatry in this capacity to both medical students and psychiatric residents. In that capacity I may also have trainees participating in these evaluations.

SUMMARY OF EVALUATION:
I performed a psychiatric evaluation of Dr. Erickson to supplement my telephone interview regarding the impact of the actions of the defendants in this case. Please refer to my 11/07/2022 Declaration for those opinions. Briefly, the actions of the defendants would be characterized as Cyberbullying (doxing is a subtype) and Cyberstalking per the references noted above. The impact of these behaviors by the defendants is long reaching given the permanence of the internet.

There are two types of cyber harassment in this case, one of a threat to personal safety and the other to professional integrity and reputation. Dr. Erickson and the others' targeted by the defendants were first identified with clear intent to intimidate them with a threat of physical harm to themselves, co-workers and to members of their household. The "call to action" of the defendants was experienced by Dr. Erickson as traumatic, terrifying and she feared for her safety as well as that of many others including her family, co-workers, and patients. As the information was disseminated to unnamed and innumerable followers, there is no reprieve from the fear of an attack. Dr. Erickson has taken precautions but obviously cannot be certain that someone will not act upon the call put out by the defendants and has recurring symptoms that meet criteria for chronic Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD).

The professional implication of accusing a pediatrician of "medical kidnapping" as well as unspeakable crimes such as "child trafficking" is not just patently false, but is intended to harm her reputation and the trust that others need to have in the physician that cares for their children. While she and the hospital have spent significant time and effort to mitigate these defamatory and alarming accusations, they cannot be erased or rolled back and Dr. Erickson faces a lifetime of mitigating the damage they have deliberately caused.

DSM 5-TR DIAGNOSES:

1. POST-TRAUMATIC STRESS DISORDER

1. It is my opinion with a reasonable degree of medical certainty that Dr. Erickson has the following psychiatric conditions as a direct result of the cyber harassment and cyberstalking of the defendants in this matter:
   a. POST-TRAUMATIC STRESS DISORDER
   b. ACUTE STRESS DISORDER

2. It is my opinion with a reasonable degree of medical certainty that Dr. Erickson's treatment to date for the psychiatric conditions that arose directly from the cyber harassment and cyber stalking by the defendants has been reasonable and necessary to date. This includes psychotherapy and administration of Eye Movement Desensitization and Reprocessing, or EMDR therapy.

3. It is my opinion with a reasonable degree of medical certainty that Dr. Erickson's prognosis is fairly good given her resilience, determination and strong work ethic as a physician. However, there is no end to this type of cyber assault and she continues to have distress with strong physiological reactions to reminders such as the frequent media releases by the defendants, caring for children whose cases remind her of this one and especially the prospect of facing the defendants in court whom she has never personally met despite their personal cyber attack on her. Her prognosis is complicated by the longterm active trauma symptoms characteristic of cyberstalking and she will likely have exacerbations in the future. Of note, she did not have a psychiatric diagnosis nor any treatment prior to these events.

4. It is my opinion with a reasonable degree of medical certainty that Dr. Erickson is at risk for developing more severe Post-traumatic Stress Disorder should she be exposed to another significant traumatic event. Due to her current PTSD diagnosis and the up regulation of her nervous system, she is more vulnerable to develop PTSD via additional traumatic events and to have exacerbation of her current symptoms with events such as a physical or cyber assault or stalking. Associated disorders with PTSD can be a risk of developing a major mood disorder, other anxiety disorders such as panic attacks or generalized anxiety disorder, suicidal thoughts or behaviors and many more psychological consequences. Some individuals following will even develop obsessive compulsive disorder following traumatic events. The impact of these events can also include longterm risk of substance use disorders and marital, social and occupational issues.

5. It is my opinion with a reasonable degree of medical certainty that Dr. Erickson would require the following interventions over time related to exacerbation of her symptoms:

a. Psychotherapy. CBT or prolonged exposure-based therapy is the gold standard for PTSD treatment. EMDR has been effective for her as well and she will likely need to get additional sessions over time if her intrusive symptoms recur more frequently.
   i. A typical course of psychotherapy for PTSD would be at least 6 to 12 months of weekly visits with a psychologist for this with improvement and then transition to supportive treatment as needed monthly or less for another 6 months. In her case as this is an ongoing stressor, her need for services would be extended indefinitely for supportive care.
b. Psychotropic medications for anxiety may be indicated in the future as well:
   i. First line treatment may include an antidepressant. She does not require one now based upon adequate treatment with her psychotherapy, but should that change she would need a minimum of 24 months of being in remission with her anxiety prior to consideration of stopping the medication.
   ii. Individuals with PTSD will often need assistance with interventions for insomnia. These could range from medications such as Prazosin for nightmares to cognitive behavioral therapy sessions for insomnia (CBT-i).
   iii. Individuals with PTSD also benefit from alternative and adjunctive medicine interventions to facilitate mind-body connection such as:
      1. Yoga and meditation (weekly for 6-12 months).
      2. Massage therapy or body work (weekly or bi-weekly for 6-12 months).
   iv. Individuals with PTSD can also burn out due to avoiding symptoms of their trauma and especially as a physician in a healing art, Dr. Erickson would be more at risk to sacrifice her free time for her patients. It would be important for her to have a regular schedule and time off in order to regulate her stress and sleep schedule as much as being a pediatric hospitalist will allow her to do so.
   v. She should also see a primary care physician regularly to monitor for any physical manifestations of her chronic stressors related to this case.

These are my opinions based upon the information provided. I reserve the right to update my opinions if additional data is provided to me for consideration in this matter.

Dates of Evaluation:	November 7, 2022 and February 24, 2023
Date of Report:	March 8, 2023

Mr. Stidham and Ms. Henderson,

At your request, I performed a psychiatric evaluation of Nurse Practitioner Jungman in order to assess her psychiatric status and determine the impact to her of the actions of the defendants in this case. Ms Jungman had been employed by the St. Luke's Health System for over 20 years and has spent the last 6 years employed as a provider with the CARES team. She has been targeted by the defendants via doxing and cyberstalking as a result of her involvement in the care of baby Cyrus, the grandson of plaintiff Diego Rodriguez, on and after March 15, 2022. The child was admitted twice to SLHS for severe malnourishment and dehydration and was temporarily placed into protective custody of the Idaho Department of Health & Welfare as a result of the parents' repeated failure to present to critical medical follow-up. The defendants immediately rallied their base and held a protest at St. Luke's campuses in Meridian and then Boise as well as launching online campaigns against Ms. Jungman, Dr. Erickson, St. Luke's CEO Chris Roth, and others including a judge, police officers, a community pediatric nurse practitioner, Aaron Dykstra, at Functional Medicine Idaho and a Health and Welfare social worker.

Ms. Jungman's photo and contact information was published along with the others listed above on a Freedom Man Press website, along with heinous allegations that she is a "medical kidnapper" a "child trafficker" and financially benefitting from abusing children under her care. On the Freedom Man website there are two pages of articles listed with Ms. Jungman's name attached including a very disturbing one in the style of a wanted poster entitled, "Child Trafficker Profile: Nurse Tracy Jungman." There are many articles falsely stating that she never saw baby Cyrus and that she falsely claimed he was in imminent danger as well as accusing her of malpractice related to alleged improper technique while reinserting his "forced" nasogastric feeding tube. More recent postings allege she also caused him to have a gastrointestinal infection.

Ammon Bundy participated in the protests and is quoted in one of the published websites as saying "Our children must be protected from these people who despise traditional Christian families and desire to tear us from our little children." He then alleges that there is a larger conspiracy with "thousands" of children and families affected and implies that Cyrus was only returned to his family due to their protesting. Both Mr. Bundy and Mr. Rodriguez have also stated publicly that St. Luke's is kidnapping and trafficking babies for profit.

Further, filings indicate that the defendants are representing themselves in this matter and have also doxxed and defamed Mr. Stidham and Holland & Hart law firm by disseminating false information including that they are "immortal, corrupt, fraudulent" and "financially support sexual perversion, gay pride and kid drag shows" as well as "in bed with the judges and the court house and IDHW and more."

Based upon the defendants' actions, I am producing a summary report of my findings to protect the plaintiffs from any further damages due to disclosure of their personal information. I am also very concerned about my reports being disclosed directly to the defendants and utilized or released inappropriately and would ask the court not to release them to the defendants directly and if possible have them sealed.

Promotion from Clinical Instructor and Clinical Associate Professor for increased duties involved in the supervision and teaching of medical students and psychiatry residents. Duties include didactic lectures, Forensic Rotation, general clinical supervision, and mentorship of residents.

Currently serve as the Forensic Curriculum Coordinator for the residency, in charge of didactic and experiential forensic education of the residents. Started first joint learning experience for psychiatry residents with Concordia University School of Law, in the form of mock trial for expert witness practicum.

In July 2014, started a resident Telepsychiatry Rotation, which involves supervising residents providing outpatient psychiatric care remotely to underserved areas of Idaho. Responsible for weekly supervision of three psychiatry residents, including direct supervision, teaching, observation and co-signature of reports. Work with team at SARMC to service both three local Patient Centered Medical Homes (PCMHs) and perform outreach to underserved areas and facilitate these services.

In 2020 the residency that I helped found went from an Idaho Track to a free standing ACGME accredited residency, renamed the University of Washington Boise Psychiatry Residency Program. I have participated in both ACGME site visits as a core clinical faculty member and site director of the Saint Alphonsus Telepsychiatry Clinic.

This is a part-time employed position.

August 2012 to present Psychiatrist
Saint Alphonsus Regional Medical Center
Telepsychiatry Department
Boise, Idaho

This is a primary care consultative clinic, or integrated care model of delivery. As the attending psychiatrist I have staff privileges at Saint Alphonsus as well as partner hospitals receiving contractual telepsychiatry services. We do consultation to both sites within Saint Alphonsus Health System as well as underserved rural areas of Idaho and serve multiple FQHCs. and have delegated credentialing and medical staff membership arrangements with partner sites. We provide comprehensive psychiatric diagnostic evaluations, treatment plans and ongoing support to patients and primary care providers. It is also a teaching clinic for the University of Washington Boise Psychiatry Residency Program, which we developed with a Trinity Innovation Grant to demonstrate novel use of the collaborative care model to patient centered medical homes in the Saint Alphonsus Medical Group. Data from that grant was collected and utilized to better address patient outcomes and facilitate quality improvements. The resident clinic is staffed with 3rd year psychiatry residents learning the modality every Tuesday, and I have a separate clinic to our rural partners without the residents. This is a part-time contracted position.

2004 Navy and Marine Corps Commendation Medal

"For meritorious service while serving as Staff Psychiatrist and Assistant Residency Training Program Director, Mental Health Services Department, Naval Medical Center, San Diego, California, from August 2000 to December 2003. Lieutenant Commander LaCroix treated over 1,000 acutely ill psychiatric inpatients and implemented an innovative Dialectical Behavior Therapy Program, training over 100 staff with savings over $100,000 in direct patient care costs. She spearheaded the development and implementation of an innovative way to document competence in psychotherapy that was cited as a "Model of Excellence" by the Accreditation Examiner. Lieutenant Commander LaCroix's distinctive accomplishments, unrelenting perseverance and steadfast devotion to duty reflected great credit upon herself and were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service."

2003 Navy and Marine Corps Achievement Medal

"For professional achievement in the superior performance of her duties while serving as the Command Psychiatrist, Naval Consolidated Brig Miramar from July 2002 to January 2003. Lieutenant Commander LaCroix performed her demanding duties in an exemplary and highly professional manner. She volunteered her expertise to lead a pilot Dialectical Behavior Therapy Skills Training Group for prisoners diagnosed with borderline personality disorder. Before the group's commencement, she provided invaluable guidance on its development for a correctional setting and supervised the creation of consent forms specifically for the Brig. She simultaneously maintained an arduous patient schedule, always ensuring quality care. She provided critical consults to clinical and administrative staff on psychiatric and mental health issues. Lieutenant Commander LaCroix's impressive managerial ability, personal initiative and unswerving devotion to duty reflected credit upon herself and were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service."

2003 National Defense Service Medal

The National Defense Service Medal (NDSM) is a decoration presented to recognize military members who have served in active duty during designated conflicts. Members must have served honorably during one of the following time periods: The Korean War from June 27, 1950 - July 27, 1954; The Vietnam War from January 1, 1961 - August 14, 1974; The Gulf War from August 2, 1990 - November 30, 1995; the War on Terrorism from September 11, 2001 - a yet to be determined date.

EXPERT REPORT OF MICHAEL WHEATON, M.D.

A. Background and Qualifications

1. I am a medical doctor licensed to practice medicine in the states of Idaho and Oregon. I am board-certified in General Pediatrics from the American Board of Pediatrics. I specialize in the monitoring of growth and development, diagnosing and treating illnesses, acute and chronic medical conditions, injuries and providing well childcare from newborns to adolescents. I hold further certifications in Pediatric Advanced Life Support (PALS) and from the Neonatal Resuscitation Program (NRP).

2. I received a Bachelor of Science from the University of Massachusetts, Amherst. I graduated from the University of Washington School of Medicine. I completed a pediatric internship at Texas Tech University of Health Sciences and completed my pediatric residency at Cincinnati Children's Hospital. I currently serve as a board member on the Saint Alphonsus Health Alliance (SAHA). I am the current Pediatric Department Chair at Saint Alphonsus Medical Center, Nampa, Idaho. I am also the Chairman of Quality and Informatics Committee, SAHA, Boise, Idaho, a member of the Medical Executive Committee, Saint Alphonsus Medical Center, Nampa, Idaho, and a member of the Finance Committee for Saint Alphonsus Medical Group, Boise, Idaho.

3. I have extensive experience in the medical treatment and care of children in both the hospital and clinic settings. My current practice includes the provision of inpatient and outpatient pediatric medical care from newborns to adolescents in Nampa, Idaho.

4. I have reviewed and considered literature regarding the Failure to Thrive (FTT) diagnosis in infants and young children, Cyclic Vomiting Syndrome (CVS), and medical neglect, which literature is identified in Exhibit A to this report. In forming my opinions in this matter, I also rely on my knowledge, experience and training as a pediatrician, as well as other scientific and medical literature that I have reviewed and used in my training and clinical practice.

B. Childhood Malnutrition

1. Childhood malnutrition occurs when the body does not get the proper nutrients it needs to function properly. In resource-rich countries like the United States, malnutrition can be caused by poverty, food insecurity, chronic health conditions, substance abuse, eating disorders, lack of education, and environmental factors.

2. With poverty, malnutrition can occur due to a lack of access to nutritious food. People living in poverty are more likely to rely on cheap, calorie-dense foods that are low in essential nutrients. Poverty is the most common contributor to malnutrition in the US.

3. Food insecurity refers to a lack of access to enough food for an active and healthy life. Food insecurity affects millions of people in the United States, especially in low-income households and communities.

4. Chronic health conditions, such as cancer, HIV/AIDS, and gastrointestinal diseases, can interfere with the body's ability to absorb and utilize nutrients properly, leading to malnutrition.

5. Substance abuse, including alcohol and drug abuse, can lead to malnutrition due to poor dietary choices, decreased appetite, and impaired nutrient absorption. This is more common during adolescence.

6. Eating disorders, such as anorexia nervosa and bulimia nervosa, can lead to malnutrition due to restrictive diets or purging behaviors. This as well occurs during adolescence.

7. Lack of parental education about nutrition and healthy eating habits can lead to poor food choices and malnutrition.

8. Environmental factors, such as exposure to toxins and pollutants, can interfere with the body's ability to absorb and utilize nutrients properly. Parasitic infections can cause malabsorption.

9. It is vital to address the underlying causes of malnutrition to prevent and treat this condition in child patients. This may involve improving access to nutritious food, education on nutrition and healthy eating habits, and improved healthcare for those with chronic health conditions.

10. The treatment of malnutrition in children depends on the severity and underlying causes of the condition. The first step in treating malnutrition is to restore the child's nutritional status through a nutritionally adequate and balanced diet. In terms of infants, formulas should be used if an inadequate breast milk supply cannot sustain an infant. Addressing any medical conditions is also crucial including parasitic infections or correcting anemia. Nutritional counseling and education of parents and caregivers are essential in ensuring an infant continues to obtain all of its nutrients and calories for optimized growth.

11. In more severe situations requiring hospitalization, feeding tubes and IV hydration may be necessary to initiate recovery. Evaluations by feeding specialists may help identify any underlying problems with being able to feed and eat adequately to support growth. It is not unusual to start feeding slowly until the infant can tolerate feeds adequate for growth. Once feeding is established, and weight gains are assured on a regimen of oral liquid feeds, a transition to the outpatient setting can occur. Weekly outpatient follow-up is necessary to follow continued growth.

12. Finally, in cases of childhood malnutrition, it is essential for parents and caregivers to work with a provider to develop a treatment plan tailored to the child's needs and circumstances.

C. Failure to Thrive

1. Failure to Thrive ("FTT") is a medical condition that refers to insufficient weight gain or growth in infants and young children. FTT is diagnosed in infants when they are not gaining weight or growing normally for their age and sex. This condition can have various causes, including medical issues, feeding problems, and developmental delays. FTT can result in significant health problems if not addressed promptly, including developmental delays, weakened immune systems, and even death.

2. The causes of FTT can be complex and vary from one case to another. Some common causes of FTT in infants include: (i) Medical conditions: Infants with chronic conditions such as heart disease, cystic fibrosis, or digestive disorders may have trouble absorbing nutrients from food, which can lead to FTT; (ii) Feeding difficulties: Infants who have difficulty feeding due to sucking or swallowing problems, food allergies, or reflux may struggle to take in enough calories, leading to FTT; (iii) Environmental factors: Infants exposed to environmental toxins, such as lead or mercury, may have trouble growing and gaining weight; (iv) Neglect or abuse: Infants who experience neglect or abuse may not receive enough food or attention, leading to FTT; and (v) Developmental delays: Infants with delays in physical or cognitive development may have trouble feeding or may not have the energy to grow and gain weight.

3. The diagnosis of FTT is made by looking at the growth patterns below established standards for age and gender. FTT is diagnosed in infants when the infant meets at least one of the following patterns: (i) Weight (or weight for length/height) two (2) standard deviations below mean; (ii) weight deceleration of more than two (2) major percentile lines after a previously established pattern; (iii) weight below seventy-five (75) percent of median weight for chronologic age; (iv) weight below eighty (80) percent of median weight for length; (v) weight for chronologic age below 5th percentile; (vi) body mass index for chronologic age below 5th percentile; (vii) length for chronologic age below 5th percentile.

4. The pathophysiology of FTT can be (i) inadequate caloric intake; (ii) inadequate absorption or utilization of calories; or (iii) increased caloric expenditure. For each of these three categories, there are various causes, which include for each category, as follows:

Inadequate Caloric Intake

- Dietary: breastfeeding difficulties; diluted or inappropriately prepared formula; and/or food fads or restrictions
- Developmental/neurologic: oral motor difficulties; and/or central nervous system abnormalities
- Social: unavailability of food; parent-child interaction disorders; mental health or behavioral disorders affecting child's appetite; mental health disorders affecting caregiver's parenting abilities; disorganized mealtimes; and/or neglect (omitting feeds or creating an environment not conducive to feeding)
- Medical: adenotonsillar hypertrophy; cleft lip and/or palate; dental pain and decay; congenital cardiac disease; gastroesophageal reflux disease; and/or dysphagia

Inadequate Absorption or Utilization

- Food allergies or intolerances
- Inflammatory bowel disease
- Gastrointestinal malformations
- Pyloric stenosis
- Hepatitis
- Cystic fibrosis
- Parasitic infections
- Inborn errors of metabolism

Increased Caloric Expenditure

- Hyperthyroidism
- Chronic infections
- Chronic immunodeficiencies

- Malignancy
- Pulmonary disease
- Cardiac disease
- Renal disease

5. The treatment of FTT depends on the underlying cause of the condition. Treatment may involve addressing feeding difficulties, medical conditions, or developmental delays. Some common treatments for FTT include:

i. Medication: Medications that stimulate appetite and growth hormone therapy have not been extensively studied in FTT. Nutritional supplements and calorie-dense foods help promote catch-up growth.

ii. Additional Therapies: Therapies include: (1) community-based nutritional and psychosocial counseling programs when there is no underlying illness; (ii) multidisciplinary interventions, including home nursing visits, improving weight gain, parent-child relationships, and cognitive development; and (iii) prescribing daily multivitamins like zinc and iron. The goals of additional therapies are to catch-up a child's growth (i.e., to achieve growth faster than normal rate for age so child can get back to a baseline within the normal range). For example, expected growth rates for age average at about thirty (30) g/day until the age of three (3) months, twenty (20) g/day from three (3) to six (6) months, ten (10) g/day from six (6) to twelve (12) months, and eight (8) g/day from one (1) to three (3) years. Additional therapies are employed to exceed expected growth rates.

iii. Issues for Referral: Subspecialty consultation may minimize risk of refeeding syndrome. Referral is typical when a genetic syndrome or disease suspected as underlying cause for FTT.

iv. Inpatient Consideration: Hospitalization is necessary when FTT persists despite community-based dietary interventions. Key indicators for hospitalization are: severe malnutrition; when weight for age is less than sixty (60) percent of the median or weight for height is less than seventy (70) percent of the median and increases morbidity; and/or when there is suspicion of abuse or neglect. Suspicion of abuse or neglect further necessitates a mandatory CPS report.

v. Ongoing Care: Monitoring should continue until weight-for-height deficit is repaired and the child no longer needs a specialized diet to maintain normal growth. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) suggests World Health Organization growth charts for all children up to age two years and CDC growth charts for older children. Specialty growth charts for patients with genetic conditions can supplement these charts.

D. Cyclic Vomiting

1. Cyclic vomiting syndrome (CVS) is a rare disorder characterized by severe vomiting and nausea episodes. This condition is more common in children than adults and can significantly impact a child's quality of life.

2. CVS is characterized by recurrent episodes of vomiting and nausea, typically lasting for several hours or days. These episodes may be triggered by various factors such as stress, excitement, infections, or certain foods. Other symptoms of CVS may include: abdominal pain; headaches; diarrhea or constipation; sensitivity to light or noise; dizziness or lightheadedness; and fatigue or weakness.

3. Epidemiology. The prevalence of CVS is 3 in 1000. While it can occur in adulthood, it is more common in childhood. The average age of onset occurs between three (3) and seven (7) years old.

4. The exact cause of CVS is not yet fully understood, but it is believed to be related to abnormalities in the autonomic nervous system and gastrointestinal tract. Some common triggers of CVS include: emotional stress; physical exhaustion; infections or illnesses; certain foods or food additives; changes in sleep patterns; hormonal changes; and overstimulation of the senses (e.g., loud noises, bright lights).

5. Diagnosis of cyclic vomiting syndrome: CVS is often misdiagnosed or overlooked because it is a rare disorder, and its symptoms can be similar to other medical conditions. A gastrointestinal (GI) specialist will typically perform a thorough physical exam and medical history review to diagnose CVS. A GI specialist may also recommend blood work, urinalysis, or imaging tests to rule out other medical conditions. A definitive diagnosis of CVS may require specialized tests such as gastric emptying studies or EEGs to evaluate brain activity during vomiting episodes. Testing for CVS may include one or more of the following:

- Blood and urine tests to look for infection, inflammation, or metabolic enzyme problems;
- X-ray of the upper GI tract with contrast dye to test for a structural problem;
- Abdominal ultrasound to evaluate organs inside the abdomen;
- CT or MRI of the head to look for any abnormalities/lesions;
- Gastric emptying study to determine how quickly food empties from the stomach; and
- Upper endoscopy to check for inflammation, in which a camera is passed through the mouth to look at the esophagus, stomach, and part of the small intestine.

6. Treatment of Cyclic Vomiting Syndrome: The treatment of CVS in children is focused on managing the symptoms and preventing future episodes. Some common treatments for CVS may include:

- Medications: Medications such as anti-nausea drugs, pain relievers, or antidepressants may be prescribed to help manage the symptoms of CVS.
- Lifestyle changes: Lifestyle changes such as stress reduction techniques, dietary modifications, and changes in sleep patterns may help prevent CVS episodes.
- Behavioral therapy: Behavioral therapy such as cognitive-behavioral therapy or biofeedback may help manage the symptoms of CVS by teaching children coping strategies to manage stress and anxiety.
- Nutritional support: Nutritional support such as IV fluids, electrolyte replacement, or enteral feeding may be recommended for children who experience severe vomiting and dehydration during CVS episodes.

7. Cyclic vomiting syndrome is a rare disorder that can significantly impact a child's quality of life. The symptoms of CVS can be debilitating, but with proper management and treatment, most children with CVS can lead relatively normal lives. If a child experiences recurrent episodes of vomiting and nausea, it is essential for its parents and caregivers to seek medical attention promptly to ensure an accurate diagnosis and proper treatment.

E. Clostridioides difficile (formerly Clostridium difficile)

1. Clostridioides difficile ("C. difficile" or "c-diff") is an anaerobic, gram-positive, spore-forming, toxin-producing bacillus. It exists in spore form in the environment. The spores are metabolically dormant and resistant to heat, acid, antibiotics, and most disinfectants. After C. difficile spores reach the intestine, they germinate into the vegetative form, which is capable of producing toxins and is susceptible to killing by antimicrobial agents. The toxins are what produce symptoms of infection. The bacteria can be present in "normal" infants and young children without symptoms. The passage of bacteria is most often fecal-oral transmission.

2. C. difficile infection occurs in thirty-five (35) children per 100,000 population. Seventy-five (75) percent of these cases are community-acquired. The incidence of pediatric community-associated C. difficile disease may be twice as frequent as hospital-acquired disease. Asymptomatic intestinal colonization with C. difficile (including toxin-producing strains) is common in children younger than two years old and is most common in infants younger than one year old. Clinical illness attributable to C. difficile is very rare in children younger than 12 months. Epidemiologic studies show that up to fifty (50) percent of healthy infants have colonization. Colonization rates drop to less than five (5) percent in healthy children older than five (5) years and adults. Recognized risk factors for older children acquiring C. difficile infections included antimicrobial therapy, use of proton pump inhibitors, repeated enemas, use of diapers, prolonged nasogastric tube insertion, gastrostomy and jejunostomy tubes, underlying bowel disease, gastrointestinal tract surgery, renal insufficiency, and impaired humoral immunity. The risk of nasogastric tube insertion is more apparent in Intensive Care Settings.

3. Clinical illness is rarely reported before twelve (12) to twenty-four (24) months of age. It is possible that neonates/infants may lack the cellular machinery to bind and process the toxins. In the setting of a high prevalence of asymptomatic carriage, detection of C. difficile toxin cannot be assumed to be the causative agent for diarrhea in children before adolescence, particularly young children.

4. Because of the colonialization of C. difficile in infants and children, it is not routinely recommended and is discouraged for children under twelve (12) months old. Also, testing should not be performed routinely in toddlers with diarrhea who are one (1) to two (2) years of age unless other infectious or noninfectious causes have been excluded. For children older than two (2) years of age, testing is recommended with new-onset severe diarrhea, fever, and risk factors such as immunocompromised conditions, a recent course of antibiotics, abnormal bowel anatomy, or healthcare exposures. Diarrhea is often defined as four or more stools that take the shape of their container in a 24-hour period.

5. The most common testing used for diagnosing C. difficile infection is using molecular assays that test for either the genes of the toxin-producing strains or the specific toxins produced by the bacteria.

6. The toxins produce the signs of infection from C. difficile. Symptoms of infection include severe diarrhea, fever, and abdominal pain. In severe cases, children may experience dehydration, bloody stools, and more severe complications, such as toxic megacolon.

7. The most common precipitating event before symptoms of C. difficile is using any antibiotic prior to the diarrhea. After diagnosis with molecular testing, the preceding antibiotic should be discontinued. Stopping this antibiotic will allow competing normal gut flora to reemerge and crowd out C difficile within the intestine. After diagnosis, symptomatic treatment may include using broad-spectrum antibiotics such as metronidazole and vancomycin. Asymptomatic patients should not be treated.

8. It is my medical opinion, given that it is very common for infants and children under the age of two (2) to have colonization, the source C. difficile would be impossible to determine in a child under the age of two (2) years.

F. Medical Neglect

1. Medical neglect in children is a form of child abuse that involves the failure of a parent or caregiver to provide adequate medical care for a child's physical, emotional, or developmental needs. Medical neglect can include delaying or avoiding necessary medical treatment, not seeking medical attention for a child's illness or injury or refusing recommended medical treatments.

2. Medical neglect can have serious consequences for a child's health and well-being; in severe cases, it can even lead to death. It is essential for parents and caregivers to understand the signs and consequences of medical neglect in children and to take appropriate steps to ensure that their children receive the care they need.

3. Some examples of medical neglect in children may include:

- Failure to seek medical attention: Parents or caregivers may neglect to seek medical attention for their child's injuries, illnesses, or developmental concerns.
- Delaying necessary medical treatment: Parents or caregivers may delay essential medical treatments for their child's condition, worsening the child's health.
- Refusal of medical treatment: Parents or caregivers may refuse medical treatment recommended by a healthcare professional, which can risk the child's health and safety.
- Not providing medications or therapies: Parents or caregivers may fail to provide prescribed medications or therapies for their child's medical condition.
- Not following up with medical appointments: Parents or caregivers may neglect to follow up with medical appointments or referrals, leading to the child not receiving necessary care.

4. The consequences of medical neglect in children can be severe and long-lasting and can include the following:

- Delayed treatment for illnesses or injuries, leading to worsened conditions or permanent damage.
- Developmental delays or disabilities due to lack of necessary medical interventions.
- Psychological trauma or emotional harm due to neglect or lack of appropriate care.
- Increased risk of chronic medical conditions or lifelong health problems.
- Death, in severe cases where medical negligence leads to serious illness or injury.

5. Any action or failure to act which causes serious physical or emotional harm or death or puts the child at imminent risk for such harm

6. Nutritional neglect can either mean failure to provide adequate nutrition to maintain physical growth and development or failure to prevent overnutrition leading to serious medical complications. Whereas medical neglect refers to either failure to provide prescribed medical care or treatment or failure to seek appropriate medical care in a timely manner:

7. Medical neglect has multiple presentations but may include:

- A seriously ill child where signs of illness were not recognized or care not sought.
- Serious or life-threatening exacerbation of chronic health conditions in children with a lack of adherence to treatment plans and recommended follow-up.
- Lack of primary care visits for vulnerable children, such as premature infants or children with complex medical needs.

G. Pediatrician's Duty of Care for Child Patients

1. Pediatricians are medical professionals who specialize in caring for infants, children, and adolescents. As healthcare providers, pediatricians have a duty of care to their patients, which includes the responsibility to provide safe and effective medical treatment, maintain confidentiality, and protect the well-being of their patients.

2. The duty of care of a pediatrician encompasses several important responsibilities, including the following.

i. Providing safe and effective medical treatment: Pediatricians have a responsibility to provide medical treatment that is safe and effective for their patients. Visits include performing thorough evaluations, making accurate diagnoses, and providing appropriate medical interventions.

ii. Maintaining confidentiality: Pediatricians must maintain the confidentiality of their patient's medical information, including protecting their patients' privacy and ensuring their medical records are secure.

iii. Protecting the well-being of their patients: Pediatricians are responsible for promoting the overall health and well-being of their patients, which includes providing preventative care, monitoring growth and development, and identifying and addressing potential health concerns.

iv. Communicating effectively with patients and their families: Pediatricians have a responsibility to communicate effectively with their patients and their families, providing information about medical conditions, treatment options, and potential risks and benefits.

v. Collaborating with other healthcare providers: Pediatricians may need to collaborate with other healthcare providers to ensure that their patients receive the best possible care. Collaborating includes referring patients to specialists when necessary, communicating with other healthcare providers about patient care, and coordinating care across multiple providers.

3. In addition to these responsibilities, pediatricians and other types of doctors and healthcare providers, such as nurse practitioners and nurses, may have legal and ethical obligations, such as reporting suspected cases of child abuse or medical neglect, adhering to medical guidelines and standards of care, and avoiding conflicts of interest.

4. The point at which medical neglect becomes reportable by health care providers to state social services agencies such as health and welfare for intervention occurs when the child presents a need for immediate medical care or intervention due to the risk of harm absent the medical care. A framework prior to reporting would be to determine that the medical team communicated the child's care needs to the parents or caregivers, that the medical team made an effort to encourage compliance and those efforts had been exhausted. In such scenarios, and where imminent or long-term harm is a potential, reporting to state social services is appropriate and necessary.

5. Overall, the duty of care of a pediatrician is to provide safe and effective medical care, protect the well-being of their patients, maintain confidentiality, and communicate effectively with patients and their families. By fulfilling these responsibilities, pediatricians can help promote the health and well-being of the children in their care.

H. Care Specific Opinions – St. Luke's Hospital Care of the Infant

1. March 1, 2022, to March 4, 2022 – Emergency Room Department to Hospital Admission and Discharge

i. The patient was a 10-month-old male referred by his primary care provider to St. Luke's Emergency Room for weight loss evaluation and dehydration. The Infant was seen by the ER physician and the admitting physician, Natasha Erickson, MD. Upon presentation, the Infant had significant findings of dehydration and malnutrition. The management in the ER was appropriate with fluid resuscitation. Laboratory studies were ordered appropriately, and a chest x-ray was necessary. The documentation and evaluations performed by Dr. Erickson and the ER physician were within the standards of care in assessing an infant with malnutrition and dehydration.

ii. Admission management during the hospital stay included evaluations by a feeding therapist and occupational therapist. The evaluations were warranted given the significant dehydration and malnutrition. An upper GI study to assess any intestinal malrotation was negative.

iii. Within the first 24 hours of the March 1, 2022, admission, the parents indicated they wanted to leave the hospital. The records show that Dr. Erickson explained to the parents the medical necessity of the Infant staying in the hospital and the need to observe the Infant closely. After Dr. Erickson's explanation, the parents consented to keeping the Infant admitted for further treatment.

iv. The Infant received IV hydration, oral feeds, and nasogastric feeds in the hospital. During the hospital admission, the Infant had intermittent episodes of gagging and symptoms of dysphagia with oral feeding attempts which had resolved by discharge.

v. Notably, the Infant gradually gained weight by discharge. In my opinion, this indicates that the Infant's malnutrition was due to not getting enough calories at home. The Infant did not require fortification (increasing base calories) of oral feeds that would indicate increased metabolic needs, or an inability to take the adequate nutrition.

vi. Upon the parents' insistence and the clinical improvement of the Infant, Dr. Erickson agreed to discharge the Infant home on March 4, 2022, with close follow-up care. For the twelve (12) hours prior to discharge the Infant had been able to take his complete feeds orally. The records also indicate, however, that Dr. Erickson wanted the Infant to stay in the hospital for at least one more day to better assess the oral feedings and to ensure the Infant would continue to improve at home under the parents' care.

vii. The feeding instructions for the March 4, 2022, discharge were for the parents to continue to offer 128ml of expressed breastmilk or formula every three (3) hours. If the Infant was unable to take the full amount orally during the feed, then the remaining amount was to be fed via syringe through the nasogastric tube.

viii. The Infant was released on Saturday, March 4, 2022, with the first follow-up appointment in the outpatient setting on Monday, March 7, 2022.

ix. In my opinion the medical records support the findings of dehydration and malnutrition made by the St. Luke's physician, Natasha Erickson, MD, upon the Infant's initial presentation to St. Luke's on March 1, 2022. In my opinion, the evaluations performed by St. Luke's between March 1 and the March 4, 2022, discharge were necessary and appropriate to begin to determine the reason for the Infant's malnutrition, and evaluation for failure to thrive (FTT). In my opinion, the fact that the Infant gained weight simply by receiving sufficient caloric intake, indicates that the Infant was not receiving enough caloric intake at home. During the hospitalization, he did not require additional calories from base needs to achieve weight gain. To that end, the discharge instructions regarding the frequency of feedings and amount of oral feeds explained to the parents were to ensure the Infant was receiving at each feeding were appropriate. Under the circumstances, it was important to have a fairly immediate follow-up appointment to ensure the Infant continued to recover from the malnutrition and gain weight at home. Given this, the March 7, 2022, follow-up appointment was appropriately scheduled.

2. March 4, 2022, to March 11, 2022 – Home Health Encounters, Appointments, and CPS Intervention

i. Home Health services attempted to contact the parents after discharge and were unable to reach them to arrange home services.

ii. The Infant was seen in follow-up at their primary care provider clinic in Meridian on March 7, 2022. The Infant had an approximate 30-gram weight loss relative to his discharge weight. Because of the weight loss, the provider asked the parents to return to the clinic on March 11, 2022 for an additional follow-up to reassess weight gain or further loss.

iii. On March 11, 2022, the Infant's mother called and canceled the appointment due to her not feeling well. The primary care provider clinic staff made attempts to ensure the parents could bring the Infant to the clinic as soon as possible. Due to the Infant's weight loss during the first follow-up visit and concern about the previous malnutrition diagnosis, Idaho Health and Welfare was contacted by the Infant's primary care provider clinic. As indicated above, contacting state social services, such as Health and Welfare, is appropriate when the medical team communicated the child's care needs to the parents, where, like here, the medical team made an effort to encourage compliance and those efforts were exhausted. Here, all of those steps where followed, and there was potential for imminent or long-term harm to the infant absent medical intervention.

iv. Idaho Health and Welfare then contacted the CARES clinic at St. Luke's, which also attempted to reach the parents to arrange a follow-up visit to assess the Infant without success. Upon review of the medical records, the nurse practitioner provider for the CARES clinic, Tracy Jungman, NP recommended that Health and Welfare make every attempt to bring the Infant in for further evaluation as soon as possible. Given the fact that the Infant had lost weight after the March 4, 2022, discharge, with a previous history of malnutrition with dehydration and the fact that no one at the family's primary care provider clinic nor staff from St. Luke's had any meaningful contact or direct communication from the parents, the endangerment risk to the Infant was great, and it was therefore appropriate for the St. Luke's provider to recommend Health and Welfare make every attempt to bring the Infant in for further evaluation.

v. Child Protective Services (CPS) with law enforcement located the Infant with his parents and brought the Infant to St. Luke's Meridian Emergency Department (ED) for evaluation.

vi. Upon evaluation on the evening of March 11, 2022, the ED St. Luke's providers found the Infant had significant weight loss since both his primary care provider visit on March 7, 2022, and his discharge weight on March 4, 2022. The St. Luke's providers also noted that the Infant appeared more acutely dehydrated as well as the consistent findings of previous malnutrition.

vii. Laboratory evaluation in the ED showed worsened metabolic changes with increased BUN since the levels were last measured during the March 1 to March 4, 2022, admission. The laboratory evaluations in the ED further showed the Infant had low glucose levels consistent with moderate dehydration.

viii. Provided the foregoing, the ED physician decided that admission was appropriate for ongoing evaluation of the malnutrition and for the health and safety of the Infant. The Infant was placed in Health and Welfare custody. The Infant was transferred to St. Luke's Boise the evening of March 11, 2022.

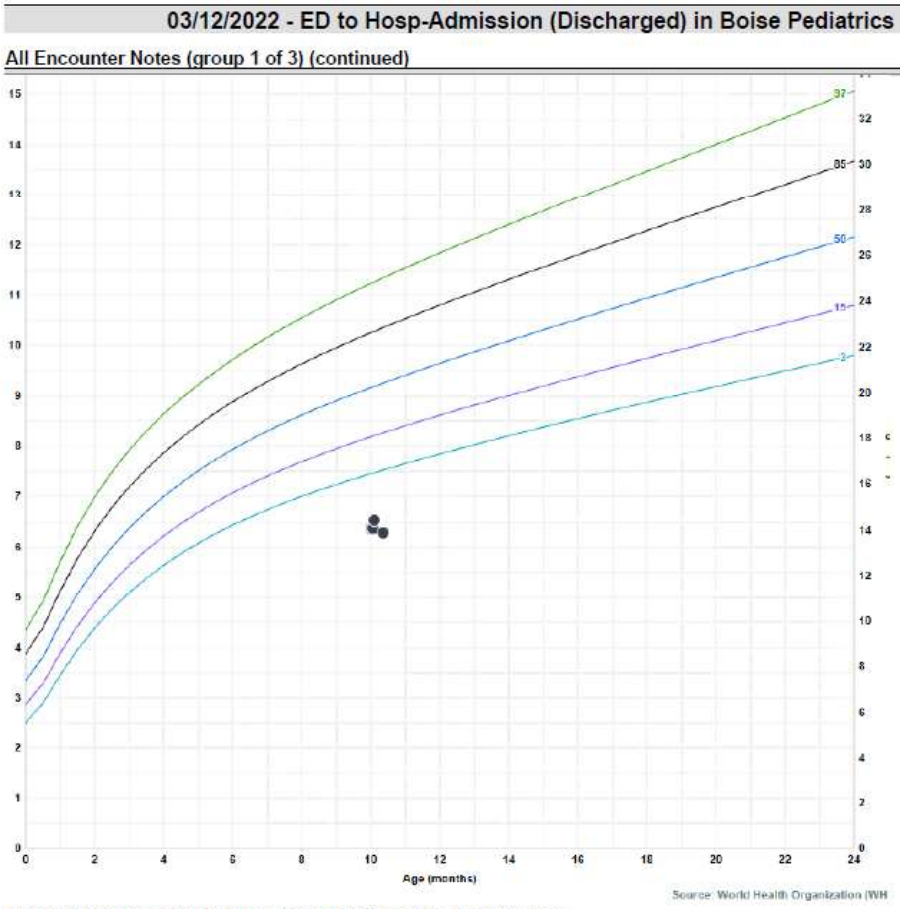

ix. Upon arrival and admission to St. Luke's Boise, the Infant's condition was consistent with acute dehydration and continued signs of malnutrition.

3. March 12 to March 15, 2022 – Hospitalization and Discharge.

i. The hospitalization and follow-up testing were appropriate. During the March 12 to March 15, 2022, admission, the Infant was fed orally and via nasogastric tubes when the Infant was not able to tolerate the oral feed goals to meet his caloric needs. The Infant received both oral and nasogastric feeds during his hospitalization. The Infant gained weight as expected. Follow-up laboratory tests improved. The primary diagnoses of malnutrition and FTT were accurate. The Infant met the criteria for FTT with percentiles of weight at less than one (1) percent as well as weight-to-length of less than one (1) percent. FTT is a diagnosis made based on growth curves appropriate for age and gender.

ii. The chart below shows the Infant's weights taken between the March 1, 2022, admission through the March 12, 2022, re-admission plotted on growth curves for his age and gender.

The following weights have been documented on Cyrus:

- March 1 (initial hospital admission) 6.38 kg
- March 2 6.355 kg (+ 25 g)
- March 3 6.385 kg (+ 30 g)
- March 4 (day of discharge) 6.545 kg (+ 160 g)
- March 7 (hospital f/u at PCP clinic) 6.51 kg (- 35 g)
- March 12 (readmission) 6.28 kg (- 230 g)

iii. The secondary diagnosis of severe malnutrition was accurate. The findings of malnutrition were consistent with weight gain velocity of less than the 25th percentile of expected mean relative to six (6) months weight measurements, a weight-to-height ratio percentile greater than three (3) and half times from the standard deviation of the mean. The Infant also clearly exhibited muscle and fat wasting as was documented in the record with photographs.

iv. The diagnosis of hypoglycemia was accurate. Based on the initial laboratory evaluation on March 11, 2022, the Infant was hypoglycemic. His hypoglycemia was quickly corrected with intravenous (IV) fluids and was part of the moderate dehydration.

v. While admitted from March 11 to March 15, 2022, the Infant received feeding therapy from speech and occupational therapy.

vi. The condition of the Infant on March 15, 2022, was improved at discharge.

I. Opinions on Overall Care of the Infant by St. Luke's Health Care System

1. I believe the care St. Luke's provided the Infant from March 1, 2022, through March 15, 2022, was within the expected standards of care for evaluation of acutely dehydrated malnourished infants. Laboratory and radiographic evaluations were within the standard of care. Supportive care with feeding therapy and evaluations by nutrition services was appropriate.

2. In my opinion, parents who bring their children to the physician only intermittently for check-ups or health concerns have underlying distrust of the provider, have financial difficulties, or may not understand the importance of monitoring and observing growth and development by their pediatric provider. When a medical problem or developmental delay is identified, the participation and interaction with parents and the guidance of the provider make the care of the child ideal.

3. In my opinion, the parents of the Infant became elusive with St. Luke's health care providers from the time of first contact, on March 1, 2022, which was initiated by the parents, through the date of discharge on March 15, 2022. Specifically, the parents were elusive about the Infant's health history, and illusive regarding how the Infant was doing after the March 4, 2022, discharge. It is my opinion that the parents were responsible for the worsening health of the Infant after the initial hospitalization. Specifically, the parents were medically neglectful with following the recommendations for feeding their Infant. The calling of CPS by health care providers is always the very last resort but is necessary when the endangerment risk to the child's well-being is significant, as in this case. I believe that the parents recognized that the Infant might be at risk of returning to the hospital after their March 7, 2022, visit with their primary care provider. The medical neglect became apparent when the parent canceled the follow-up visit. They were avoidant to the phone calls trying to arrange further close follow-up on the same day of the cancellation to even accommodate them with a late visit in a St. Luke's Hospital Clinic. They had to have been aware that the Infant was not able to take his full oral feeds as early as the follow-up visit on March 7, 2022. They did not indicate that they were having problems with feeds and had removed the "back up" nasogastric tube meant to ensure the Infant continued to recover.

4. These opinions are based on my review of the records made available to me as of the date of this report. I reserve the right to amend or supplement these opinions if additional information is made available for my review. I may also provide opinions in response to opinions of other experts in this case within my area of expertise.

5. In the past four years, I have not served as an expert witness and have not been deposed in any case.

6. I charge $500 per hour for records review, for deposition testimony, and for trial testimony.

I certify that the foregoing is true and correct.

INTRODUCTION

I was engaged by Holland & Hart, LLP to evaluate the financial impact on St. Luke's Health System, Ltd. (Health System) business operations associated with the disruption that occurred generally during the third week of March 2022, as a result of demonstrations on the Boise and Meridian hospital campuses allegedly organized and encouraged by Ammon Bundy et, at.

The immediate impact was to the System's Boise hospital and affiliated clinics and to the System's Meridian hospital and affiliated clinics (collectively referred to as "the Hospital(s)"). However, there will be a System wide, on-going impact on costs related to security for all St. Luke's branded medical facilities.

Data provided, reviewed or relied upon in support of the opinions contained herein are as noted within the opinions and/or as listed in Table 1, which follows my opinions.

In addition to documents referenced in this report, I may summarize information contained in such documents in exhibit form to assist with the explanation of my analysis and opinions at trial.

As additional information or testimony becomes available, I may find it appropriate to revise or supplement my opinions, analyses and conclusions stated herein. I may also be called upon to provide testimony with regard to additional data or records and/or data received from or testified to by other parties and/or their witnesses.

Overview

The Health System's business operations were impacted between March 12, 2022 and March 18, 2022.

The business operations of St. Luke's Regional Medical Center consist of the Boise and Meridian Hospitals along with their associated clinics, operated and located on the property utilized by the Hospitals. The clinics include, by way of example, facilities such as the St. Luke's Cancer Institute in Boise and the Family Medicine Clinic in Meridian.

Schedule 1 reflects and accumulation of the loss and cost elements being claimed, which are supported by Schedule 2 through Schedule 7.

a) The top portion of Schedule 1 reflects the summation of lost revenues and associated lost earnings for the Boise and Meridian locations.

b) The bottom portion of Schedule 1 reflects the increased security costs expected for the St. Luke's branded hospitals and clinics on a System wide basis.

The following table summarizes the losses illustrated in this report as a direct result of the demonstrations during the period of March 12-18, 2022 and the expected future costs as a result of the demonstrations during the period of March 12-18, 2022, along with ongoing disparaging comments currently focused on the Hospitals:

	One Time Losses	Recurring Annual Costs	Present Value of Combined Losses and Costs
Lost earnings	$3,896,793
Additional security costs	54,700	$4,640,203
Annual totals	3,951,493	4,640,203
Present value of losses & costs	$3,951,493	$45,447,630	$49,399,123

The present value date for my Opinions is March 10, 2023.

As a direct result of the Boise and Meridian campus demonstrations, the Hospital lost revenues and related earnings associated with those lost revenues in the amount of $3,896,793.

This opinion is based upon:

1) As noted earlier, Schedule 1 reflects and accumulation of the loss and cost elements being claimed, as described in this report. The schedules discussed below were developed to support the one-time losses in earnings noted in Schedule 1.

2) Finance personnel of the Health System conducted an analysis of cancelled appointments by comparing:

   a) an average cancelation rate during the weeks included in the months of February, March and April of 2022, not including the week impacted by the demonstrations,

   b) to the cancellations during the week of the demonstrations.

   Schedule 2 reflects a summary of cancellations during the weeks before and after the demonstrations to cancellations during the week of the demonstrations. The higher rate of appointment cancellations during the week of the demonstrations was used to measure the impact on revenues and expected incremental earnings lost.

3) Finance personnel of the Health System provided a summary of the detailed accounting records maintained in the normal course of business for the Boise and Meridian Hospitals and Clinics. This data was used to identify:

   a) Lost net patient revenues, which are gross amounts billed minus agreed contractual reductions with certain payors and other billing adjustments.

   b) Variable costs associated with the generation of patient revenues, which are used to reduce the lost contribution to earnings from the lost net patient revenues.

   Schedule 3 reflects a summary and analysis of the relevant revenues and costs that were utilized in the loss analysis.

4) Finance personnel of the Health System developed an equivalency analysis of revenues generated by the Clinics compared to the Hospitals, via a standard methodology utilized by similar institutions. This was completed as part of the process of estimating lost patient revenues during the week of the demonstrations. The ratio of inpatient revenues is compared to total revenues to derive a factor which is then used to adjust acute patient (hospital admissions) revenue, which can be used to estimate the lost patient revenues associated with cancelled appointments.

   Schedule 4-1 illustrates this analysis for the Boise location and Schedule 4-2 illustrates this analysis for the Meridian location.

SUPPORTING DATA

This opinion is based upon the above noted sources and information and/or documents identified in Table 1.

OPINION 2

As a direct result of the actions of Bundy et, al., the Health System has been forced to incur additional costs for security at not only the Boise and Meridian campuses, but also at other System wide St. Luke's branded medical facilities in the amounts noted below:

$54,700	One-time costs associated with the third week of March 2022.
$4,640,203	Annual recurring future costs for enhanced security at all locations.
$45,447,630	Present value of the annual recurring future costs for enhanced security.

This opinion is based upon:

2) Expected costs were developed in conjunction input from Abbey Abbondandolo, Senior Director for Security for St. Luke's Health Systems, Ltd. and Spencer Fomby of Law Enforcement Tactical Consultants, LLC.

3) One-time security related costs are listed on Schedule 5.

4) Finance personnel of the Health System provided an analysis of incremental personnel costs which are expected to be required as a continuing annual cost to strengthen security, for not only the Boise and Meridian locations, but all of the St. Luke's branded facilities in Idaho and Eastern Washington.

   Schedule 6 illustrates the analysis of personnel costs associated with enhance security.

5) Present value of future costs.

   a) The one-time costs are all past costs and accordingly there is no present value computation required.

   b) The annual recurring costs require a present value computation to convert those future costs into an equivalent amount at "today's dollars".

      - In order to compute the present value of future costs one must estimate how those costs will increase in future years and then discount those future costs at an appropriate business-related risk adjusted discount rate.

        - Since the costs in question represent wages, the future increases in costs are estimated at the expectation for future increases wage rates. The Social Security Trustees estimate future wage increases at 3.9% and the Idaho Division of Financial Management estimates future wage increases at 4.4%. The Health System estimates future wage increases at 4.0%.

- The development of the discount rate utilized in my analysis is reflected in Schedule 7-1. This schedule is based on data obtained from review of the input data available from Business Valuation Resources in their Cost of Capital Professional calculator and data base.

c) The present value calculations are presented in Schedule 7. There are two equivalent methods to calculate present value, depending on the nature of the cash flow being analyzed. One is to capitalize the current cash flow and the other is to discretely present value the cash flow associated with each individual time period. If the future cash flows have stabilized, the two methods will produce the same result, so in effect the capitalization of cash flows is a "short-cut" method to determine the present value. In this case, the future costs for security are stabilized at a 4.0% annual growth rate.

- The capitalization rate is calculated by taking the discount rate and subtracting the growth rate, then applying that factor to the current years cash flow. Because the impact on incremental security costs is deemed to be perpetual, dividing the $4,640,203 in costs by the 10.21% capitalization rate yields a present value of $45,447,630.

- If the $4,640,203 of additional costs in year 1 are projected forward at a growth rate of 4.0% and discounted at a rate of 14.21%, the present value of this cost or cash flow stream into perpetuity would have the same value, or $45,447,630.

Schedule 7 illustrates the capitalization of costs in the top portion of the schedule and the annual discrete present value calculation in the bottom portion of the schedule.

The present value column in the bottom portion of the schedule reflects today's value of the amount by year in the annual cost column. Of note is the fact that even though the amount in the annual cost column increases each year, the present value of the amount decreases each year. The final column in the bottom portion of the schedule (Cumulative Present Value) is merely an accumulation of the annual present value amounts, each year, added to the previous years running total.

This particular presentation only extends for 20 years and arrives at a total of $38,463,772. This amount is less than the $45,447,630 mentioned earlier because the time period was arbitrarily cut-off at 20 years. If the annual calculation was continued on in time, it would exceed $45 million after 50 years and would ultimately approach $45,447,630.

The purpose of this 20-year presentation is to allow the trier-of-fact to stop the accumulation of costs at the end of any time period, up through the 20 years presented, as an alternative to the full accumulation of costs of $45,447,630.

The (ERP) was selected, representing the Historical ERP calculated using the S&P 500 average annual return of 11.64% derived from CRSP data for the 1928 - 2022 period and a 5.36% 20-year T-Bond average annual return (reconstructed) for the same timeframe.

Size Premium

The (SP) was based on the Center for Research in Security Prices (CRSP) decile 6 which included 331 firms with an equity market capitalization size ranging from $1,389,851,000 to $2,365,076,000 in Q4 2022. The CRSP decile 6 mean annual return reached 14.39% between 1928 and 2022. The mean annual return for the S&P 500 for the same period was 11.64%.

Industry Risk Premium

The (IRP) was calculated using an industry beta of 1.17 selected based on professional judgment. The industry beta for 2022 US Hospitals/Healthcare Facilities was sourced from Dr. Aswath Damodaran and included 34 firms.
Implied Industry Risk Premium = (Industry Beta * ERP) - ERP = (1.17 * 6.28%) - 6.28%.

INSIDE THE FAR-RIGHT "PEOPLE'S RIGHTS" NETWORK

A SPECIAL REPORT BY THE INSTITUTE FOR RESEARCH & EDUCATION ON HUMAN RIGHTS AND THE MONTANA HUMAN RIGHTS NETWORK.

INTRODUCTION

"ARE YOU READY FOR CIVIL WAR NOVEMBER 4"

--Tony Pellegrino, People's Rights [1]

SEIZING ON COVID-19 ANXIETY, AMMON BUNDY AND HIS ALLIES HAVE CULTIVATED A DANGEROUS NEW NETWORK OF MILITIA MEMBERS, ANTI-MASKERS, CONSPIRACISTS, PREPPERS, ANTI-VAXXERS, AND OTHERS INTO AN ARMY OF FOLLOWERS–AMMON'S ARMY.

This report by the Institute for Research and Education on Human Rights and the Montana Human Rights Network explores the breadth and depth of the network built by Bundy and named "People's Rights." What started in late March with a few dozen supporters in a rural Idaho warehouse has swiftly expanded to a membership base of over twenty thousand across the country.

Relying on field reports, countless hours of video footage, interviews, archival material, and a massive trove of online data, report researchers have captured the first full picture of Ammon's army.

Data presented in this report suggests that the rapid growth of the People's Rights network has been spurred by a fusion of Bundy's core of the far-right paramilitary supporters built up over years of armed standoffs with a mass base of new activists radicalized in protest over COVID-19 health directives.

The leadership of the People's Rights network has remained hidden, locked away inside a new online platform away from public scrutiny, until now. Under the People's Rights banner, Bundy has assembled a team of 153 "assistants" in sixteen states. This report, for the first time, names all 153 of those activists and examines their backgrounds–including extensive far-right activism by many area assistants. Though the national and state leadership is still dominated by men, this report also documents how People's Rights has a majority of women in local leadership positions—a first for modern far-right networks.

This report also details how People's Rights carved up the country into local areas. It maps the locations of the more than twenty thousand members of the People's Rights network. It also dives into the data collected by report researchers on the composition of the online membership base of the twenty-two different People's Rights Facebook groups that helped accelerate the spread of the network. The report digs into the new online platform developed by People's Rights, a way to communicate with activists in case of de-platforming by major social networks.

The results of this study contravene many of the myths surrounding the People's Rights network. Instead of a more traditional "anti-government" narrative, People's Rights leaders have expressed a desire for governmental power to be used to protect the "righteous" against "wicked" liberals, antifa, Black Lives Matter activists, and others. Several People's Rights leaders are running for elected office—to become the government. Absent that sort of intervention, leaders have proposed a type of armed enclave-style "neighborhood" nationalism, where "righteous" neighbors stand against the "wicked." People's Rights leaders have often defined the "wicked" using far-right conspiracism, racism, antisemitism, anti-indigenous, and anti-transgender sentiment.

Despite the different network branding, this report further highlights how the People's Rights network shares many commonalities with far-right paramilitary movements of the past, including the Posse Comitatus and the militia movement.

Throughout the report, the danger of Ammon's army becomes evident. Already there have been significant clashes and growing rage. In the context of the pandemic, it puts the lives of community members and public servants at risk, straining democratic institutions, and damaging civil society. We hope this report will serve as an alert to all communities in the path of Ammon's army.

POINT OF THE SPEAR

AMMON BUNDY AND THE MALHEUR ARMED OCCUPATION

The origins of the People's Rights network and the insurrection against COVID-19 restrictions can be traced back four years to the snow-swept terrain of the southeast Oregon high desert. For all the recent viral far-right misinformation claiming "antifa" started wildfires across the West, it's important to remember that the 2016 armed takeover of the Malheur Wildlife Refuge in Oregon began as a rally supporting two ranchers convicted of arson wildfires on federal land.

Rancher Dwight Hammond Jr., and his son, Steven, were convicted of starting a 2001 wildfire on federal land, allegedly to cover up illegal deer poaching. Steven Hammond "handed out 'Strike Anywhere' matches with instructions that they be lit and dropped on the ground because they were going to 'light up the whole country on fire.'"[2] Steven Hammond was also convicted of a 2006 arson in a national wildlife refuge.

When the Hammonds were ordered to serve their full sentences, militia members, Three Percenters, Tea Partiers, and other so-called "patriots" from across the country converged on Burns, Oregon to protest. Among those in attendance was Ammon Bundy, who had become a larger-than-life movement figure after the 2014 armed standoff at his father's ranch in Nevada. Following a demonstration, a small group of activists led by Bundy left the rally to take over the dormant buildings of the Malheur National Wildlife Refuge to take a "hard stand" against federal "tyranny."[3]

At a press conference during the takeover, Bundy laid out his rationale for seizing the facility as part of a larger crusade to steal public lands.[4] Calling for reinforcements, Bundy declared that they were the "point of the spear that's going to bring confidence and strength to the rest of the people."[5] Many, indeed, were emboldened by Bundy's actions.

After forty days, the armed occupation came to an end with one man dead and more than two dozen occupiers charged with federal offenses. In the legal battle for the Malheur invaders that ensued, Bundy quietly built up a core group of dedicated followers. They helped promote Bundy and did support work for the numerous people who went to trial for involvement in the armed takeover. In the end, the arsonists were pardoned by President Trump, while Ammon Bundy and most of the Malheur militants were freed by the courts. Then along came the COVID-19 pandemic. What was past became prologue as the group of militia members and other far-rightists attracted to the Bundy cause became the nucleus of what would become the People's Rights network.

FROM MALHEUR TO MASKS

AMMON BUNDY & THE COVID-19 INSURRECTION

As governors around the country began putting in place rules to prevent the spread of the COVID-19 pandemic, Ammon Bundy started gathering people together to stop them. On March 26, Bundy held an initial meeting in his warehouse in a dusty lot near the railroad tracks in Emmett, Idaho.[6] By that day, a total of 79,785 confirmed cases of COVID-19 in the US had been reported, with 1,136 deaths from the virus.[7]

At a germinal gathering of what would become People's Rights on April 2, Ammon Bundy oversaw a meeting where COVID-19 health restrictions dominated the conversation. One participant lamented that "If we knew for sure that 150 million people were going to die that would be tragic and sad and very unfortunate, but that still doesn't trump our freedom and our rights."[8]

There was widespread agreement in the room about the need to change the narrative away from "focusing on the virus" to "focus on our freedoms and our rights."[9]

When the group reconvened a week later, seventy-two people were in attendance to hear Bundy announce the new name for the group and describe how quickly they had grown.

"We have more people here than we had before, and we've started to get organized, so bear with us because it feels like oh man they're not that organized. And we're not. But every day and every week we get more and more organized. We put this in place. We put this in place. And pretty soon we have a body of people that are capable—not just talking about—but capable of defending their liberties because we're uniting. That's what's happening here. So one of the things we've done we've put a way that people can basically join, if you wanna call it that, People's Rights, or whatever you want to call it. And we have a contact list that's now probably over 300 people. So that's a good little start, ok."[10]

During the event, they announced that they would defy the governor's stay-at-home directives and hold an Easter service. Though only about sixty people attended the Easter rally, the defiant disregard for public health drew national attention.[11]

Bundy and People's Rights created a network based on aggressive, belligerent non-compliance with the COVID-19 health directives. Bundy has repeatedly told his crowds, "Do not comply. That is what it will take."[12]

To help slow the spread of the coronavirus pandemic, like many places the city of Meridian, Idaho, closed playgrounds and outdoor exercise equipment (while leaving walking paths open). On April 21, nine days after the Easter protest in nearby Emmett, Sara Walton Brady, leader of the anti-vaxxer group, Idahoans for Vaccine Freedom, staged a protest at a closed playground and was arrested after multiple requests to leave. She broadcast her arrest on social media. In an aggressive response to Walton Brady's arrest, Ammon Bundy and a group of about 40 people protested outside of the arresting police officer's home.[13] One person, who identified themselves as a member of the III% of Idaho, called the Meridian Police Department to demand, "It's time to choose a side. We can't stand what you people do. We will make you abide by the Constitution."[14] The combined actions reaped national attention, another spark to ignite insurrection. Sara Walton Brady became a member of the People's Rights Idaho group, which helped bring anti-vaxxers into the network.

The series of visible confrontations became a rallying cry around the country, setting off a wave of protests that one week later saw heavily-armed militia members storm the Michigan legislative chambers and the governor hung in effigy. It also gave spark to far-right groups opposed to COVID-19 restrictions. From April to September, the number of those groups swelled to 1,186 with 3,032,085 members.[15]

As attention shifted to the massive number of vocal groups clamoring to reopen the economy in the middle of a pandemic and opposing any sorts of health mandates like wearing masks, Bundy and People's Rights were building an army behind the scenes.

CHAPTER TWO:

UNCOVERING THE PEOPLE'S RIGHTS NETWORK

THE STRUCTURE, SIZE, AND SCOPE OF THE NETWORK

Initially, much of the core of what became People's Rights grew out of ties developed during the Bundy family's armed confrontations with the federal government and/or their subsequent court cases. Some of these core activists became engaged in these networks around the time of Cliven Bundy's 2014 Bunkerville standoff, including Nevada state leader Joshua Martinez, Utah Area 9 assistant Shawna Cox, Utah Area 10 assistant Raul Hevia, and Washington State Area 2 assistant Tammy Hill.[16]

Others were involved in Ammon's takeover of the Oregon wildlife refuge. Utah Area 9 assistant Shawna Cox, Idaho Area 2 assistants Sean and Sandra Anderson, and Utah figure Brand Thornton were all directly involved in the Malheur takeover. Oregon state leader BJ Soper organized in connection to the occupation through the Pacific Patriot Network.[17]

Others either directly mobilized or became engaged online on behalf of LaVoy Finicum, killed by police during the standoff, or during post-Malheur Bundy family trials. These include:

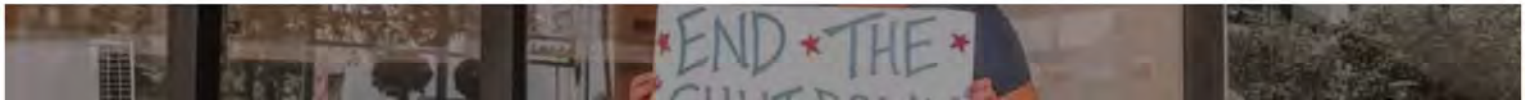

- California state leader Tony Pellegrino
- California Area 10 assistant Erik Cryder
- Washington Area 4 assistant Kelli Stewart
- Washington Area 5 assistant Amanda Bisset
- Missouri Area 8 assistant Madelynn Frazier
- Montana Area 5 assistant Ed Kugler
- Oregon Area 3 assistant HollyJo Beers
- Utah Area 11 assistant Trevor Wilkerson. [18]

Arkansas state leader Angela Clemons, while organizing in support of a militia member convicted of plotting to kill law enforcement, did so in cooperation with activists in Bundy's networks in 2018.[19]

In late April, People's Rights launched its website, complete with stock-photos of a happy white family, and the tagline, "Uniting Neighbors to Defend Their Families, Faith, Freedom and Future."

AMMON'S ARMY CHAIN OF COMMAND

THE PEOPLE'S RIGHTS NETWORK STRUCTURE

Despite persistent talk of a lack of hierarchy in the organization, People's Rights is a fairly typically structured group. Ammon Bundy sits atop the hierarchy—though in an unnamed, unspecified position. He is the main spokesperson for the group, and it appears that he has complete access to all the individual member information.

Seated below Bundy, at least in terms of access to information, are so-called "state assistants" responsible for coordinating activities with multiple "area assistants" across their respective states. As Bundy explained in a training video, "The job of the state assistant is to identify the boundaries of each area and to help nominate and fill each of the area assistant positions. And it's really that simple. Then the state assistants will just assist the area assistants in all that they have to do, training, when one needs to be replaced they can encourage nominations."[20]

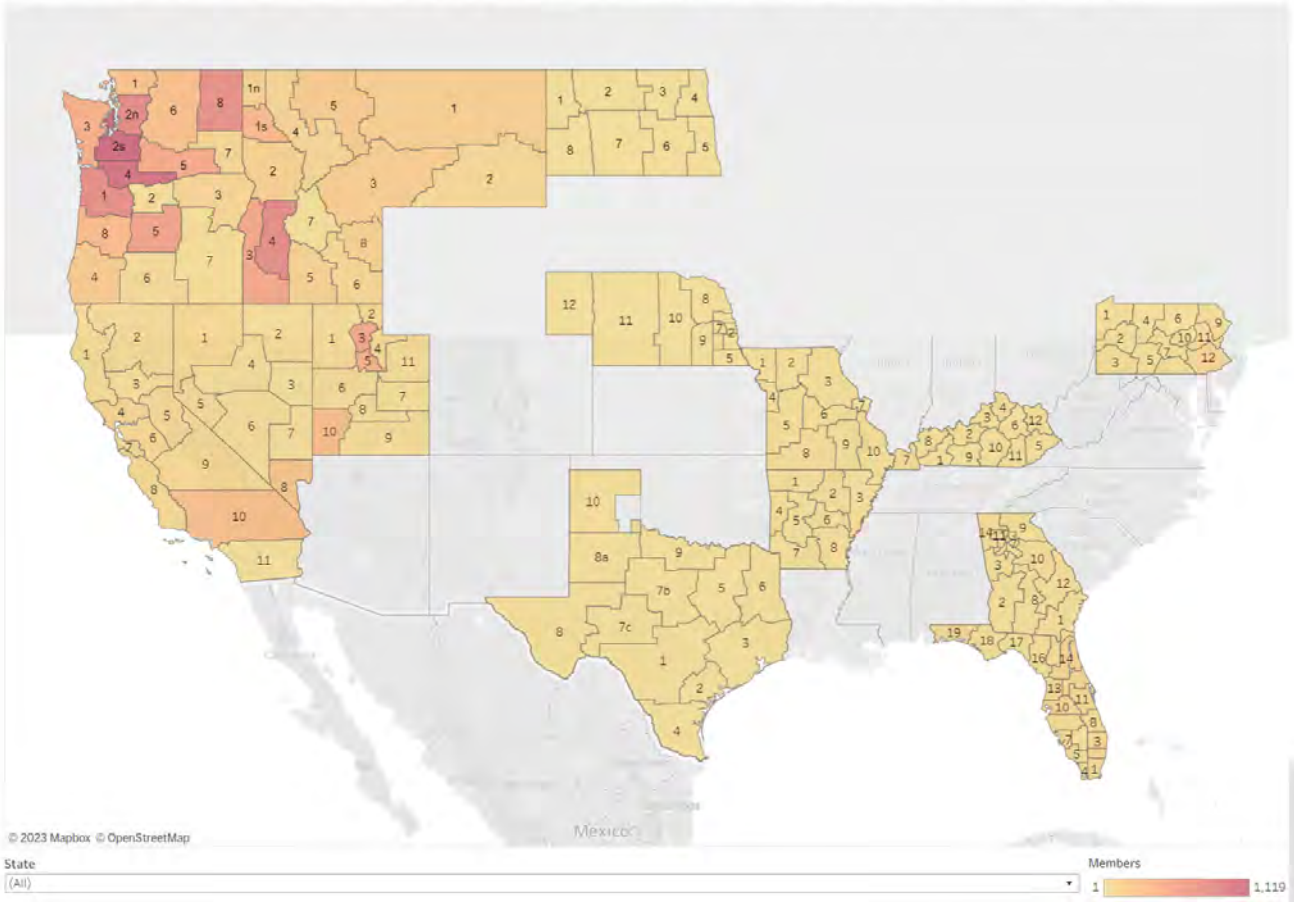

According to Bundy, "the area assistant is the most important role in people's rights," as they are the "gatekeepers of the information."[21] Bundy explained in another training video for area assistants,

> "So when people sign up to People's Rights, the area assistants receive that information and it does not go to all the other people in your area. That way it's protected, that it can't be used improperly. And the area assistants are the gatekeepers, the caretakers of that information. They also activate the people when someone's rights need to be defended, or when something is going on in their community, in their neighborhoods, that needs to be addressed."[22]

MAPPING THE PEOPLE'S RIGHTS NETWORK

DESIGNATED LOCAL AREAS & MEMBERSHIP FIGURES

In sixteen different states, the network has divided up each state into areas that are overseen by area leaders. As of September 1, there are ten state assistants and 143 area assistants in sixteen states: Arkansas, California, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Utah, and Washington. Kentucky, Nebraska, and Texas have been divided into areas, but do not yet have assigned state or local assistants. In total, these states account for 15,602 individuals in the People's Rights network, the vast majority of the group.

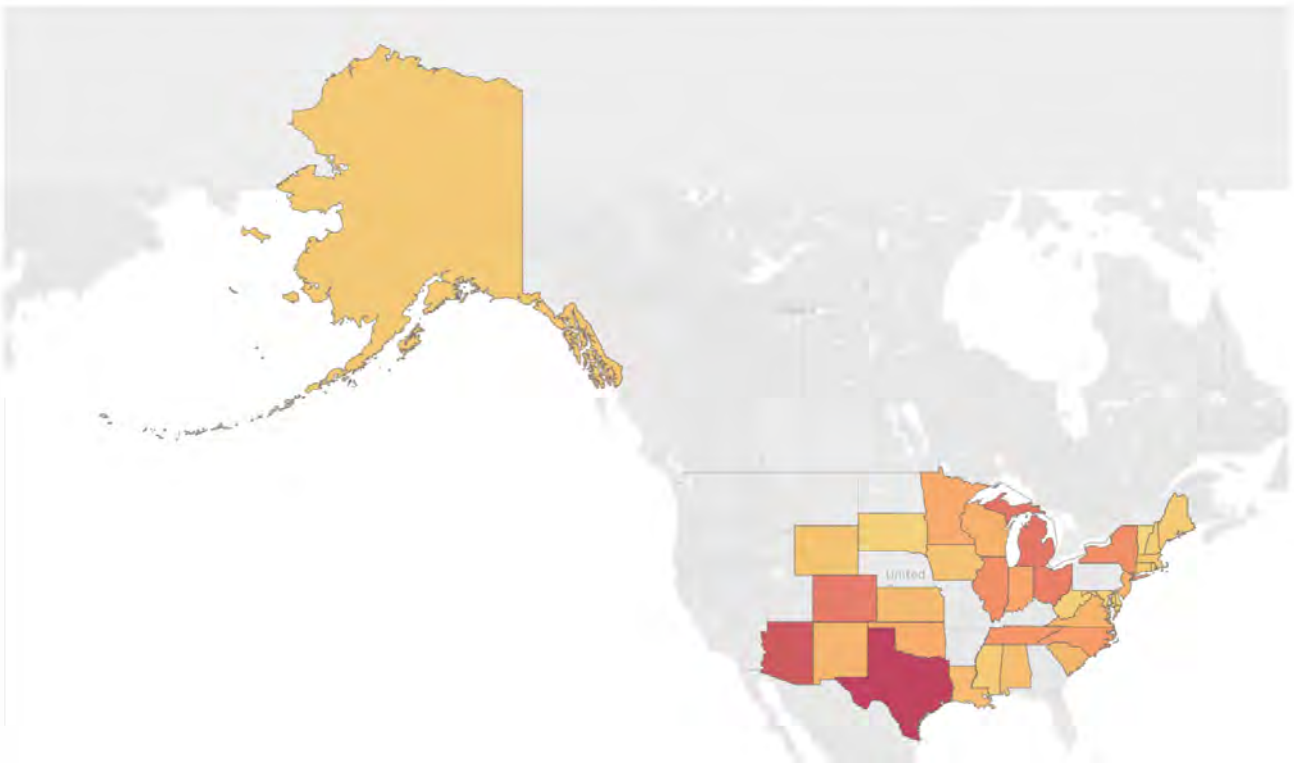

STATE PROFILES

The complete list of area assistants has only been known to the inner-circle of People's Rights. Until now. Report researchers have uncovered the complete list of state and area assistants for People's Rights. A complete list of state and area assistants is available here. Additional information about area assistants is available on each state page.

MEMBERSHIP IN STATES WITHOUT LOCAL AREA STRUCTURE

In addition, there are 6,249 additional members scattered across the thirty-four states that do not yet have area leaders and have not been broken into areas. In total, the People's Rights network had 21,851 members in their membership system on September 1.

THE COVID-19 INSURRECTION AND THE MASS BASE

Building on top of the initial militia base, data suggests that the growth of People's Rights relied heavily on opposition to COVID-19 health restrictions. An examination of Facebook data indicates that People's Rights area leaders are members of 85 different COVID-19 Insurrection groups.[23] More than one-quarter of the members of People's Rights groups on Facebook are members of one or more groups opposed to COVID-19 restrictions. In total, 2,097 members of the 8,193 members of People's Rights Facebook groups are members of one or more of 785 different groups opposed to COVID-19 health restrictions.[24] Some of the most popular groups among People's Rights Members include: Reopen Washington State (370), Bare Face Is Legal (270), ReopenWA (262), Put your $$ where your mask is. Freedom Friendly Businesses!! (256), All Jobs are Essential (221), Open Oregon (174), No Mandatory Masks For Kids in ANY Washington State Schools (162), Reopen Oregon (155), Reopen Washington State Churches (155), and Reopen Washington Action Network (143).

As discussed at the initial meetings, the network quickly moved beyond opposition to COVI9-19 restrictions. Instead, they laid forth a framework to appeal to militia-types, conspiracists, anti-vaxxers, preppers, Christian nationalists, and more. According to their website,

> "When it is no longer 'legal' to grow your own food, educate your children or operate your own business, who will you call? Who will you call when the law mandates that vaccines be injected into your body or the bodies of your children? Who will you call when street criminals roam your neighborhood undeterred by the police? Who will you call when due process is denied to you because of political differences? Who will you call when things like contact-tracing are implemented in your state and you refuse to participate?"[25]

The expanse of the issue set may partially account for the wider appeal of People's Rights with women, compared to the militia/Second Amendment crowd.

Most far-right networks have been dominated by men, who made up the vast majority of leaders and members. Militia-type networks have generally been +85% men in membership, even higher percentages in leadership. The Tea Party was the first modern far-right movement to create significant room for women. Between 2010 and 2015, the Tea Party had between 37% and 33% of members who identified as female.[26] By contrast, the People's Rights network has cultivated a leadership network where the majority of leaders identify as female. Of the 153 area leaders, 53% appear to identify as women, 47% as men. The overall head of the People's Rights network, and eight of the ten state leaders, however, are men. None of the area assistants that researchers have examined identified as transgender or non-binary, and several of the network's leaders have expressed anti-transgender bigotry.[27]

CHAPTER THREE:

THE ONLINE ARMY

PEOPLE'S RIGHTS USED FACEBOOK TO RECRUIT AN ARMY. NOW THEY ARE MOVING ON.

One of the ways People's Rights has been able to grow so quickly is by capitalizing on existing far-right networks on Facebook. For over a decade, militias, Three Percenters, and other far-right groups have had free reign on Facebook's platform. Data collected by report researchers indicates that People's Rights groups were built atop that legacy. Part of the "People's Rights" brand was to simultaneously paper over that history while situating the group at the heart of COVID-19 insurrection.

The first People's Rights private Facebook group was created at the end of April, with most of the rest coming online in June. As of September, the network built out twenty-one different Facebook groups covering Washington, Idaho, Oregon, Montana, Missouri, and Nebraska.[28] They also convinced the Facebook group Open Carry Utah, which had been created back in 2015, to openly declare that it was an "arm of peoplesrights.org."[29] Among those groups, there are 8,193 unique members. People's Rights also has six Facebook pages representing groups in four states (Idaho, Georgia, Montana, and Washington) as well as the national organization. Those pages have been liked by 9,483 people. Local activists have effectively used Facebook to recruit members, publicize their activities, and livestream their protest demonstrations.

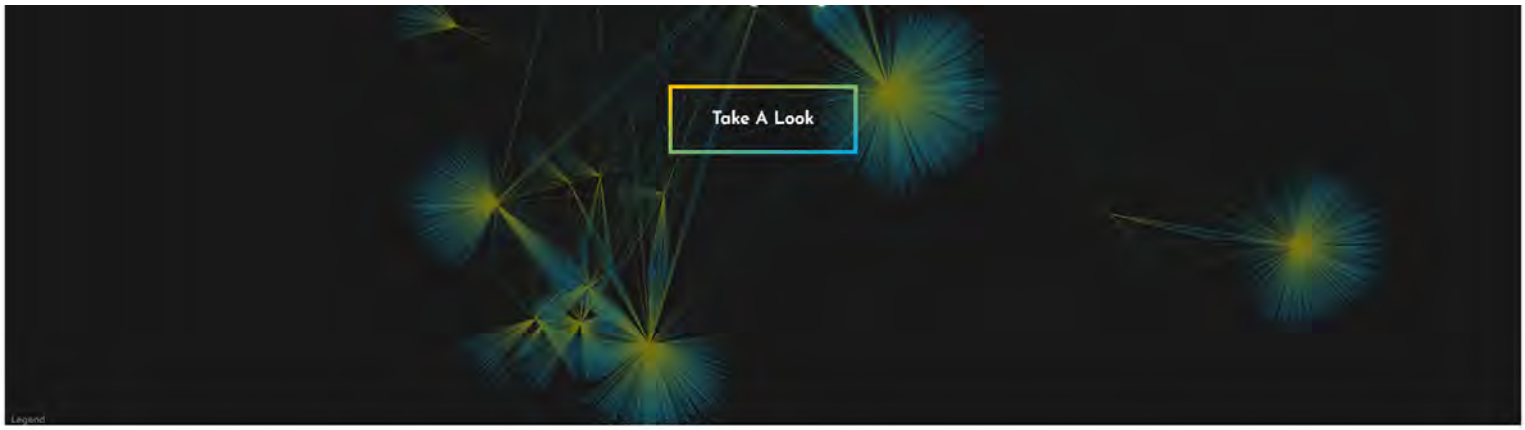

Even before Facebook's recent removal of some militia and Three Percenter groups, People's Rights was already moving away from the platform. Rather than bank on Facebook to communicate with members, People's Rights has chosen a more direct path. The People's Rights network relies primarily on an online tool to communicate actions to members via SMS text message.

Prospective members enter their cellphone number and other information on the group's website or send a text message to People's Rights national. Prospective members then receive a text message containing a temporary Access Code that needs to be entered on the website to verify the member. That information is shared with local area leaders. Cellphone numbers are also used to send text messages or voicemails to activists about upcoming events.

In some ways, the People's Rights communications structure is a bit of a throwback, harkening to the days of the old "telephone tree" where each activist has a set of pre-determined people they must relay information to when phoned. After a call was started, it would proliferate through the network, each person calling their handful of contacts, until everyone was contacted. Now the system is automated via text message. All the members of a specific area can be contacted by a local area assistant, an entire state can be contacted by a state assistant, and the entire network can be sent text messages by Bundy and crew. Individuals can also join the network via text message. Such a system allows much of the network's activity to occur away from prying eyes on social media.

As Florida Area 12 assistant Rachael Love Cohen described in August, "Unlike social media platforms, People's Rights offers a secure messaging system that will provide us the security we need when we are shut down by the ever-increasing media censorship. This is our primary vehicle to use in emergency situations."[30]

Fearing Facebook action against People's Rights, Bundy announced in September that the network is also building out its own social networking site. It will have to compete with several new Idaho far-right social networking sites that came online this month.[31] On October 6, Oregon Area 1 assistant, Sonja Persey, indicated a shift in a similar direction, when she announced that she was shifting the group's Facebook page over to a WIMKIN social network site. Persey cited Facebook "censorship" for the move and invited existing members to join at that platform.[32]

As People's Rights grew, Bundy continued to broaden that appeal. Decrying potential electoral success by liberals, Bundy warned, "They're not going to respect our rights. They're going to try and make laws to take our arms away, to take our liberty to worship away, to take the right that we have to decide what goes into our bodies and our children's bodies away, that's what it means. And because we have legislators who believe in liberal ideas, all of a sudden now, all our rights are gone? No, that's not the way it works." [33] Not content with a band of "Don't Tread on Me" flag-wavers, Bundy was charming a viper's nest of armed activists ready to strike.

CHAPTER FOUR:

A DEN OF RATTLESNAKES

A DEN OF RATTLESNAKES

PEOPLE'S RIGHTS, VIOLENCE, MILITIAS, & FAR-RIGHT STREET FIGHTERS

Despite all the talk of "rights" and "freedom," a culture of violence and fear lies at the center of the People's Rights message. As Bundy told the crowd at the third meeting of the group, if local, state, or federal officials attempt to enforce laws that the group doesn't like, People's Rights is prepared to adopt a violent posture.

> "Even though I hesitate to compare us to rattlesnakes, right, we do on the Gadsden Flag certainly have a snake and it says 'don't tread on me' well we're going to flip that around because what we want to become, what we will become, we are going to be like a den of rattlesnakes—because we will be so venomous if our rights are even threatened one bit, we will be venomous. So people that would normally simply trample on rights will simply walk around us. They will go around because it is not worth their effort. They don't want to get bit."[34]

Not surprisingly, that sort of rhetoric has attracted numerous militia members, Three Percenters, Oath Keepers, and other far-right paramilitary types to People's Rights.

Report researchers documented that state and area People's Rights leaders have been members of at least 31 different Militia-type Facebook groups (militias, Three Percenters, Oath Keepers, patriot, minutemen, etc.).[35] This includes memberships in groups like APIII-American Patriots the III% Old School, III% United Patriots, LFA III% Washington, Montana Militia, North Cascades Patriots, Oregon III%, Southern California Patriots, Southwest Missouri Militia, Washington III%, and the Washington State Militia.

Membership in militia-type groups is even more pronounced among People's Rights Facebook group members. Report researchers found that 756 members of People's Rights various Facebook groups are members of one or more of 203 different militia-type Facebook groups.[36] One member of Open Carry UTAH- OCU (An arm of PeoplesRights.org), for instance, is Mark "from Michigan" Koernke, one of the most notorious militia leaders of the 1990s.[37]

Additionally, twenty-two members of People's Rights Facebook groups were members of one or more of the Facebook groups dedicated to Matt Shea's secessionist "Liberty State" effort.[38] In 2019, a state House report found that Shea "planned and participated in domestic terrorism against the United States before and during the armed takeover at Malheur National Wildlife Refuge."[39]

In addition to the ties to far-right paramilitaries, there are People's Rights area assistants who have been members of the Facebook group of Patriot Prayer, the group known for violent street clashes and Islamophobic rallies. Peoples Rights Oregon area 3 assistant, Jill Litzsinger, and Washington area 4 assistant, Kelli Stewart, were both members of the Patriot Prayer Facebook group (before it was removed from the platform). Throughout the summer at People's Rights protests in Washington, Patriot Prayer founder, Joey Gibson, was a frequent featured speaker. Gibson is awaiting trial on felony riot charges after Patriot Prayer members attacked a group of anti-fascists in Portland.[40] [For more on Joey Gibson, select his profile]

Joey Gibson of Patriot Prayer with Kelli Stewart.

Patriot Prayer's anti-left fanaticism is reflected in some members wearing t-shirts declaring that "Pinochet Did Nothing Wrong," according to press reports. This refers to the Chilean dictator Augusto Pinochet, who came to power through a CIA-backed military coup that overthrew democratically-elected President Salvador Allende. After seizing power, the Pinochet regime launched a campaign of brutal repression against left opposition.[41]

Patriot Prayer events have often included members of the racist reactionary group, the Proud Boys, in the crowd. Since their creation in 2016, the Proud Boys have become infamous for their racism, misogyny, and acts of street violence. People's Rights activists have not shied away from the violence and racism of the Proud Boys.

During the presidential debate on September 30, President Trump told the Proud Boys to "stand back" and "stand by." While the Proud Boys were busy gaining new members and selling T-shirts with their newfound fame, a member of the People's Rights Idaho Facebook group posted an image of the Proud Boys logo wrapped by that phrase, to which the activist attached the note, "That's right!"[42] Another member added, "Good advice for all of us."[43]

On August 31, People's Rights Oregon area 1 assistant, Amanda Vital, circulated an announcement for September 26 Proud Boys rally in Portland.[44] The advertisement included the phrase "Free Kyle Rittenhouse," the far-rightist who killed two Black Lives Matter demonstrators in Kenosha, Wisconsin.

At least one People's Rights area assistant has a history around the Proud Boys. Alicia Peterson, an Idaho area 3 assistant, posted pictures with Proud Boys in September 2017.[45]

People's Rights activists have sought out conflict on playgrounds, in stores, and government buildings. On August 10, after being asked to wear a mask at Costco, and refusing to do so, People's Rights leader Ammon Bundy said in a Facebook video, "You can't even go to the store without feeling like a 1933 Jew...I mean I really can sympathize with them a little bit."[46]

Later in the month, Bundy was arrested twice for refusing to leave an area of the Idaho Statehouse. In one of the episodes, Bundy and a group, none wearing community-protecting masks, was reported to have shoved police officers and broken a glass door to gain entry. Bundy would be banned from the building for one year.[47]

Ammon Bundy and cohorts showed up at a high school football game in Caldwell, Idaho on October 1. He and his group were asked to wear a mask, just like everyone else. They refused to wear a mask or leave Caldwell High property. They were given the option of watching the game from the park. They refused and became disruptive. After "a threat to the safety of the school was made" the school district was forced to end the game at halftime.[48] Bundy and his group frequently use force or threatening actions, to disrupt, postpone, or shut down public events.

CHAPTER FIVE:

THE POSSE RIDES AGAIN

PEOPLE'S RIGHTS & THE LEGACY OF THE POSSE COMITATUS

Besides the history of armed confrontations and long-established relationships, another thing potentially attracting militia members to People's Rights is the deployment of old-school Posse Comitatus-like rhetoric and tactics.

As Daniel Levitas, author of The Terrorist Next Door explained, the Posse Comitatus (Latin for "power of the county") was a violent far-right paramilitary group that swept through the farm crisis of the 1970s and 1980s, which fused medieval British legal practice with hardcore white supremacist ideas. The idea was that the county sheriff, or any individuals in a Posse, could arrest and put on trial in a "citizens' jury," any individuals or government officials who attempted to enforce "unlawful" legislation.[49]

The Posse Comitatus relied on the esoteric racism and antisemitism of Christian Identity and the notion of 14th Amendment citizenship to spread like wildfire during the farm crisis of the 1970s and 1980s, observed Leonard Zeskind in Blood and Politics: The History of the White Nationalist Movement from the Margins to the Mainstream. Christian Identity adherents hold that white, northern Europeans are the true Israelites of the Bible while Jews are satanic imposters. People of color, meanwhile, are pre-Adamic and inferior "mud people" or the Book of Genesis' "beasts of the field." Such racists also held "original" white citizens exempt from federal jurisdiction, while inferior 14th Amendment citizens were subjects of the national government.

THIRTEEN: CONCLUSION

By contrast, Ammon Bundy's vision for People's Rights is grounded in a broader "Constitutionalism," and popular far-right conspiracies, particularly around COVID-19. Left unchallenged, the more expansive appeal gives People's Rights the potential to build a larger movement than the Posse.

Fixation on the county as a locus of power, veneration of the county sheriff as "the highest law officer of the land," promotion of racist and antisemitic conspiracies, outlandish pseudo-legal tactics, and calls for armed insurrection were the hallmarks of the Posse during their heyday. Many of those themes have been echoed by Ammon Bundy and other leaders in the People's Rights network.

Bundy voiced the Posse Comitatus-like view that "we delegate policing and arresting power to certain people, but who do we, when it comes to law enforcement, do we the people delegate it to?...The sheriff, and only the sheriff." He's gone so far as to tell his supporters that city, state, and federal law enforcement agencies are illegitimate, "Your city police are not Constitutional policing agents. Your state police are not Constitutional policing agents. And your federal police are not."[50]

Some People's Rights leaders, including Bundy, have called for "defunding" city police. This, however, should not be construed as a nod towards the efforts of Black Lives Matter. Instead, the People's Rights "defund" effort is in the context of shifting power and resources to the county sheriff.

Also like the Posse Comitatus, some People's Rights activists, like Brand Thornton, have even called for replacing local police outright with bands of "citizen militias."[51] Thornton's vision is especially troubling given another post in which he declared, "I live to hear Antifa getting shot all day long."[52]

Posse-like ideas don't stop with Ammon Bundy. Take, for instance, People's Rights Washington leader, Kelli Stewart, who also voiced a similar fixation on the county sheriff, "The county sheriff is the highest law enforcer, even when there are incorporated cities within his county...I would love to see the County Sheriff send in his deputes to keep the peace in the cities, and defund all police" [italics added].[53]

Stewart has not only echoed Posse ideas, she's gone so far as to lend support to the cause of imprisoned Posse murderers.[54] She recently wrote, "Let my people go! Free Yorie Kahl and Scott Fahl! Scot is my friend and brother in Christ, and I believe he should be released after almost 4 decades in prison for defending himself and his friends against a federal ambush!"[55]

The alleged "ambush" occurred on Feb. 13, 1983, near Medina, North Dakota, when Yorie Kahl and Scott Faul murdered two federal marshals and injured two other enforcement officers who were attempting to serve Yorie's father, Gordon Kahl, with a probation violation warrant as they were leaving a Posse Comitatus meeting. Gordon Kahl had been a Posse Comitatus leader who refused to pay taxes to the, in his words, "Synagogue of Satan under the 2nd plank of the Communist Manifesto."[56] Gordon Kahl escaped the gun battle and fled. Four months later, he killed an Arkansas sheriff before dying in a firefight.

Putting words into action, People's Rights groups have attempted to get county sheriffs to intervene against local governments and police departments to prevent enforcement of COVID-19 health restrictions. At a Vancouver, Washington, People's Rights rally in support of a woman ticketed for illegally reopening her business during the pandemic, Joey Gibson, leader of the violent far-right street-fighting group, Patriot Prayer, and a member of the People's Rights Washington Area 8 group, fully embraced Posse rhetoric,

> "For those of you who don't know, it is the Sheriff's responsibility to protect the Constitution within his own county. Doesn't matter if it's within the city, right? Doesn't matter if he has to protect us from this guy, the city council or any other law enforcement. That is his job."[57]

The embrace of Posse ideas by a far-right street activist like Gibson represents an expansion of these ideas into other far-right circles not known to be previously impacted by such ideas.

Gibson let slip the overall game plan for this manufactured conflict, "To flip it around on them, to get a movement going." Creating fear is also part of the plan. "We've got to put fear into their hearts, so they don't charge one more business owner. Not one. Not one. I talk about this all the time. They have to be afraid of us, guys," he declared.[58]

In a similar vein to the Posse Comitatus, though not yet as relentless, People's Rights groups have also taken up sending bogus documents to legislators which they claim have legal weight. Most recently sending a "Petition to Cease and Desist and Demand to Restore the Republic" to Idaho legislators to end the state's COVID-19 restrictions.[59]

In Montana, People's Rights leader Nick Ramlow drafted a "Petition for Redress of Grievances" against Governor Steve Bullock, claiming that the governor didn't have the authority to issue public health directives.[60] He filed the grievance in Montana District Court and served copies to most government agencies in Flathead County.[61] Ramlow went even further, drawing up bogus forms for businesses to file complaints against public officials, threatening to use the militia to "arrest" public officials enforcing shelter-in-place orders, and even offering a $100 bounty for the address of Kalispell's mayor so he could make a citizen's arrest.[62]

While Stewart does voice concern about African-Americans harmed by police, and places Leonard Peltier in with Kahl and Faul as victims of government tyranny, this is deceptive. While Amnesty International wrote in 2014 that Peltier, an Anishinabe-Lakota American Indian Movement leader, has been "imprisoned for 38 years despite serious concerns about the fairness of proceedings leading to his conviction," Kahl and Faul's conflicts with law enforcement were driven by Gordon Kahl's (Yories) father tax protest that was itself driven by the viciously racist and antisemitic ideology of Christian Identity and his involvement in the Posse Comitatus. For lengthy description of this involvement, see Corcoran, James. 1990. Bitter Harvest: Gordon Kahl and the Posse Comitatus: Murder in the Heartland. THIRTEEN: CONCLUSION

The ideological underpinnings of Ammon Bundy and People's Rights have often been characterized as "anti-government," but a deeper dive finds something more complex and troublesome. Like the Posse Comitatus before it, Bundy's efforts do not seek to do away with government, but rather to re-make it in the image of, and favorable to, a particular brand of nationalism and the attendant "nation."

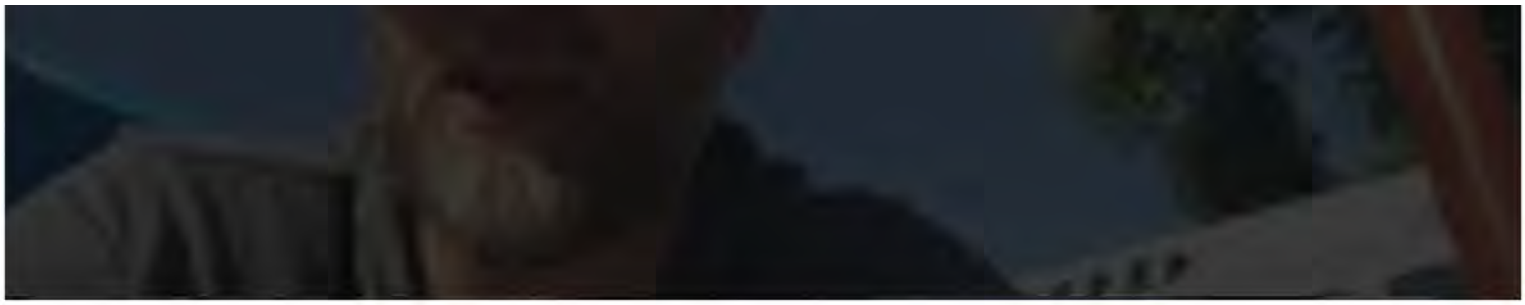

Specifically, Bundy has expressed a particular version of middle American nationalism—the idea that a mythological group of "middle Americans" who constitute the nation are being squeezed from above by elites and from below by the multicultural hordes. Such an ideology was first described by sociologist Donald L. Warren and termed middle American radical, in his 1976 book The Radical Center. Warren found this framework linked to a significantly higher level of support for George C. Wallace's 1968 segregationist presidential bid when compared to other constituencies. [63]

In Bundy's formulation, righteous real middle Americans are being crushed by the "wicked," from below by Black Lives Matter and antifa protestors on the streets and from above by people at the top demanding obedience. In other words, the "wicked" are trying to dispossess the "righteous" of their rightful place in Middle America.

In a refrain returned to often at People's Rights meetings, Bundy expressed core elements of middle American nationalism,

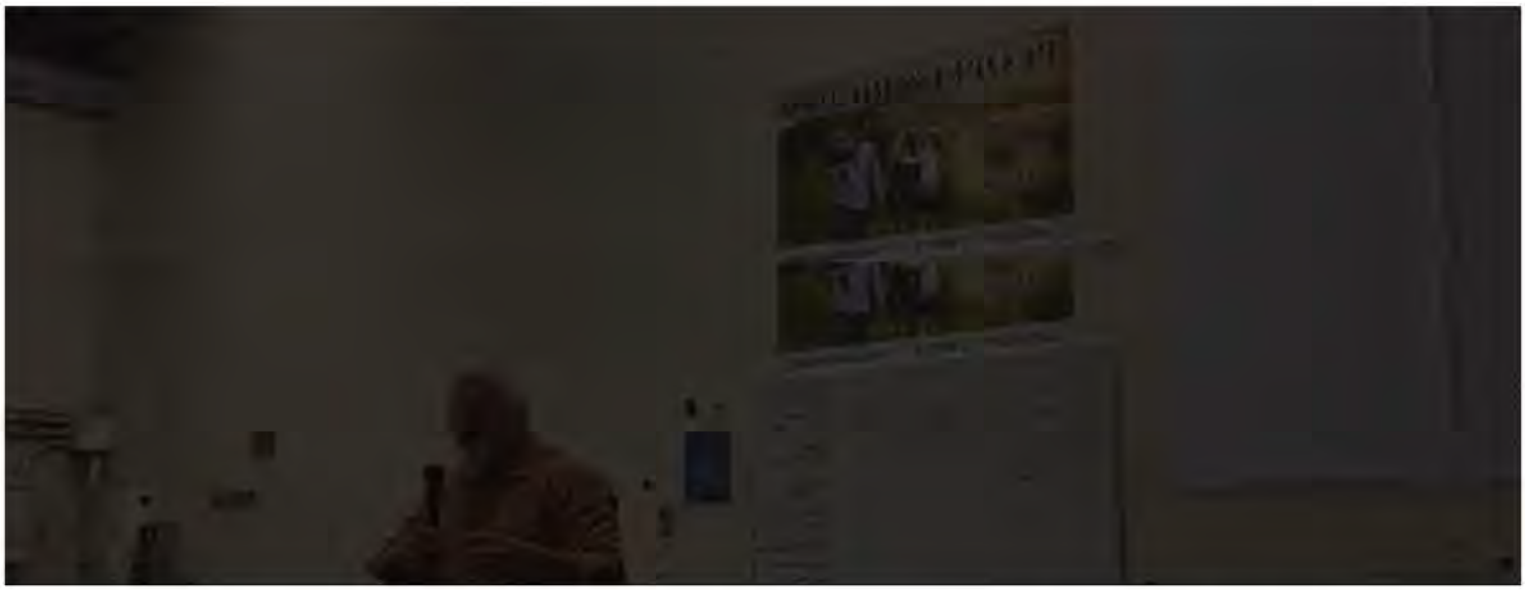

> "So the question I am constantly asking is, who is going to defend us? Who is going to defend us? We have this chaos and hate and murder and violence happening on the streets. And we have this corruption, and pressure, and, you know, buying people's obedience and our legislatures and our governor's obedience, from the top. And where are the people at? We're stuck crushed in the middle."[64]

At a recent People's Rights meeting in Idaho, a speaker only identified as Don shared the stage with Bundy and echoed the middle American nationalist construction, calling COVID-19 restrictions "slavery." He declared,

> "Unfortunately, as Ammon pointed out, we are the people who are crushed in the middle. If we don't like the system of government we're enslaved under right now—and yes, I will use that term enslaved under right now—if we don't like the system of government that we're under, we can't just change it—because they have a system that shields them from us, and we have no system that shields us from them. And so I echo again that the best revenge is to be unlike your enemy. If the government is trying to wreck this country. If the radicals and the liberals are trying to wreck this country, then we cannot change things by doing the same things that they do. We have to do something different."[65]

Far from being "anti-government," Bundy has repeatedly expressed a desire for governmental power to be used to protect the "righteous" against "wicked" liberals, antifa, Black Lives Matter, and others. Absent that sort of intervention, Bundy proposed a type of armed enclave-style "neighborhood" nationalism, a separatism where "righteous" neighbors stand against the "wicked."

While others, like Bundy comrade Matt Shea's Liberty State effort, have pushed for splitting states through state secession, and others have advocated for regional secessionism (neo-Confederate plans to reclaim the South, neo-Nazi fantasies of a "Northwest Territorial Imperative"), Bundy has a different vision for People's Rights.

As Bundy explained during that first gathering, "I think there's no need for another American Revolution, and I'll explain to you why: because I think there needs to be a separation, not a revolution, of righteous people—good people that understand their rights—coming together wherever they live and defending each other where they live."[66]

In the People's Rights Network, a far-right Constitutional interpretation is often used to construct a mythology of "the nation." Commonly expressed strains of "Constitutionalism" in the People's Rights Network draw upon the works of far-right figures like W. Cleon Skousen and KrisAnne Hall.

Skousen (1913-2006) was a far-right figure who worked closely with the John Birch Society, who became infamous for a racist revision of U.S. history. His book, The 5,000 Year Leap, which gained newfound popularity during the Tea Party era, deployed selective quotes to claim that the U.S. is a Christian nation. His book The Making of America casts American chattel slavery as humane, paints Abolitionists as villains, describes enslaved African people as "usually a cheerful lot" and heaps praise on Confederates for their treatment of the human beings they enslaved.[67]

For her part, Florida activist KrisAnne Hall picked up where Skousen left off. A popular speaker on the Tea Party and militia circuits, Hall gained notoriety inside Bundy circles when she played a role negotiating for the occupiers at the end of the Malheur standoff. Hall has promoted a radical assault on the Constitutional basis of federal civil rights and protections from race and sex-based discrimination in voting rights, referring to the 14th, 15th, and 19th Amendments as "unlawful expansion[s] of federal power."[68] [For more on KrisAnne Hall, check out this profile].

Hall plays an outsized role in the People's Rights network. Her videos are heavily-circulated and discussed on the network's social media channels.

One southern Washington area even uses Hall's videos for in-person training and discussions at weekly meetings.[69] Hall is scheduled to speak alongside Ammon Bundy and People's Rights California state assistant Tony Pellegrino and Sara Walton Brady at We the People Idaho's third annual event on October 10 in Nampa, Idaho.[70]

Bundy's position seems to cobble together a W. Cleon Skousen and Bircher-style "Constitutionalism," a Christian nationalist framing of the "righteous" as comprising the nation and the "wicked" cast out of the nation, and the "neighborhood nationalism" of far-right paleolibertarians.

The idea of "neighborhood nationalism" was created by paleolibertarian icon Murray Rothbard who fantasized about the "the decomposition and decentralization of the modern centralizing and coercive nation-state, deconstructing that state into constituent nationalities and neighborhoods."[71] For Rothbard, this scheme was to change American political culture and reduce the "scope and importance of voting" and "democracy."[72]

This position also fits with the People's Rights emphasis on property rights and the "right to exclusive ownership and control of property."[73] Such an extreme version of both federal authority and property rights would also eliminate virtually all of the advances of the New Deal.

Ammon Bundy, for instance, appears to believe that virtually all, if not all, taxation and the public spending based on it are "evil" and unjustified.[74] Likewise, People's Rights Washington leader, Kelli Stewart, has advocated for a radical assault on the New Deal and the social safety net. Stewart called Social Security a "Ponzi scheme meant to steal our interest on our stolen funds," and she has argued that because taxation is involved, programs such as public funding of schools, social security disability, VA checks, food stamps, publicly funded health care, and farm subsidies amount to "theft" and being forced to "give to socialism."[75] Another significant network figure, Roger Roots, runs an online site called Lysander Spooner University which offers courses that refer to both the minimum wage and Social Security as "evil."[76]

This radical vision of curtailing federal power and social welfare policies is the national adjunct to localized seizures of territory and armed opposition to law enforcement and government regulation of private property. Bundy is describing a world where any group could forcibly, even violently, resist any local, state, or federal law the group doesn't like. In other words, Malheur-style takeovers and Bunkerville-style standoffs from sea to shining sea would become the new normal in Bundy's world. In the end, Bundy's vision looks more like clannish "neighborhood" warlords enforcing their will over their "wicked" (or less heavily-armed) neighbors.

As Montana People's Rights figure Nick Ramlow described, he and Ammon Bundy hope to establish an "Uber-like" militia response system that can be mobilized whenever people feel their rights are under attack.[77]

While Ammon Bundy was not preaching outright revolution, others have been insistent about their desire for revolution. Sharing the stage with Bundy at a recent People's Rights meeting in Idaho, Don declared,

> "You wanna talk about a revolution in the United States of America, you wanna see politicians stand up and take notice, you wanna see politicians start to pay attention to what we have to say as a nation, as an American people? If you wanna bring about change in this country, there's only one way to start a revolution tonight, and that's by every neighbor in this country who has ideals, and still has morals, and still has a compass to look to God in this nation, we're going to have to join together to tell the government we're not going to listen to you, you're going to listen to us, because the resistance to tyranny is the acceptance of liberty. In case you didn't hear that last part, the resistance to tyranny is the acceptance of liberty, and the definition of liberty, ladies and gentlemen, liberty is accepting faith in God."[78]

Don's nationalist construction is even more explicit than Bundy's. To Don, the "American people" who comprise the American nation are limited to the righteous neighbors with "ideals" who believe that "liberty is accepting faith in God." Everyone else is "wicked," defined outside of the American nation.

Neighborhood racial and economic segregation is still a vexing problem in the United States, reinforced by policing policies that play a racialized role in restricting mobility and limiting where people live.[79] Layering the Bundy vision of armed neighborhood separatism atop these existing challenges would further exacerbate racial and class divisions, creating innumerable potential powder kegs. Unlike white nationalist fantasies of explicit division and segregation, Bundy's vision for People's Rights is both an implicit call to maintain existing implicit segregation and an assault against federal and state efforts to decrease segregation and foster equality.

CONSPIRACIES AND ANTISEMITISM UNBOUNDED

THE ROLE OF CONSPIRACIES & ANTISEMITISM INSIDE THE NETWORK

Like the Posse Comitatus and the militia that came before, the People's Rights network is saturated with conspiracy theories, many grounded in antisemitism.

As a nascent far-right network, People's Rights has yet to articulate an overarching conspiracy theory of its own creation. Rather, the network rests upon a mélange of conspiracy theories brought in by the leadership from various corners of the far-right. Conspiracy theories from QAnon, the John Birch Society, Three Percenters and militia-types, Christian nationalists, and hardcore anti-Semites have circulated throughout the People's Rights network.

Given the role that reaction to COVID-19 measures played in the genesis of the organization, it's not surprising to see a massive number of COVID-19 conspiracies circulating in the network.

Those conspiracies range from "COVID-19: Tool of Red China and the Socio-Globalist Left" to "coronavirus is part of the forced vaccination," to a "mandatory covid vaccination" will alter our DNA, to comparing COVID-19 restrictions and/or mask-wearing to slavery and Nazi atrocities against Jews, to the COVID-19 test as a "clandestine brain virus, nano-tech, or plant a chip in someone," to the same "cult of deception" was behind the coronavirus, the Kennedy assassination and the 9/11 terrorist attacks; to the "plandemic" is "Totalitarianism at a Whole New Level," to "COVID-19 an occult driven script and a Luciferian human sacrifice mega-ritual."[80]

Different COVID-19 conspiracies are often woven together into a larger tapestry. There have been efforts, for instance, to tie together fear of a cabal of elites wanting power, with anti-vaxxer propaganda, and stereotyping of recent Black Lives Matter demonstrations. Take, for instance, People's Rights Washington State figure Kelli Stewart, who has written of the coronavirus that,

> "The global elites want our nation. The Covid plandemic was just one part of this takeover...then on to the riots in the streets leading to civil unrest and war, then fires, the final blow will be round two of the fake plandemic just before the election."[81]

Often the people pulling the strings in the conspiracies are unnamed "elites" or the hands of the "New World Order." At times, however, the focus of the conspiracy gets a name and a face. One of the more popular conspiracy themes shared by People's Rights leaders is the belief that liberal Jewish philanthropist George Soros is behind the myriad of ills facing the country. These conspiracies are often explicitly antisemitic or deploy classic antisemitic tropes to demonize Soros.

Ammon Bundy has referenced the Soros conspiracy at People's Rights meetings, as have others. People's Rights California leader Tony Pellegrino recently posted a meme asking, "Why can't Soros be investigated for funding riots, anarchy, and domestic terrorism?"[82]

The use of the antisemitic conspiracy theory is long-running in network circles. Individuals who are now leaders in People's Rights promoted the antisemitic Soros conspiracy theory long before they signed up. People's Rights Idaho Area 2 assistant Sean Anderson, for example, promoted the antisemitic conspiracy theory that George Soros and the "Bilderberg group" were "puppet masters" that selected Barack Obama and Hillary Clinton.[83] Diego Rodriquez, a speaker at multiple People's Rights events, signed onto a September 2016 letter with Christian Right leaders which declared,

> "wealthy, anti-Christian foundations, following the lead of billionaire George Soros's Open Society Foundation, fund and 'rent' Christian ministers as 'mascots' serving as surprising validators for their causes...In the ironic rhetoric of compassion, Soros and friends also fund mass immigration followed by redistricting schemes and 'voting "(sic) rights"...One wonders if the end goal is the destruction of national identity through demoralization, open borders and debt, thus the 'fundamental transformation' (weakening) of American civil society for their leveraged global power. (They have done this to other nations.)"[84]

The Soros conspiracy isn't the only place antisemitism rears its ugly head in the People's Rights network. People's Rights leaders in Washington and California have circulated videos by notorious antisemitic conspiracy theorist David Icke, and his videos have been shared in People's Rights Facebook groups in Montana District 1, Oregon Area 5, and Washington Area 8.[85]

When People's Rights Washington leader, Kelli Stewart, posted one of Icke's videos, she headlined her post, "Here is the problem, and the SOLUTION, all wrapped up in this tiny little twelve-minute...video."[86] Icke holds that "a reptilian race has controlled the planet for thousands of years and continues to do so today" and that reptilian "'Jewish' Rothschild's" lay behind Nazi atrocities against Jews.[87]

Other People's Rights leaders have abandoned any effort to cloak their antisemitism, opting for an explicit expression. A "TRUTH PILL" is what California State leader Tony Pellegrino has called an openly antisemitic conspiracy theory that alleges a dual system of citizenship in the U.S, "Well guess who owns the FEDERAL RESERVE. Yup, the Zionist Banksters...The FRAUD and DECEPTION of the Satanic Zionist Jesuit Freemason scum that's foisted on YOU by THEIR MEDIA, Schools, Medical Industry and Hollywood is executed by STUPID ASS, CROOKED ASS, JACKASS COPS."[88]

The multitude of conspiracy theories pulsing through the People's Rights network helps shape the ideology of Bundy and his posse.

CHAPTER EIGHT:

PEOPLE'S RIGHTS NETWORK AND RACISM

RACISM, RACISM DENIAL, NATIVISM, & ISLAMOPHOBIA INSIDE THE NETWORK

If far-right conspiracy theories constitute the most prominent "threat from above" in People's Rights circles, the "threat from below" in the group's middle American nationalism finds expression in the myriad forms in which racism appears in the United States.

Perhaps its most common expression in People's Rights takes the form of racism denial. Broadly defined, this involves denying that systemic, institutional, or broad cultural racism continue to play a significant factor in shaping outcomes for people of color in American society and institutions. Such a view delegitimizes the struggles of those who continue to face racial discrimination and violence. This view also helps pave the way for the broad assault on the federal capacity to address inequality embodied in People's Rights politics.

In one form, racism denial occurs when the vicious and significant role of racism in U.S. history is minimized, or outright denied. People's Rights leader Ammon Bundy did this when he declared that his father, Cliven Bundy, was correct in stating that black people in the United States may be more oppressed today than under slavery.[89] Both Cliven and Ammon Bundy have likely been influenced in this regard by the work of the Cleon Skousen, the founder of the National Center for Constitutional Studies, whose pocket U.S. Constitution the Bundys are known to use. Among other things, Skousen's work has cast slavery as humane, painted Abolitionists as villains, described enslaved African people as "usually a cheerful lot," and heaped praise on Confederates for their treatment of the human beings they enslaved.[90]

After declaring his father correct in this assessment, Ammon Bundy, with a straight face, declared that wearing a mask in the face of COVID-19 concerns is comparable to slavery and that, "It's not about race at this point. It is about tyranny."[91] This is a classic attempt to erase racism from history.

Similarly, Georgia state leader Field Searcy posted an article assailing the historically sound assessment that Mount Rushmore is a monument to "two slave owners on stolen land."[92] Missouri Area 3 assistant Michael Sudholt wrote in 2019 that the Electoral College was "never about slavery," even though it incorporated the U.S. Constitutions' white supremacist representational structure that counted enslaved Africans as 3/5 of a person. Sudholt gave a full-throated defense of the Electoral College as a means of assuring a state "voice in presidential elections." The meme accompanying his post declared "throwing out the Electoral College" would result in "LA, Seattle, Miami, NY & Chicago" deciding "what's best for the entire country! You know cities with highest homeless rates, pollution, illegal aliens, crime & corruption."[93] Amidst this threat from urban areas – itself a common racist trope – Sudholt failed to mention that such a voting system violates the value that everyone's vote counts the same.

Brand Thornton, a member of the Utah People's Rights Facebook group and a ceremonial leader for the group, has posted memes rejecting the reality of white privilege and declaring that white people protesting racism are "brainwashed" and simply protesting against white people "because they are white."[94] Thornton has also offered up visions of violence against anti-fascists and Black Lives Matter alike, writing recently,

"Antifa and BLM, your choice, you want peace or pushing up daisy's (sic)?"[95] Thornton's attack on BLM is the flipside of racism denial – if racism is not a real issue, then challenges to it are illegitimate and part of something nefarious.

In a similar vein, Utah People's Rights state leader Derrik Staheli posted a video showing two unidentified individuals robbing someone in a car. As the two attempted to escape on a motorcycle, the vehicle driver rams the vehicle into them. Even though the apparent robbers are not identified, and do not appear in the short video to be connected to a protest, Staheli writes, "This should be done with ALL BLM/ANTIFA Thugs!!! Love it!" [Capitals in Original].[96]

Similarly, Oregon Area 2 assistant Wayne Standiford posts an image of Candace Owens casting BLM as rioting, taking drugs, and being a "radical leftist anarchist" group. Another post by Standiford asks "Why are some of you still supporting BLM?"[97] And Idaho Area 5 assistant Jennifer Acheson posted a recent evidence-lacking meme accusing "Antifa/BLM" of starting recent fires in Oregon and "firing on people trying to evacuate."[98]

Like these depictions of BLM, attacks on communities of color are often rooted in stereotypes and depictions of them as a threat. In the People's Rights context, such bigotry is most commonly directed at Muslims and immigrants. For instance, Idaho People's Rights Idaho figure Casey Whalen has produced a video interview of Trevor Louden on the conspiratorial topic of Cultural Marxism – the idea that movements ranging from environmental and feminist to anti-racist are part of a communist plot.[99] Elsewhere, Loudon has spun an anti-Muslim conspiracy theory in which "far left and Islamist agendas" lay behind a range of liberal public policies.[100] Connecting such anti-Muslim bigotry to a communist plot and liberal policies sets the stage for linking bigotry to the broad-scale assault on federal government capacity envisioned by People's Rights.

Missouri Area 5 assistant and onetime Missouri Citizens Militia member Michael Clevenger posted an article with an accompanying statement declaring "Go back to Mecca and enforce your laws there!" Another Clevenger post alleges that Islam is already banned from the U.S. because sharia law is antithetical to the U.S. Constitution, a common anti-Muslim canard on the far right.[101]

Montana Area 5 assistant Ed Kugler also serves as president of Last Chance Patriots, a group that originally formed as Flathead ACT for America and was a chapter of the largest anti-Muslim group in the country, ACT for America. During its time as Flathead ACT, the group brought a steady stream of anti-Muslim speakers to Montana and pushed anti-Muslim bills at the Montana Legislature.[102]

A similar animus is also directed at immigrants. Casey Whalen has also advocated that the federal government should "PUT THE MILITARY ON THE BORDER TO PROTECT THE COUNTRY" and "Charge all governors and mayors who created a sanctuary city/state" with criminal violations.[103] Likewise, Utah Area 5 assistant Darrin Berg promoted a GoFundMe project to fund Donald Trump's border wall.[104] In a post criticizing Donald Trump for not pledging during his 2016 campaign to indict Barack Obama, Hillary Clinton and others, Berg combined hostility to immigrants and Muslims alike, arguing that given the trajectory of the election,

> "I could be like so many celebrities and move to Russia, where Mr. Putin has vowed if one act of terrorism is committed on their soil, the Muslims will be gone the next day. At least then I won't have to worry about terror attacks or floods of illegal immigrants (who should be allowed to vote, but are denied the right). On the bright side, I will avoid the rush to be ruled by a dictator and live in a socialistic society. This might be funny, if it weren't so stunningly true."[105]

The title of a video posted by Missouri Area 5 assistant Michael Clevenger declares that, as in Germany, a refugee crisis is headed to the U.S. Another meme posted by Clevenger depicts what appears to be federal vehicles and a helicopter and declares "I wish my Federal government would put this many resources on our Southern Border instead of on Cliven Bundy's cattle ranch."[106]

Oregon Area 2 assistant Wayne Standiford posted memes stating that descendants of enslaved Africans should pay reparations to Union soldiers, and mocked efforts by the National Football League to acknowledge police violence against black people.[107] He also played to racist stereotypes when he shared a photo of brown-skinned people looting with a comment that they wouldn't loot if they worked at night.[108]

Another form of racism denial is seen in equating slogans such as "black power" (associated with a movement historically struggling against white supremacy) with "white power" (associated with a movement historically seeking to preserve white domination), as Missouri Area 5 assistant, Michael Clevenger, did in a meme posted in early 2016.[109]

In another form, the racism deniers post memes or material focusing in a one-sided fashion on negative aspects of victims of police racism, thus delegitimizing the historical institutional racism of the police. Missouri Area 3 assistant Michael Sudholt posts a video by Candace Owens purporting to present the "facts" about George Floyd.[110] Similar posts were made by Idaho Area 5 assistant Jennifer Acheson about Breonna Taylor and Idaho Area 6 assistant Aaron Egusquiza about Jacob Blake.[111]

Other People's Rights area leaders have distorted facts about voter fraud and/or promoted voter ID policies that potentially suppress the vote among communities of color and others. Missouri Area 3 assistant Michael Sudholt writes that "It is a national disgrace and blatant election fraud to continue to claim that a requirement for voter ID is all about voter suppression among minority voters. The only minorities whose votes would be suppressed would be those who have no right to vote."[112] Despite Sudholt's, claim the Brennan Center for Justice has produced a wide range of studies demonstrating that voter ID policies would suppress the vote among people of color and other voters.[113]

Similarly, Idaho Area 5 assistant Jennifer Acheson writes that "Voter fraud is real stop ignoring it!"[114] Again, the Brennan Center offers an array of actual evidence debunking the myth of voter fraud in U.S. elections.[115]

CHAPTER NINE:

ANTI-INDIGENOUS ACTIVISM

ANTI-INDIGENOUS ACTIVISM

In addition to the racialized "threat from below" exhibited by many People's Rights leader, a recurring disrespect for indigenous sovereignty and resources has been displayed in Ammon Bundy's efforts, both past and present. This was seen when the armed Malheur occupiers undertook the action in the Burns Paiute homelands despite objections from the tribe. Bundy's group also damaged a tribal archaeological site and caused additional costs to the Burns Paiute, for which two occupiers were ordered to pay restitution.[116]

Moreover, Bundy has allied with far-right figures who oppose indigenous rights as well as those who have promoted political violence. For instance, in October 2018, Bundy headlined a "New Code of the West" conference in Whitefish, Montana alongside longtime Citizens Equal Rights Alliance (CERA) leader Elaine Willman and Washington State Representative Matt Shea (R-Spokane Valley).[117] As MHRN documented at the time, a lead organizer of the event was Laura Lee O'Neil, a Montana-based supporter of the John Birch Society.[118]

Beyond just appearing on a stage with a national anti-Indigenous figure, Ammon Bundy wrote the forward to CERA board member Christopher Kortlander's 2018 book Arrow to the Heart. Elaine Willman and CERA have long been committed to the outright termination of tribal government and abrogation of treaties between indigenous nations and the United States.[119]

This pattern continued into the People's Rights network. An August 1 People's Rights rally in Nezperce, Idaho, included Pamela Hemphill, author of a 2019 book that assailed participants in the mobilization to stop the construction of the Dakota Access Pipeline and defend the treaty-protected resources of the Standing Rock Sioux. A synopsis of Hemphill's book, We Stand! We Rise! We Resist!: Where the Leftist Tactics Began & Now They're Coming to a City Near You!, states,

> "In this book, you'll learn how the Leftist Tactics were 'High Jacked' by using a platform in the Largest North Native American Protest in history. They used the North American Indians past abuses, as the model for a NEW SOCIALIST Party."[120]

While waiting at the police staging area in Nezperce with Diego Rodriguez and others, Hemphill told Nez Perce tribal police of her book that, "You're not gonna like it." After being informed that they were on Nez Perce land, and as if trying to demonstrate the very definition of settler colonialism, Rodriguez told the tribal police, "Yeah man, you guys are the tribe guys. We get you. This is your property, man, we get it. We thank you for letting us come. It is your land, but in America, we get to do what we want to do. [Italics added]"[121]

A defining feature of settler colonialism in U.S. history has been that, even when the federal and state governments and citizens voice respect for tribal rights, Americans often "do what we want to do" in Indian Country.

CHAPTER TEN:

POLITICAL POWER

To further contradict the idea that People's Rights is an "anti-government" network, gaining political and governmental power is part of the group's program. They engage political systems to alter them to fit their far-right vision. As People's Rights Idaho Area 4 assistant, Mario Perea, declared during a meeting when encouraging people to come to a rally for a political candidate, "We claim, and we use, and we defend our rights. In order to defend our rights, we have to get people into these government positions. That is a form of defense because we're being attacked politically. So we need to fight back and resist politically."[122] At meetings and online, they've supported recall campaigns and candidates.

For instance, on October 1, activists in the People's Rights Oregon Zone 3 group asked, "Who wants to help get out the vote and make some phone calls? We need to get people hyped up in this election and to VOTE."[123]

Instead of eschewing government, some leading People's Rights figures serve as functionaries of political parties. People's Rights Idaho Area 2 assistant, Heather Rogers, also lists herself as the Legislative District 6 chair of the Idaho Republican Party.[124] Roger Roots is a leader in the Montana Libertarian Party.[125]

Other People's Rights leaders have run to become the government. Montana leader, Nick Ramlow, is running as a Libertarian for the Montana House.[126] Debbie Westlake, a Montana area 5 assistant, is a Republican candidate in a Montana legislative race.[127] Mark French, a Montana area 4 assistant, lost a Montana state legislative primary earlier this year but is still running as a write-in candidate.[128] Holly Jo Beers, the Oregon 3 area assistant, ran for a Umatilla County Commissioner seat.[129] And Utah area 11 assistant Trevor Wilkerson recently announced plans to run on the Constitution Party ticket.[130]

CHAPTER ELEVEN:

PREPPING FOR THE FUTURE

Another cohort that Bundy and the People's Rights network have targeted for recruitment are "preppers." Also known as "survivalists," they are individuals who vigorously prepare for emergencies, including possible disruptions in the social or political order. Preppers stress self-reliance, stockpiling supplies, and survival skills. Prepping is big business and there is an entire ecosystem of companies that sell goods targeted to preppers. The idea became so popular that the National Geographic channel aired four seasons of the reality TV-show "Doomsday Preppers" from 2012-2014.

For decades, there has been a sizable, though not complete, overlap between preppers and the militia movement. The crossover is most visible at prepper conventions and so-called preparedness expos, where militia figures speak as prepper businesses sell their wares on the convention floor.

Ammon Bundy and People's Rights have woven prepper ethos into the new organization. "Be Prepared" is part of the People's Rights credo. According to the group's website,

> "Being prepared may consists[sic] of many things. It could be having a 72 hour kit for each member in the family or it could be knowing who your neighbors are that would help defend your life. Maybe owning or possessing a weapon that would drive off criminals and protect your children. Possibly even be food storage or training on how to grow food. What about having an emergency first aid kit? Overall, being prepared is simply looking at the real possibilities for a need and then planning ahead for it.
> You may think that purchasing and storing things for future need is a waste of time, money and makes it hard to keep your home organized... well, maybe so. Get over it!"[131]

Though the first few months of People's Rights were focused on fighting against COVID-19 restrictions, Ammon Bundy and other speakers occasionally provided a glimpse of the direction they planned to take the organization. As one speaker told an Idaho People's Rights gathering in September,

> "I just want you to understand what you're up against. In the days that are ahead of us, the probability ranges from extremely high to imminent that some or all of us will experience some form of persecution; some form of food shortage; some denial of goods and services; lack of communications via internet, cellphone, etcetera; power blackouts. These are all things that range from extremely high to imminent for all of us in this room and everyone watching in the days ahead."[132]

At the same meeting, Ammon Bundy added to the fear around a potential disruption in food supplies. He followed by describing how People's Rights is in the process of building out their own food distribution network. Such a system would allow activists to avoid compliance with COVID-19 restrictions when getting groceries, as well as potentially allowing providers to bypass USDA food safety regulations.

Ammon Bundy runs a truck repair business, his father is a rancher, his brother farms melons.

Given that background, it's not surprising to see Bundy promoting an ideological scheme that could also provide new customers for his services and his family's products.

Whether the Bundys can financially benefit from tearing communities apart during a pandemic remains to be seen. What is clear, however, is that his organization, People's Rights, is recruiting an army of followers across the country. Left unchecked, there could be real damage to countless communities.

CHAPTER TWELVE:

NOTABLE NETWORK FIGURES

Ammon Bundy has wrangled a wide array of significant far-right figures into the orbit of the People's Rights Network–far-right paramilitary activists, anti-maskers, far-right street brawlers, conspiracy-mongers, Christian Dominionists, anti-vaxxers, "Constitutionalists," Tea Partiers, and more. Below are links to detailed profiles of some of the more important figures to the People's Rights network.

THE FOUNDER

AMMON BUNDY

Though he lacks an official title in the People's Rights organization chart, Ammon Bundy is for all intents and purposes the head of the network. The 45-year-old truck repair company owner from Emmett, Idaho, is involved in virtually every facet of the People's Rights network—from laying out the structure of the group to overseeing the technology used in the network, to promoting the group, to wrangling area assistants. People's Rights is Ammon's army.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN:

CONCLUSION

CHAPTER THIRTEEN:

CONCLUSION

WHICH WAY FORWARD?

The evidence presented in this report highlights how "People's Rights" is a misnomer of epic proportions. Don't be fooled. Whatever they choose to call it, it is Ammon's Army, and it marches to a far-right drumbeat of narcissistic rage and insurrection.

There are several important takeaways from research into the rise of the People's Rights network. First, the data highlights how there has been a rapid spread of this network. The far-right paramilitary core carried on, while the current intensely polarized political context has made it possible for that core to swiftly adapt and find a new mass base. Opposition to COVID-19 health directives provided a catalyst at this moment, but the many remaining underlying concerns seen in the group make it possible for the core to morph again in search of a new mass audience after the pandemic.

Undergirding the effort are troubling displays of far-right conspiracism, racism, antisemitism, anti-indigenous and anti-transgender sentiment, and omnipresent threats of violence. Far-right movements like this put stress and strain on all democratic institutions and civil society. In the context of the pandemic, it puts the lives of community members and public servants at risk —without a single shot being fired.

Ammon's army is a dangerous armed threat that requires a response. However, standing by and assuming law enforcement will handle this problem on its own is not the answer. State and federal prosecutors have proven woefully inadequate at bringing justice or even mildly deterring the escalation of Ammon Bundy and his followers. Bunkerville, Burns, Boise, and beyond, Ammon's army keeps on marching.

The continuing march of Ammon's army requires people in local communities to stand united and speak out against those who misleadingly claim to speak for "the People" while promoting paramilitarism and bigotry. This strategy worked in the 1980s, when family farmers, faith leaders, and community members banded together to keep the Posse Comitatus from taking over during the farm crisis. It worked in the 1990s when trade unionists, Civil Rights leaders, anti-bigotry activists, and many others stood together in local communities when the militia came to town. It can, and will work again today if we start our own efforts to defend democracy and human rights from these far-right assaults. This is a battle of ideas over how we treat all of us in a time of danger and turmoil. This is a fight over how we define who we are as Americans. In the end, Bundy's barbaric neighborhood nationalism can be overwhelmed by the values expressed in Dr. King's vision of a beloved community that strives for inclusive democracy.

PEOPLE'S RIGHTS FIGURE

LOCATION: BOISE, IDAHO

Diego Rodriguez is a frequent speaker at People's Rights events, including early meetings that gave rise to the organization. He is pastor of the Boise Freedom Tabernacle Church in Boise, Idaho. The church promotes "Christian Dominion," described as "the duty of taking dominion over the Earth."[1] Christian Dominionism is a form of Christian nationalism, arguing that Christians should take the reins of political and cultural power. Rodriquez's Boise-based Dominion Books is dedicated to "equipping believers to take dominion in this world." Rodriguez also serves as the Communications and Marketing Director for the Freedom Man Political Action.

Rodriguez's involvement in theocratic politics was seen in September 2016 when he signed onto "An Open Letter to Christian pastors, leaders, and believers who assist in the anti-Christian Progressive political movement in America." Calling on progressive religious leaders to "repent of their work that often advances a destructive liberal political agenda," the letter included the antisemitic canard that "wealthy, anti-Christian foundations, following the lead of billionaire George Soros's Open Society Foundation, fund and 'rent' Christian ministers as 'mascots' serving as surprising validators for their causes."

Continuing themes that animate a broad swath of the nationalist far-right, the letter declared,

> "In the ironic rhetoric of compassion, Soros and friends also fund mass immigration followed by redistricting schemes and 'voting' (sic) 'rights'... One wonders if the end goal is the destruction of national identity through demoralization, open borders and debt, thus the 'fundamental transformation' (weakening) of American civil society for their leveraged global power. (They have done this to other nations.)"[2]

Several prominent Christian nationalists and Christian Right leaders joined Rodriguez in signing the letter, including multiple anti-choice groups, representatives of the anti-LGBTQ American Family Association, Pat Robertson's Regent University, and Christian nationalist pseudo-historian David Barton.

Another signatory of the letter was Jay Grimstead of the Coalition on Revival (CoR), a trans-denominational coalition that has brought together a range of tendencies on the Christian Right, detailed by Frederick Clarkson.[3] One of its early leaders was R.J. Rushdoony, founder in 1965 of the Christian Reconstructionist Chalcedon Foundation.

Another of Diego Rodriguez's projects, the creationist 4th Day Alliance, took him into the world of Christian Reconstructionism.[4] In December 2010 Rodriguez's creationist efforts led to an appearance at the Trinity Covenant Church in Fresno, California – a church whose website declares that "R.J. Rushdoony is the greatest theologian of the last century." Rodriguez's work on creationism subsequently drew high praise in a 2007 issue of Faith for All Life, a magazine published by the Chalcedon Foundation.

If Christian Dominionism is a form of Christian nationalism, Christian Reconstructionism represents its most radical form. Christian Reconstructionists argue that its adherents' version of the Bible should be the governing document in the United States, creating what one leading movement "theologian" termed "Biblical theocratic republics." Christian Reconstructionism's defining texts were released in 1973 by R.J.

Rushdoony. Among other things, Rushdoony argued that "Biblical law" demands the death penalty for members of the LGBTQ community, those having sex before marriage, incorrigible juveniles, and practitioners of witchcraft, among other categories of people.[5]

Rodriguez's Tabernacle Church promotes the bigoted view that "Homosexuality is an abomination unto God and to all Christians."[6] The church has also promoted equality-gutting policy positions akin to Cleon Skousen's National Center for Constitutional Studies. This includes opposing "state-run educational institutions that have no authority in the Word of God" and viewing "Government subsidies," such as "welfare, food stamps, subsidized housing, state run health care (i.e. Medicare, etc.), social security and publicly funded education," as an "unlawful expansion of state government into areas of life that are ordained by God to be fulfilled by church and families."[7]

Rodriguez's Freedom Man Political Action Committee has hosted at least one "reopen" event and declared that "everybody who attends a weak church that shut its doors because of the 'coronavirus scare' should leave that church immediately."[8] The Freedom Man PAC contends that "COVID-19 hysteria is a giant scam" and that the disease is akin to the claim that black people are disproportionately killed by police – that is, both are "false narrative[s]...being done in order to empower government in ways previously unimagined."[9]

Rodriguez also displayed the very nature of settler colonialism during the August 1 People's Rights event in Nezperce, Idaho. After being informed that they were on Nez Perce land, Rodriguez told tribal police, "Yeah man, you guys are the tribe guys. We get you. This is your property, man, we get it. We thank you for letting us come. It is your land, but in America, we get to do what we want to do" [Italics added].[10] A defining feature of settler colonialism in U.S. history has been that, even when the federal and state governments and citizens voice respect for tribal rights, Americans "do what we want to do" in Indian Country.

CV – DEVIN BURGHART

Profile of Devin Burghart

Devin Burghart is a nationally recognized expert on far-right political and social movements. For the last three decades, he has dedicated his professional career to defending democracy and human rights.

He presently serves as president and executive director of the Institute for Research & Education on Human Rights (IREHR). Founded in 1983, IREHR is dedicated to using investigative research and strategic organizing to stand against bigotry and defend democracy and human rights. Before becoming executive director, Devin served as IREHR's research director from 2008-2018.

In 2007, Devin was awarded a Petra Foundation fellowship for his "distinctive contributions to the rights, autonomy, and dignity of millions who are marginalized in America."

Since 1993, Devin has researched and written on virtually all facets of the contemporary far-right movement. He has conducted groundbreaking research into the activities of far-right groups in North America and Europe. His written work includes investigative reporting on transnational white nationalist activity, "scientific" racism, anti-Semitism and Holocaust denial, the militia movement and far-right paramilitaries, white power music, anti-immigrant organizing and the new nativism, the Tea Party movement, COVID denial, and insurrectionists.

Devin is frequently quoted as an expert on right-wing movements. His work has appeared in the New York Times, Wall Street Journal, Chicago Tribune, Los Angeles Times, the Philadelphia Enquirer, Arizona Republic, Seattle Times, The Nation, and Rolling Stone. He has also appeared on CNN, MSNBC, CBS News and National Public Radio, and other broadcast media outlets. In 2022 alone, more than 150 different media outlets mentioned his work. His research has also been cited in nearly eight hundred academic publications.

In addition to publishing important research, Burghart has provided consultation and organizing support to communities responding to white nationalist activity and worked with other local, national, and international organizations to counter the far right. In addition, he has conducted hundreds of presentations, training sessions, and workshops for human rights groups and others about challenging new threats to democracy and civil and human rights.

Devin has conducted trainings and workshops for law enforcement and governmental organizations, including the Chicago Police Department, the Pacific Northwest License Tax and Fraud Association, the U.S. Navy, the Ontario Provincial Police, and many others.

Prior to joining the IREHR staff, he served as director of the Building Democracy Initiative, a project of the Center for New Community (CNC) in Chicago (1997-2008). While at CNC, he crafted cutting-edge work on white power music and the new nativism. In addition to helping CNC grow from a small regional outfit to a respected national organization, he created new organizing approaches to countering bigotry, including the Turn It Down Campaign to stop the spread of white power music and the Campaign for a United America to challenge growing anti-immigrant sentiment.

From 1993 to 1997, Devin was a research analyst with the Washington-based Coalition for Human Dignity, an organization once described as America's "leading think-tank on the far-right." In 1996, he co-authored the seminal report on the rise of so-called "common law courts" – the first report to detail the growth of these groups across the country and their roots in white supremacy.

Devin grew up in Spokane, Washington. At the age of thirteen, he found himself joining a community demonstration against Robert Mathews, the founder of the neo-Nazi terror group, The Order. From that day, he dedicated his life to defending democracy and human rights.

Disclosure and Report of Spencer Fomby

QUALIFICATIONS AND BACKGROUND

1. My name is Spencer Fomby. I am a retired police Captain. I was most recently employed as the Captain of the Boise Police Department Training, Education and Development Division in Boise Idaho. I have been a sworn police officer for 22 years. I previously worked for Berkeley Police Department in California for 20 years. I have held primary assignments in patrol, narcotics, and community involved policing. I was assigned to the Berkeley Police department's SWAT team (SRT) for 16 years. I was the Team Leader, Team Commander, and lead tactical instructor for 9 years. During my career, I have been involved in over 1000 high-risk tactical operations. I have been involved in 4 officer involved shootings precipitated by the suspect ambushing officers.

2. I have been a police use of force instructor for 15 years. I am a certified Force Science Analyst and Force Science Realistic De-escalation Instructor. I have also attended the Force Encounters Analysis course and Officer Involved Shootings and Use of Force Investigations course. I am a certified instructor in the following disciplines: firearms (pistol, shotgun, and carbine), weaponless defense, impact weapons, ground fighting, active shooter, ALICE, chemical agents, flash bangs, crowd control, less-lethal weapons, live-fire shoot house and tactical de-escalation. I created 2 CA POST (California Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training) approved tactical de-escalation courses.

3. I was the Berkeley Police Department lead departmental public order instructor; responsible for equipment selection, tactical training, less-lethal weapon selection, chemical agent selection and deployment, and mission planning. I was a squad leader in more than 75 protest events including:

Oscar Grant Protest	(Oakland Ca)- January 2009
Mehserle Verdict	(Oakland Ca)- July 2010
Occupy Oakland/Berkeley	(Oakland/Berkeley Ca)- October 2011
Eric Garner/BLM	(Berkeley Ca)- December 2014
Pro Trump Protests 2017	(Berkeley Ca)- February 1, March 4, April 15, April 27, August 27, September 24-27
George Floyd Protests 2020	(Oakland Ca)- May/June 2020

4. I have presented on crowd control best practices and extremist activity at multiple recent law enforcement conferences including;

Daigle Use of Force Summit- Public Order Use of Force, 2022
California Association of Tactical Officers Conference- NTOA Standards and Public Order Use of Force, 2022

5. I am a tactical instructor and use of force subject matter expert for the National Tactical Officers Association (NTOA). I am the NTOA Public Order Section Chair. I am assigned to NTOA committees for the NTOA Public Order Standard and NTOA Tactical Response and Operations Standard. I coordinated the creation of the NTOA Public Order Standard and NTOA Public Order Command Course.

6. As Captain of the Boise Police Department Training, Education, and Development Division, I managed the development and implementation of department training and education programs through an annual organizational needs assessment. I designed, developed, and implemented an annual training plan and evaluated training results. I developed, planned, managed, and implemented police training activities and programs, including the recruit academy, field training program, quarterly training, and leadership development. I coordinated testing, evaluation and purchase of department equipment. I was responsible for training reviews of all Boise Police Department officer involved shootings.

7. I participated in development of the following departmental policies: use of force update, body cameras, handcuffing and restraint devices, firearms, foot pursuits, probation and parole searches, crowd control, chemical agent deployment, armored vehicle deployment, use of spit hoods and restraint devices, de-escalation, and use of less-lethal weapons.

8. I was selected as a subject matter expert in civil disturbance for a National Institute of Justice Special Technical Committee. I am a subject matter expert in police equipment and tactics for the Department of Homeland Security First Responder Resource Group. I was also a Visiting Fellow in Police Science at the University of Derby, U.K. I earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Administration of Justice from Howard University.

9. I have testified as an expert at six previous depositions.

10. I am being compensated $300 per hour for my time and testimony in this case.

OPINION(S)

12. My opinions are based upon my education, training, and experience as a law enforcement officer/trainer in the area of crowd control, security, tactical operations, and the facts of the case presented, materials reviewed,and interviews. The factual background is based on the materials reviewed. On occasion, I cite to a source for the background facts. However, the citations are not meant to be exhaustive. Additional support, beyond the citations, exists for the background facts.

13. Please note, I am not an attorney; though my opinion may contain references to statutory and case law, nothing in this opinion should be construed as a "legal" opinion, or to infringe on the role of a competent court or legal arbitrator. Any reference in my opinion to law is for the purpose of illustrating how the law is interpreted in the law enforcement industry, how it is taught to officers and how a reasonable officer might be expected to comport his or her behavior with the industry's understanding of the law.

14. I have been asked by the Holland & Hart LLP to render expert opinions related to (1) the threats posed by Ammon Bundy ("Bundy"), Diego Rodriguez ("Rodriguez"), and members of the People's Rights Network ("PRN"), (2) tactics employed by Bundy, Rodriguez, and PRN, (3) decisions made by and actions taken by St. Luke's leadership and security team to protect St. their facilities, employees, and patients; (4) the threats, doxing, and harassment targeting the individual plaintiffs in this case; and (5) the necessity of imposing consequences on Bundy, Rodriguez, PRN.

15. I hold the following opinions to a reasonable degree of professional certainty:

I. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

16. Seeking to benefit financially and to enhance their standing among their followers, Bundy (a candidate for Governor and founder of the activist People's Rights Network) and Rodriguez (an aspiring political and religious figure and consultant for the Bundy Campaign) acted in concert with the other Defendants to launch a knowingly dishonest and baseless smear campaign that claimed Idaho State employees, the Governor of Idaho, the judiciary, the police, primary care providers, and that St. Luke's, Chris Roth, Dr.

Erickson, and Nurse Practitioner Jungman (collectively "St. Luke's Parties") engaged in widespread kidnapping, trafficking, and killing of Idaho children.

17. In furtherance of their campaign, Defendants used slick marketing tactics and disinformation to launch a coordinated attack of defamation and organized business disruption against the St. Luke's Parties. Defendants made no effort to conceal their improper objectives. Indeed, they publicly declared that they wanted to subject the St. Luke's Parties to unrelenting public shaming that would cause reputational damage and humiliation of such intensity that SLHS and SLRMC would be run out of business and Mr. Roth, CEO of SLHS, and Dr. Erickson, a St. Luke's pediatric physician, would lose their careers and be shunned by their friends, colleagues, neighbors, spouses, and children.

18. As a premise for their wrongful actions, Defendants mischaracterized the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare's ("DHW") decision to intervene to ensure the health and safety of Rodriguez's infant relative ("Infant"). Bundy, Rodriguez, and the other Defendants falsely claimed that DHW's intervention was wholly without basis and was an example of the widespread government conspiracy of kidnapping, trafficking, and killing of children for financial gain.

19. Defendants falsely stated that the St. Luke's Parties were participants in this nefarious organized ring and had participated in the kidnapping and mistreatment of the Infant. Among other things, Defendants falsely stated that (I) the St. Luke's Parties initiated and caused the State's intervention relating to the Infant, (2) the Infant had no need for medical care from the St. Luke's Parties, (3) the St. Luke's Parties provided unnecessary and improper medical treatment to drive up medical bills for the Infant's parents, (4) the St. Luke's Parties harmed the Infant, and (5) the St. Luke's Parties had the authority to release the Infant but were illegally refusing to do so.

20. Bundy, Rodriguez, PRN and the other Defendants coordinated the wrongful attacks to further a number of improper objectives, including (1) to harm the St. Luke's Parties, (2) to subvert the authority and rulings of the judiciary through harassment, (3) to mislead and manipulate their followers, (4) to enhance their political reputations and personal brands, (5) to grow membership in the PRN, (6) to drive traffic to Defendants' websites, and (7) to benefit themselves financially through financial contributions to the Bundy Campaign, Rodriguez's political action committee (FM PAC), the PRN, and a charity benefitting Rodriguez's family.

21. Plaintiffs SLHS and SLRMC were and are a not-for-profit corporations doing business in Idaho with its principal places of business in Ada County, Idaho.

22. Plaintiff Mr. Roth was and is President and CEO of SLHS and a resident of Idaho.

23. Plaintiff Dr. Erickson was and is a physician specializing in pediatric medicine. She is an employee of SLRMC and a resident of Idaho.

24. Defendant Ammon Bundy was and is a resident of Idaho. Bundy controls the Bundy Campaign and is the founder and leader of the PRN. Through his control of the PRN, Bundy effectively controls PRN's website, peoplesrights.org.

25. Defendant Bundy Campaign was and is an Idaho political organization formed for the purpose of raising money to support Bundy's effort to become Governor of Idaho.

26. Defendant Rodriguez was and is a resident of Idaho. Rodriguez represents himself as a world-renowned marketing consultant, motivational speaker, religious leader, author, and political activist. Rodriguez is a leader in the PRN, serves as a consultant to the Bundy Campaign, controls the FMP and the FM PAC, and writes political attack columns for FMP under the alias "Gunner Steele." Rodriguez receives money from the Bundy Campaign through one of his business entities, Power Marketing.

27. Defendants Rodriguez and FMP operates freedomman.org, a website that specializes in political attacks and advocates for the harassment of political opponents through "doxing." FMP promotes Bundy and PRN on its website.

28. FM PAC is and was an Idaho registered political action committee formed by and controlled by Rodriguez. FM PAC works in coordination with FMP and is promoted on freedomman.org

29. PRN is an association of over 60,000 members which owns and operates the peoplesrights.org website. Defendant Ammon Bundy founded and controls the PRN. PRN is controlled through Bundy's operations in Emmett, Idaho.

30. On March 1, 2022, the parents took the Infant to the St. Luke's Boise emergency room (ER) because the Infant had reportedly been vomiting for weeks and had lost a significant amount of weight.

31. A St. Luke's ER provider treated the Infant for dehydration. Then, in consultation with the on-call pediatric specialist, Plaintiff Dr. Natasha Erickson, the ER provider admitted the Infant. The parents agreed to admission.

32. Upon admission, St. Luke's began to treat the Infant with IV fluids because the Infant would not breastfeed or bottle feed. On March 2, 2022, a St. Luke's dietician diagnosed the Infant with chronic severe malnutrition because, among other things, the Infant's weight was well below the first percentile and the Infant showed signs of moderate fat and muscle wasting. Due to this severe, life-threatening malnutrition, the dietician and Dr. Erickson agreed on a plan to feed the Infant via a nasal tube.

33. The Infant continued to struggle with oral feeding. Nevertheless, the parents repeatedly sought to take the Infant home early despite the risk to the Infant.

34. On March 3, 2022, Dr. Erickson met with the Infant's parents, and explained that the Infant needed to remain hospitalized to work on feeding and weight gain, and that, given the Infant's condition, she would need to contact child welfare if the parents chose to take the Infant home against medical advice. The parents agreed to let the Infant stay at St. Luke's for another day.

35. On March 4, 2022, the Infant's oral feeding began to improve. Although Dr. Erickson recommended another night in the hospital, the Infant's parents decided to take the Infant home. Dr. Erickson agreed to discharge the Infant at the parent's request with a nasal tube in place so the parents could feed the Infant if oral feeding dropped off. Dr. Erickson explained that the Infant would need continued nasal feeds and frequent follow-up monitoring by the Infant's primary care physician after discharge.

36. The parents were with the Infant throughout the Infant's hospitalization. They consented to all care at St. Luke's Boise Medical Center.

37. Neither Dr. Erickson nor any St. Luke's employee-initiated contact with child welfare or any other division of DHW regarding the Infant's hospitalization.

The Infant's Parents Fail to Attend Follow-Up Appointments

38. Following discharge, St. Luke's tried to arrange a visit at the Infant's home on March 5 and March 6, 2022. However, the Infant's parents did not return their phone calls.

39. On March 7, 2022, the Infant's parents attended a follow-up appointment with the Infant's new primary care provider (PCP), who is not affiliated with St. Luke's. The appointment revealed the Infant had lost weight since being discharged from St. Luke's and that the nasal tube was no longer in place. A follow up appointment was scheduled for March 10, 2022.

40. The parents attended the March 10, 2022, appointment.

41. Again, the appointment revealed the Infant had lost weight. The PCP asked the Infant's parents to bring the Infant back for a weight check on March 11, 2022.

42. The Infant's parents failed to bring the Infant to the scheduled weight check on the morning of March 11, 2022. When the family failed to appear for the weight check, on information and belief, the Infant's PCP referred the situation to DHW.

43. After hearing from the PCP, DHW determined that the Infant was in immediate danger involving a life threatening and/or emergency situation. DHW notified the Meridian Police Department in accordance with DHW's standard practice. On information and belief, the Meridian PD began trying to locate the Infant.

44. Later on, March 11, 2022, DHW reached out to a nurse practitioner at St. Luke's CARES (Children at Risk Evaluation Services). The DHW safety assessor asked the CARES nurse practitioner for a consult on the Infant's Priority I referral. The nurse practitioner told DHW and the Meridian PD that if the family wanted to bring the Infant to St. Luke's voluntarily, the nurse practitioner would stay late that afternoon to save the family another visit to the ER.

45. On information and belief, the Meridian PD continued to try and get a response from the parents and tried to locate the Infant.

46. That afternoon, DHW spoke by phone to the Infant's father, who said that the Infant and the Infant's mother were sleeping, but that they would come to CARES when they woke up. Despite the representation from the Infant's father, the Infant was not brought to CARES.

Police Take Custody of the Infant

47. Later on March 11, 2022, Meridian police went to the family's residence to check on the Infant's safety. On information and belief, the family refused to cooperate, provide information, or let the officers see the Infant, forcing the police to get a warrant.

48. Defendant Rodriguez stated he was present when the police visited the residence and was aware, at least by the time of the visit, that the police were looking for the Infant out of concern for the Infant's health.

49. Rodriguez took no steps to assist the police in obtaining information regarding the Infant.

50. When the police left the house to get a warrant, the Infant and the Infant's parents moved to another location.

51. Believing the Infant was at risk of imminent harm due to the Infant's recent severe malnutrition, the parents' failure to follow medical advice, and the family's refusal to provide the police with information, the Meridian PD alerted its officers that the Infant was in danger and instructed them to look for the parents' vehicle.

52. The police located the Infant and the Infant's parents late on the night of March 11, 2022, in Garden City. When the Infant's parents refused to cooperate, the police took custody of the Infant and transported the Infant to St. Luke's Meridian in an ambulance.

53. At the time the Infant was taken into custody, the parents were informed that there would be a court hearing within 48 hours and that the ultimate objectives were to assure the safety of the Infant and keep the family unit intact.

The Infant Recovers at St. Luke's Boise

54. In the early hours of Saturday, March 12, 2022, providers at St. Luke's Meridian evaluated the Infant and quickly decided to transfer the Infant to the pediatric floor of the St. Luke's Boise Medical Center for specialized care.

55. When the ten-month-old Infant was admitted to St. Luke's in Boise for a second time, the Infant weighed a mere thirteen pounds and fourteen ounces. The Infant had lost more than half of a pound since being discharged eight days earlier. The Infant's feeding tube - which was in place when St. Luke's discharged the Infant on March 4th-was no longer in place. The Infant's lips were cracked and dry. The Infant's ribs and spine were showing. The Infant had low blood sugar and kidney and liver dysfunction consistent with acute dehydration. The Infant's health had dramatically worsened under the parents' care from March 4 to March 11, 2022.

56. Once again, St. Luke's cared for the Infant through nasal feeding and rehydration. The Infant's health improved. The Infant began to gain weight.

57. St. Luke's providers gave the Infant's parents detailed updates on the Infant's condition and plan of care. But despite the Infant's concerning condition, the parents refused to provide medical information, including birth records, newborn screening, and prior medical records.

58. St. Luke's updated the Infant's parents on the Infant's status throughout the Infant's treatment. The Infant's parents consented to the Infant's treatment plan.

59. Contrary to Defendants' statements, St. Luke's did not vaccinate the Infant against the wishes of the parents. The St. Luke's Parties did not "harm [the Infant] in irreparable ways." Nor did they "abuse" the Infant. As explained below, such statements were false and were intended to attract media attention, incite followers, collect donations, disrupt hospital operations, and defame the St. Luke's Parties.

The Infant is Discharged and Returned to His Family

60. Once again, the Infant's condition improved significantly under the care of the St. Luke's team. On March 15, 2022, St. Luke's discharged the Infant as the Infant was medically stable, gaining weight, tolerating oral feeding, and healthy enough for outpatient care. St. Luke's decision to discharge the Infant was purely based on the Infant's medical condition, not the ongoing protests, pressure, or threats from Defendants or their followers discussed below.

61. The court proceedings relating to the Infant are confidential.

62. St. Luke's discharged the Infant to DHW, which in turn released the Infant to his parents on March 18, 2022.

Defendants Create a False Narrative

63. St. Luke's doctors treated the Infant's severe, life-threatening malnutrition and dehydration. The Infant was returned to the parents. DHW acted to ensure the safety of the Infant and pursued the goal of returning the Infant to the parents. The confidential court proceedings provided for by statute occurred.

64. Nevertheless, Bundy, Rodriguez, and the other Defendants chose to exploit the events surrounding DHS's intervention and the Infant's care.

65. Defendants' prestige, political influence, personal brands, and revenue all depend on Defendants' ability to market themselves as leaders in the fight against governmental overreach.

66. Defendants perceived the events surrounding DHW's intervention as an opportunity to spread their lies and further their agendas. They realized that the facts surrounding DHW's intervention could be mischaracterized as a governmental conspiracy to kidnap, traffic, and kill children. Then, in tum, Defendants realized they could establish themselves as crusaders against their falsely manufactured governmental conspiracy.

67. To that end, Defendants worked together to manufacture a false narrative of a state-sponsored child kidnapping and trafficking ring that included DHW, the police, the Idaho Judiciary, the Infant's PCP, and the St. Luke's Parties.

68. In support of their wrongful objectives, Defendants defamed the supposed members of the kidnapping and child trafficking ring and then incited their followers by stating that countless children, like the Infant, would be kidnapped, trafficked, and potentially killed unless immediate action was taken to destroy the St. Luke's Parties and others.

69. Defendants acted in concert to disseminate this false narrative. Evidence indicates that Bundy, Rodriguez, and the other Defendants coordinated talking points and the timing of demonstrations and provided the same directions to followers regarding how to disrupt the St. Luke's Parties. They told their followers to target the same individuals for <loxing and harassment. Defendants mirrored false statements across the websites and social media they controlled.

70. Defendants operated as a single enterprise to defame and harm the St. Luke's Parties and others.

Defendants Knowingly Harmed the St. Luke's Parties

71. Defendants were aware of the likely impact of their joint actions. When they developed their plan, Bundy, Rodriguez, and the other Defendants knew that spreading their false claims would result in damage to the St. Luke's Parties, including death threats, business interruption, trespass, reputational damage, menacing crowds, and potentially mob violence.

72. Despite foreseeing the consequences, Bundy, Rodriguez, and the other Defendants acted to maximize harm and damage. As Rodriguez bragged publicly, Defendants wanted to harass and shame the St. Luke's Parties with claims of child kidnapping and murder such that St. Luke's employees would be shunned by their families and lose their careers, while St. Luke's itself would be run out of business.

73. Bundy, Rodriguez, and the other Defendants knew that a legal process existed to address the custody and welfare of the Infant.

CONTAINS CONFIDENTIAL HEALTH INFORMATION

74. Defendants knew their harassment would not deter those targeted from doing what was best for the Infant. They knew that the judge would not be cowed into changing how she would rule in the case. They knew that DHW would not act contrary to what it believed was in the best interest of the Infant. They knew the St. Luke's Parties would not discharge the Infant until the Infant was medically ready for discharge. And they knew the St. Luke's Parties did not have the authority to determine whether the Infant would be discharged home or to a foster family.

75. Despite knowing that DHW, the trial court, and the St. Luke's Parties would not be threatened into abandoning the law or the Infant's best interests, Defendants engaged in their coordinated false statements and wrongful acts. Defendants did so because their wrongful acts were motivated by other goals.

76. The facts and circumstances indicate that Defendants' motives in creating and disseminating the false kidnapping and child trafficking narrative included, but are not limited to:

(1) generating interest in the Bundy Campaign; (2) raising the political profiles and personal brands of Bundy and Rodriguez, especially within the People's Rights Network and other political groups; (3) driving web traffic to sites controlled by Defendants; (4) solidifying control over their followers; and (5) creating financial gain in the form of donations to Bundy's campaign, Rodriguez's PAC, and a fund that was established for Rodriguez's family.

False Narrative Regarding DHW's Intervention

77. Understanding the need to create a narrative that served a larger conspiracy theory, Rodriguez misrepresented the circumstances that led to DHW's intervention regarding the Infant. Among other things, Rodriguez, with assistance from the other Defendants, falsely asserted that the Infant was not at risk and had a "100% clean bill of health" when taken into custody, that the parents had only missed a single medical appointment, and that Dr. Erickson had reported the parents and the Infant to DHW.

78. In truth, Rodriguez knew or should have known that the Infant was not well and faced significant health risks. Rodriguez knew the parents had failed to follow several steps needed to ensure the Infant was receiving needed medical care and failed to respond to those properly seeking information regarding the health of the Infant. Rodriguez further understood that he had no factual basis to assert that Dr. Erickson had contacted DHW. Dr. Erickson never contacted DHW regarding the Infant.

Bundy Trespasses at St. Luke's Meridian to Generate Publicity and Contributions

79. Bundy has a history of forcing confrontation with police to generate publicity for himself and his political agenda opponents through "doxing." FMP is not registered as an LLC in Idaho or registered to do business in Idaho. On information and belief, FMP and its website are controlled by Rodriguez.

80. FM PAC is and was an Idaho registered political action committee formed by and controlled by Rodriguez. FM PAC works in coordination with FMP and is promoted on freedomman.org.

I. Opinion #1 -Nature of Bundy, Rodriguez, and PRN

81. PRN is an extremist group with a documented history of threatening and violent behavior. Bundy and Rodriguez are extremists who act to incite threatening and violent behavior in others. Their coordinated efforts, focused on St. Luke's Health Systems and the individual Plaintiffs, create a serious on-going threat.

82. Diego Rodriguez is a key figure in PRN and an extremist who advocates a Christian Nationalist dominion over government. He traffics in hate speech and violent rhetoric, particularly targeting the LGBTQ+ community, government officials, and health care institutions. His actions and posts reflect an intention to threaten and incite violence against his opponents.

83. Ammon Bundy is a far-right activist who has previously been involved in armed standoffs with law enforcement officials in Nevada and Oregon. Bundy was the leader and spokesperson for both standoffs and he was instrumental in recruiting armed militia members from around the country to participate. He has consistently used rhetoric that is designed to inflame tensions and inspire his followers to prepare for armed conflict with their perceived enemies. Bundy and his followers are mainly focused on governmental actions they believe infringe on their individual rights and liberties. Bundy and his followers believe the use of violence is righteous when it is done in defense of their God given rights.

84. Bundy states that he and other members were ready to take action against the government if needed. "If it's government trying to take the rights, we will have to unite against them," he said. "It happens. We don't need to get all emotional about it. We just need to appear and unite together so we can all get through it." (Exhibit 49_2021-10-26 Ammon Bundy claims)

85. In October 2021, Bundy claimed that the People's Rights Network had more than 60,000 members.
(Exhibit 49_2021-10-26 Ammon Bundy claims)

86. PRN's origins have been traced to Bundy's armed government standoffs and the insurrections Bundy led against COVID-19 restrictions. Bundy attracted groups of militia members and other activists and became the nucleus of PRN.

CONTAINS CONFIDENTIAL HEALTH INFORMATION

II. Opinion #2-Bundy, Rodriguez, PRN, and the other Defendants Use Disinformation to Harass and Create Risks of Violence

87. It is my opinion that extremist groups have a playbook that involves the intentional use of misinformation and disinformation to radicalize others to take action, including violent action, against individuals identified by the extremist group. PRN, Bundy, and Rodriguez follow the same playbook as Antifa.

88. Misinformation is false or inaccurate information. Examples include rumors, insults, and pranks. Disinformation is deliberately used to mislead and includes malicious content such as hoaxes, spear phishing, and propaganda. It spreads fear and suspicion among the population. Extremist groups take a systematic approach to spreading misinformation and disinformation they believe will (1) advance their political agenda,(2) help them raise money, (3) sway public opinion,(4) undermine the legitimacy of their opponents, and (5) radicalize their followers.

89. Extremist groups may engage in a short-term effort to spread false information or create a coordinated, long-term, multi-faceted disinformation campaign. These campaigns often involve a team of people who use various mediums of communication including press releases, social media, podcasts, interviews, speeches, blogs, and face to face communication.

90. Ammon Bundy and Diego Rodriguez are recognized leaders of People's Rights Network. They used their roles to direct PRN's actions that are relevant to this lawsuit.

Despite persistent talk of a lack of hierarchy in the organization, People's Rights Network is a fairly typically structured group. Ammon Bundy sits atop the hierarchy—though in an unnamed, unspecified position. He is the main spokesperson for the group.

(04_Exhibit 43_Ammon's Army_ Inside the Far-Right People's Rights Network ⋆ Institute for Research and Education on Human Rights)

Diego Rodriguez is a frequent speaker at People's Rights events, including early meetings that gave rise to the organization. He is pastor of the Boise Freedom Tabernacle Church in Boise, Idaho. The church promotes "Christian Dominion," described as "the duty of taking dominion over the Earth." Christian Dominionism is a form of Christian nationalism, arguing that Christians should take the reins of political and cultural power. Rodriquez's Boise-based Dominion Books is dedicated to "equipping believers to take dominion in this world." Rodriguez also serves as the Communications and Marketing Director for the Freedom Man Political Action Committee.

(04_Exhibit 43_Ammon's Army_ Inside the Far-Right People's Rights Network ⋆ Institute for Research and Education on Human Rights)

91. It is my opinion that Ammon Bundy and Diego Rodriguez led an organized disinformation campaign that targeted various people involved in the removal and treatment of Diego Rodriguez's infant grandson, including police officers and the assigned social worker. This disinformation campaign eventually focused on St. Luke's, St. Luke's administration, and St. Luke's medical staff. Among the individuals targeted were Chris Roth, Dr.

Natasha Erickson, and NP Tracy Jungman. The false information spread by the Defendants was not just inaccurate, it was purposely inflammatory and malicious. Based on my training and experience, this disinformation campaign was intended to intimidate the members of the St. Luke's organization and the individuals who were identified and doxed.

The language used in the campaign was purposely inflammatory and intended to motivate and radicalize supporters and members of People's Rights Network. Ammon Bundy and Diego Rodriguez knew, or should have known, that the information they and their followers were spreading was factually inaccurate. It is my opinion that the People's Rights Network's disinformation campaign was intended to intimidate and harm St. Luke's, St. Luke's administration, and St. Luke's medical staff. The disinformation campaign was also intended to undermine the credibility of the St. Luke's organization and employees, cause reputational damage, dissuade community members from using St. Luke's facilities, sway public opinion, and inflict financial damage on SLHS.

Examples of the coordinated disinformation campaign and direction given to People's Rights Network Supporters:

"WHAT CAN YOU DO TO HELP?
1. Be a Keyboard Warrior - there is a ton you can do from your keyboard. For example: Send emails to Health and Wellness and demand that Baby Cyrus go home. These are the emails to the officials and executive staff and Health and Wellness along with the judge: dave.jeppesen@dhw.idaho.gov, miren.unsworth@@dhw.idaho.gov, lisa.hettinger@dhw.idaho.gov, cameron.gilliland@dhw.idaho.gov, kelly.shoplock@dhw.idaho.gov, lfortier@adaweb.net, ChildSupport@dhw.idaho.gov
Go crazy on Twitter, Facebook, lnstagram, and more and post the truth and combat the false narratives. Send emails and messages to your friends, neighbors, and more to get informed about this case.
2. Call Health and Welfare - 800-356-9868 (here's the contact info page: https://healthandwelfare.idaho.gov/contact-3. Help us get media interviews - do whatever you can to get us media coverage. Contact anybody and everybody who has a platform and have them contact me at contact@freedomman.org
4. Make a donation - again, you can make a donation at: https://givesendgo.com/babycyrus
5. Stand with us in protest (for those who are local) - we are asking everyone to protest in front of Health and Welfare in Boise from 10:00 am 5:00 pm every day until Baby Cyrus comes home.
6. Pray for Baby Cyrus - please do not discount the power of prayer. That is what has carried our family through up to this point. And it is the only thing that will sustain us through the end of this nightmare..."
(05_2023-02-07docD Affidavit of J Jensen in Support of St Luke Plaintiffs' Motion for Contempt Against A Bundy and PRN, page 52)

92. It is my opinion that Ammon Bundy and Diego Rodriguez led a coordinated disinformation campaign that involved inflammatory mislabeling of Child Protective Services as a child trafficking network used to kidnap, abuse, kill, and/or give Christian children to homosexual couples. The misinformation has also recently taken on accusations of child "genital mutilation."

BABY WRONGFULLY TORN FROM ARMS OF MOTHER IN MERIDIAN, IDAHO
Baby Cyrus Anderson, was forcibly and unjustifiably ripped from mother's arms.

(07_2023-02-17docE Supplemental Affidavit of J Jensen in Support of Plaintiffs' Motion for Contempt Against A Bundy and PRN, page 3)

"Natasha Erickson, the doctor who misdiagnosed [Infant] and called CPS, would receive $1.5M dollars from Diego and I." (9:20).

(07_2023-02-17docE Supplemental Affidavit of J Jensen in Support of Plaintiffs' Motion for Contempt Against A Bundy and PRN, page 3)

"I know more now than even when they first took [Infant] of who St. Luke's executives are and who Holland & Hart executives are—or attorneys are—and they're flat-out wicked people. I mean flat-out wicked. They basically have no problem taking babies from parents, making money off them, using the State."
(07_2023-02-17docE Supplemental Affidavit of J Jensen in Support of Plaintiffs' Motion for Contempt Against A Bundy and PRN, page 3)

III. Opinion #3-The Disturbances Constituted Incitements to Violence, an Unlawful Assembly.

93. It is my opinion that the disturbances during March 12-18, 2022 were not just First Amendment protected free speech and peaceful protest. The events of March 15, 2022 were not protected by the First Amendment and any reasonable police officer would have considered the event an unlawful assembly.

94. The First Amendment of the United States Constitution allows members of the public to peaceably assemble, engage in free speech, and petition the government for redress of their grievances. First Amendment protected assemblies are subject to certain time, place, and manner restrictions. Speech that poses an imminent threat of physical harm to individuals or groups is not protected. Speakers do not have a right to incite violence or other lawless action or conspire to commit criminal acts.

95. A peaceful protest can involve thousands of people engaged in loud, boisterous, obnoxious, and obscene speech. A peaceful protest can involve people occupying certain public spaces, playing music, dancing, holding signs, silent protest, speeches, or candlelight vigils. Protesters can engage in speech that promotes political or religious beliefs as long there is no incitement to violence or commission of other unlawful acts.

96. When people engage in unprotected speech or criminal activity at a protest event, the protest is no longer a First Amendment assembly. Law Enforcement officers who are on scene may declare the protest an unlawful assembly. If officers observe vandalism and violence in the crowd, they may declare a riot as defined by the state criminal statute. There are many factors that play into the decision to declare an unlawful assembly or riot. Some of those factors are (1) the size and composition of the crowd, (2) whether people are armed with weapons, (3) the temperament of the crowd members, (4) the nature of any threats, (5) the likelihood of verbal de-escalation, (6) whether members of the crowd seem cohesive in their actions, and (7) the commission of or threat of criminal acts by members of the crowd.

IV. Opinion #4-St. Luke's Responded Reasonably to Harassment and Disturbances

97. It is my opinion that the decision by the St. Luke's leadership and security team to lockdown the St. Luke's Boise facility on March 15, 2022 was necessary based on the totality of the circumstances.

98. St. Luke's employs a team of security professionals that includes several retired police officers with decades of experience evaluating intelligence and making risk assessments. A risk assessment is an objective evaluation based on available intelligence. The intelligence that the security team relied upon came from several sources including (1) local police, (2) federal law enforcement, (3) open-source material, (4) direct communication from Ammon Bundy, Diego Rodriguez, and their supporters, (5) media reports, (6) and social media. The St. Luke's leadership and security team used the available intelligence and experience from protest events beginning on March 12, 2022 to make real-time tactical decisions on March 15, 2022.

99. On Saturday, March 12, 2022, at around 1:30 a.m., Bundy and his followers entered the ambulance bay at St. Luke's in Meridian—a primary access point for medical emergencies. Once there, the group yelled and cursed at hospital staff and uniformed police officers. Bundy's followers were prepared with their cameras and immediately shared the confrontation on social media. St. Luke's security guards recognized Bundy, based on his actions and direction of the crowd, as "the catalyst and aggressor in the group." Hospital staff explained to Bundy and his followers that the group was blocking emergency access to the ambulance bay and asked them to move to a nearby area where they would not block patient access. Following Bundy's lead, the group refused to move and continued to harass hospital staff.

Hospital staff told Bundy and his followers that they would be trespassing if they stayed in the ambulance bay. Once again, the group refused to leave. Recognizing that Bundy's followers were growing more numerous and menacing, a hospital supervisor tried to reason with Bundy and deescalate the situation. For the benefit of those there to film him, Bundy responded by accusing the supervisor of kidnapping and then demanded that he give Bundy the Infant. Bundy knew full well he had no legal authority to make that demand because he had no parental rights over the Infant. Bundy knew that St. Luke's would not and could not as a matter of law release the Infant into Bundy's custody. Hospital staff repeatedly warned Bundy and his followers to clear the ambulance bay. Bundy heard and refused to heed the warnings on at least three occasions. Bundy knew the police had no option but to arrest him for trespass. As he intended, the police arrested him just before 2:00 a.m. on March 12, 2022. Bundy's followers recorded his arrest for social media and then dispersed. The police released Bundy a few hours after his trespass.

100. Meridian Police Department officers described their interactions with Bundy and his followers on March 12, 2022 as follows:

Upon my arrival, a male later identified as Ammon Bundy arrived on scene with several other individuals. The group congregated in the ambulance bay and were expressing their disapproval and demanding the child be released. The group was demanding the child be returned to its parents and Bundy at what point stated "You're not going to like what is coming." Bundy appeared to be leading the group as he was the most vocal and engaged in dialogue with Officers and hospital staff.

Woods advised Bundy that he was blocking the ambulance bay. Bundy stated "If an ambulance comes in, we'll move." Woods explained that was not an option and told Bundy he and the group were welcome to protest, but needed to go to a nearby grassy area. Woods pointed to the area where he wanted the group and Bundy looked where he was pointing. Bundy asked "Or what? are you going to arrest us?"

You have been warned and you are now trespassing." Bundy and the group continued demanding the baby's release. A short time later, Bundy was again advised by Sanchez, "If you don't want me to have them (the Police) arrest you, you need to go where security explained." Bundy continually interrupted Sanchez and at one point told him he "had no authority." Sanchez continued, despite Bundy's interruptions, to reason with him however his efforts were futile.

I observed, in total, seven directives/warnings to Bundy and the group to leave the ambulance bay by Sanchez and Woods. They were also provided a designated area to gather and protest outside of the ambulance bay. More individuals began to arrive to speak their frustration, causing a larger congregation in the ambulance bay.

> Sanchez, after exhausting all efforts, requested Bundy be arrested for trespassing. Sergean[t] McGilvery and I placed Bundy in handcuffs utilizing two sets of handcuffs due to his size. While we were doing this Wendy Whitaker, another member of the group, attempted to physically get in between Bundy and Officers to keep us from taking him into custody. She was taken into custody by other Officers on scene.

101. St. Luke's Senior Director of Security, C.P. Abbey Abbondandolo, described his observations of Bundy and his supporters as follows:

The infant was transferred to St. Luke's Children's Hospital at St. Luke's Regional Medical Center in Boise. After the infant's transfer, I observed protesters outside of the main hospital building at St. Luke's campus in Boise, Idaho from March 13, 2022 through March 18, 2022. These protests were also organized by Bundy, Rodriguez, and their entities.

The height of the protests was on March 15, 2022, when there were several hundred protesters outside the main building. I actively monitored the protesters during the dates they were present at St. Luke's in Boise.

I monitored their activities in numerous ways, including by going outside approximately ten (10) different times during the relevant time period, by watching real time live stream videos being posted by protestors on social media platforms, by directly monitoring protestor's activities through the windows of the building, and by monitoring St. Luke's security camera feeds. St. Luke's has 950 cameras across its system, so I was able to readily observe all areas outside the building where the protesters had gathered. While observing protesters, I saw many of them were open-carrying handguns. One protester had a long knife strapped to his belt.

> In addition to personally monitoring the protestor's activities, I received reports on their activities from staff and members of St. Luke's security team. I also received reports from security partners including members of the Boise Police Department and State Police who were present at the St. Luke's downtown campus during the protests to provide additional security support for the hospital. Prior to the protests, the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) advised that threats against St. Luke's had been noted on social media.

102. On March 15, 2022, the St. Luke's security team monitored the protest and coordinated with local and federal law enforcement. They used available technology, including surveillance equipment and social media, to make a real-time threat assessment. St. Luke's security team was designed to manage risks to facilities and personnel based on security industry best practices. Those best practices give guidance on (1) staffing levels, (2) training, (3) equipment, (4) deployment strategies, (5) technology, (6) emergency protocols, (7) standard operating procedures, and (8) physical security. St. Luke's security team was well prepared to manage routine and emergency situations at their facilities. No hospital security team could have been reasonably prepared to defend a facility against a mob of hundreds of volatile protesters, some openly carrying firearms.

103. The St. Luke's security team requested assistance from local law enforcement to help secure the main building of St. Luke's Boise Medical Center. Even with the presence of Boise Police and Idaho State Police, it would have been impossible to keep the crowd from forcing their way into the hospital. Officers would have likely used a significant amount of force including physical force, impact weapons and chemical agents. Because many Bundy supporters were carrying firearms, there would have been an increased chance that things could escalate into a shootout. The hospital is not designed to be defensible against an armed assault—had the armed mob made a coordinated attempt to use force to enter the facility, they would have succeeded. The police and St. Luke's security team were aware of previous armed standoffs between Bundy supporters and law enforcement.

104. March 15 Timeline (Exhibit 82_Timeline march 15 v5)

Morning- Ammon Bundy posts "Call to Action – Baby Cyrus, now or never? video to YouTube. (Stidham Decl., Ex. 80)

In the video, which is taken by Bundy while he is driving, he announces the 1 p.m. shelter care hearing at the Ada County Courthouse. He states that "they need people to go to the Ada County Courthouse at 1 p.m. today."

Bundy states that he "is not okay with any of this to be honest with you if justice was to be served we would go into the hospital take that baby and we'd give it back to their mother and then if we were further to administrate [sic] justice we would and those that were accountable and we would prosecute them and uh and uh prosecute them and make them pay for the damages they caused to this family."

Bundy goes on to state that he "is not alone in those feelings but we also have had to repress those uh thoughts and actions because we are trying to give the people that are uh making the decisions, that are doing this thing to them, give them a chance to correct this issue so we don't have to do it for them."

At approximately 5 minutes into the video Bundy states that he "knows there are groups, patriot groups, that have wanted to come, and um just do what needs to be done, and I have been kinda holding the floodgates from that happening, trying to you know make sure you guys don't do that yet um because I believe we have a chance here today to get this straightened out and if not then I can't hold you back from what you're going to do."

Tim Brown publishes Bundy's "Call to Action" video on the website "sons of libertymedia.com" and notes the call to action from the American Militia Freedom Forces to show up at Ada County Courthouse that day.

11:14 a.m. – Post to "Baby Cyrus" Telegram Page regarding noon "Prayer and Protest" at Ada County Courthouse.

CONTAINS CONFIDENTIAL HEALTH INFORMATION

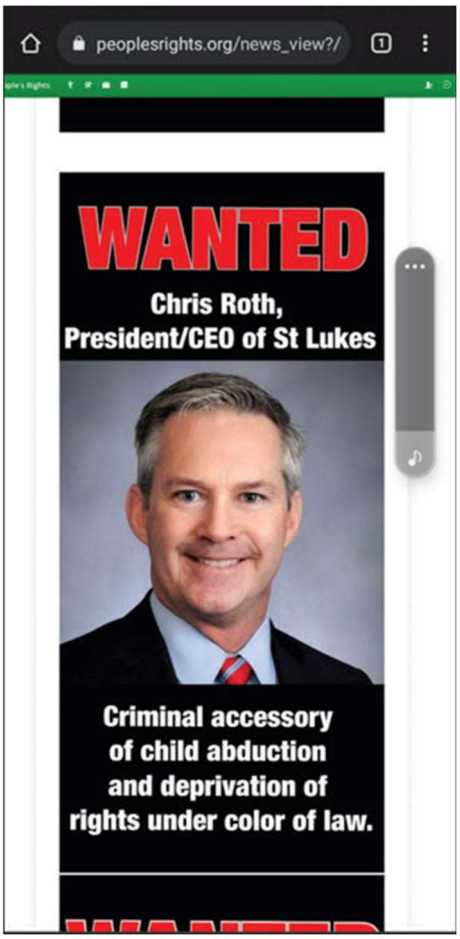

11:42 a.m. – Diego Rodriguez sends email titled “Emergency REDIRECT – Go to St. Luke’s Hospital now!”
(Stidham Decl., Ex. 18)

Rodriguez asks everyone planning on being part of the PRAYER AND PROTEST at the Ada County Courthouse to “go immediately to St. Luke’s Hospital downtown.” Rodriguez wrote: “This is an emergency!”

Approximately 1:00 p.m. - "Bundy states via live stream from the Ada County Courthouse that they have received information from a “credible source” that CPS is going to take “Baby Cyrus” while all the protesters are at the Court- house “and they are going to transport him to a foster home away from the hospital.”

Bundy instructs people to go “back to the hospital” and begin “making noise” and that they are going to have to “straighten this out” because it is “an emergency.”"

1:00 p.m.

- Members of the protester group encircle the hospital on all four corners.
- Protesters drive vehicles around the hospital honking horns.
- Several protesters stand near emergency room entrance.
- Protesters are open-carrying handguns; one protester has a large military knife strapped to his waist.
- Protesters are carrying signs accusing St. Luke's and its staff and doctors of participating in the medical kidnapping conspiracy.
- St. Luke's Threat Assessment team receives information from the FBI that credible human intelligence indicating protesters are intending to storm the hospital to forcibly remove the infant.
- Due to the real and imminent threat, St. Luke's administration and security places the hospital on full lockdown for approximately 2 hours.
- During the lockdown, St. Luke's re-directs all ambulance and helicopter traffic and stops taking patients.

1:57 p.m. – The Infant is discharged into CPS custody
(Abbondandolo Decl., Ex. F)

2:50 p.m. – St. Luke's lifts lockdown

(Abbondandolo Decl., Ex. F)

105. It is my opinion that the decision to lockdown the main building of St. Luke's Medical Center on March 15, 2022 was a necessary and reasonable decision. Bundy and his supporters' actions endangered the public, St. Luke's facility, St. Luke's staff, and members of law enforcement. The factors that St. Luke's administration and security team considered include (1) the available intelligence, (2) hostility of the protesters, (3) the pattern of behavior by People's Rights Network members, (4) the presence of protesters armed with firearms, (5) credible threats to storm the hospital and take the baby, (6) violent history of Bundy and his supporters, and (7) the present ability to act on their threats of violence.

V. Opinion #5-Bundy, Rodriguez, PRN, and other Defendants Harassed and Created Risks of Violence

106. It is my opinion that the systematic doxing and harassment of Chris Roth, Dr. Natasha Erickson, and NP Tracy Jungman and their families was intended to intimidate and terrorize the Plaintiffs. The harassment also targeted and impacted the entire St. Luke's organization and resulted in harassment of employees, patients, and visitors to the hospital. The coordinated actions by Ammon Bundy, Diego Rodriguez, and other members of People's Rights Network created undue fear and anxiety and exposed the Plaintiffs to real threats of future violence.

107. Doxing refers to publicly identifying or publishing private information about someone especially as a form of punishment or revenge. Doxing is a form of cyber-bullying that has been increasingly used by extremists to target their political opponents. Extremists will typically post pictures, names, home addresses, work or business addresses, phone numbers, or emails. Some extremists have gone as far as posting identifying information for their target's children or significant other. This practice is rarely about accomplishing some strategic goal. It is intended as a form of harassment and intimidation. Doxing can create a real sense of fear in the victim. Doxing victims often develop anxiety and hyper-vigilance as a result. They often report taking increased safety precautions, reducing public exposure, deleting or restricting social media, or relocating for a short period of time.

Bundy, Rodriguez, and their supporters will continue to use this tactic unless there are real consequences for their behavior. These personal attacks create a serious life-threatening danger to the targets.

108. It is my opinion that Chris Roth, Dr. Natasha Erickson, and NP Tracy Jungman had reactions to being doxed that were reasonable and understandable based on the malicious and ongoing nature of the harassment. The attacks on the Plaintiffs were intended to cause reputational harm, undermine their professional credibility, and impact their personal lives. Based on my training and experience, the content of the doxing was purposefully inaccurate and intended to motivate members of People's Rights Network, their associates, and related organizations. The doxing was a call to action, Bundy and his supporters even used the term, "Call to action" in some of their communication.

Examples of doxing by People's Rights Network:
"SHARE!! BRING OTHERS PROTEST DAILY! PLEASE BOUNCE AROUND LOCATIONS SO WE HAVE COVERAGE THROUGHOUTTHE DAY. (05_2023-02-07docD Affidavit of J Jensen in Support of St Luke Plaintiffs' Motion for Contempt Against A Bundy and PRN, page 50)

www.freedomman.org has made a number of false and defamatory statements about St. Luke's, including, but not limited to, that:
(a) the Infant "was being neglected by the hospital!";
(b) St. Luke's "gleefully participate[s] in the Child Trafficking Network known as CPS by taking children into their hospital to receive never-ending streams of payments from Medicaid and other government sources in order to give faulty and unreliable information to the 'family courts' in order to keep children away from their parents";
(c) "St. Luke's is probably the number one accomplice in this Child Trafficking system—and they profit as much as anyone from the system";
(d) "The story and actions of all bad actors, including police officers, politicians, St. Luke's hospital, nurses, doctors, the prosecutor, the judge, and other bureaucrats have been so egregious, tyrannical, and demonstratively ILLEGAL, that the story has made national and even international news, and has been featured by news outlets all over the country—with some believing that this is now the highest profile CPS kidnapping case in American history";
(e) "St. Luke's is HARMING [Infant] . . . I REPEAT—ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL IS HARMING [Infant]!!!";
(f) "THE HOSPITAL IS DOING GREAT HARM TO [Infant]!!!";
(g) "These moronic imbeciles at the hospital aren't taking care of [Infant]";
(h) Infant's "health is deteriorating BECAUSE OF [St. Luke's]";
(i) Infant "is being neglected by the hospital!";
(j) "St. Luke's has demonstrated itself to be unhelpful, tyrannical and in many ways incompetent";
(k) "[E]verything CPS, the police, and St. Luke's did to [Infant] was detrimental and harmful to his health. And that is empirical and not just my opinion."
(05_2023-02-07docD Affidavit of J Jensen in Support of St Luke Plaintiffs' Motion for Contempt Against A Bundy and PRN, page 243)

Here are the criminals with a license to kidnap babies from their nursing mothers: Natasha Erickson, St. Luke's Doctor (She was the first to call CPS simply because Marissa and Levi asked to leave St. Luke's after Cyrus first got his IV and was rehydrated. She threatened to call CPS if they decided to leave early, so Levi and Marissa stayed. She called CPS anyway. This was the initial trigger that got everything started.

Come no more upon me, a warning letter from Ammon Bundy - To: …, Chris Roth; …,Erik Stidham; ….
Now in less than a week. I will be forced to defend myself again in trial, facing a team of government attorneys, for peacefully standing outside St Luke's Hospital demanding that they give baby Cyrus back to his loving parents. If convicted, I will be fined thousands of dollars and will most likely spend months, if not a year in jail, away from my little family who need me. By the time I get out. St. Luke's executives and Holland & Hart partners with help from a few Ada County Judges will do their best to strip my family from anything we have.

I was informed by two very creditable, independent sources (one a high-ranking Ada County Official and the other an attorney who works with St. Luke's hospital) that St. Luke's CEO gave Holland & Hart a blank check to financially destroy Diego and I for speaking out against them in the role they played in taking baby Cyrus. Holland & Hart receiving open payments from St. Luke's Hospital to destroy lives by abusing the court is a prime example of Judicial Terrorism.

I am certain if I am thrown in jail, by the time I get out, St. Luke's Executives and Holland & Hart Partners with help from a few Ada County Judges, will do their best to take everything they can from me and strip my family from anything we have left. I therefore warn; …, Chris Roth, …, Erik Stidham, …, in the name of Jesus Christ, that you come no more upon me or my family. I pray that I will be even more patience than I have been and hope that you will repent of your violations against the people of Idaho and myself.

It is my opinion that the Plaintiffs have experienced considerable trauma as a result of being doxed and targeted by Bundy, Rodriguez, and other members of People's Rights Network.

Some examples of the trauma include:
I have experienced flashbacks accompanied by physical symptoms, reoccurring memories and nightmares, difficulty sleeping, distressing thoughts, and physical signs of distress such as racing heart, tightness of chest, and difficulty breathing.
I have experienced avoidance symptoms such as staying away from places and activities owing to concern for my safety, the safety of my coworkers, and the safety of my family and friends. These symptoms have caused me to make changes in my routines and activities. For example, for a time I avoided going to the grocery store or having my minor children spend the night in my home. I avoid posting on social media, I avoid wearing my

St. Luke's badge outside of the CARES clinic, and I avoid telling people my last name or my place of work.
(Tracy Jungman - Redacted Declaration, page 6-7)

I was not in the hospital for the lockdown, but I received notification of the event via text. I immediately feared for the safety of my patients and my colleagues in the hospital. When I went to work that night for another night shift, I was anxious about approaching the hospital, uncertain if my personal safety was compromised. I notified my husband with excessive frequency of when I had departed or arrived at work, even in the middle of the night or early hours in the morning. I also requested security escorts to my vehicle when leaving the hospital which I have never done while working at St. Luke's or at any other hospital in my career.

The false accusations and doxing caused and continue to cause me mental distress and reputational harm. These public accusations of kidnapping and harming children have adversely affected my sleep patterns and created anxiety and stress. These defamatory actions, coupled with the incitements to harass me and my family and implied threats of violence from Defendants' followers, have had a traumatic effect.

The false accusations of being a criminal accessory to child abduction on the www.peoplesrights.org website caused and continue to cause reputational harm to St. Luke's and me. False statements that the CEO of St. Luke's is engaging in the criminal abduction and harm to children seek to impair my ability to lead the organization and work in the community on behalf of St. Luke's. This is especially the case given that caring for the health of children in the communities we serve is a core part of St. Luke's mission. Further, the false statements regarding me are intended to damage St. Luke's as an institution. A false statement regarding the CEO necessarily indicates the institution is involved in criminal activity.

I am being targeted for harassment. The false accusations on www.peoplesrights.org clearly are made to intimidate me and seek to cause emotional distress to me and my family.

109. It is my opinion that this coordinated and unrelenting harassment posed a significant safety risk to Chris Roth, Dr. Natasha Erickson, NP Tracy Jungman, St. Luke's Medical Center, and their employees, patients, and visitors. The use of inflammatory language, specifically related to child abduction and systemic abuse, was intended to radicalize members of the People's Rights Network, their followers, supporters, and related organizations. This type of rhetoric is dangerous and can motivate an individual or group to commit acts of violence. Once the message is sent, it is impossible to know who will receive it and the actions that person or group might take as a result.

VI. Opinion #6-St. Luke's Efforts to Increase Security are Reasonable and Necessary

110. It is important to understand the potential risk for people who view online content to become radicalized. One way to understand the risk of radicalization and the potential impact on the target audience is by using a pyramid model. The pyramid model below was developed by NATO to help explain the demographics of people who view online content. Most people can view the content without being persuaded to agree with the messaging and would be considered Violent Extremism (VE) curious. The pyramid helps us understand the percentage of people who move from curious to extremist.

When analyzing online Violent Extremism (VE) content for Info Ops planning, it is important to understand the way in which the target audience is segmented. The section with the most people can be considered the VE-curious, including people from academia and researchers. Depending on the content, 10-30% of the VE-curious become VEfans. This could be because they are drawn to the sense of adventure, the feeling of community, or the fact that they find the ideology attractive. Of this group of VE fans, only 10-30% go on to become violent extremists.

(A workshop report from the NATO CENTRE OF EXCELLENCE DEFENCE AGAINST TERRORISM and the NATO Strategic Communications Centre of Excellence)

111. It is my opinion that the nature and credibility of the threats against St. Luke's and their staff necessitated increases in security measures at St. Luke's. Because this was not a legitimate, free-speech, political protest or an isolated incident—but rather an apparently calculated effort to target opponents and radicalize People's Rights Network members to take action, including violent action—St. Luke's and the individual Plaintiffs would be prudent to take precautions for their safety and the safety of those around them.

112. Based on the actions of People's Rights Network members on March 15, 2022 and the following days, St. Luke's security team conducted a full evaluation of their security protocols. The team made recommendations for (1) infrastructure improvements, (2) safety procedures, (3) staffing increases, and (4) new equipment and technology.

113. Prior to the protests by People's Rights Network, St. Luke's had established security protocols based on activity they had experienced in the past and reasonable contingencies they could anticipate. Typically, the security team dealt with (1) trespassers, (2) combative aggressive patients, (3) protests or failure to comply with mask mandates, (4) suicidal or homicidal patients, and (5) threats or violence to staff. A hospital security team is not equipped, trained, or staffed to handle a mob of hundreds of armed extremists threatening to storm the facility. Also, it is unreasonable to expect a hospital security team to be equipped, trained, and staffed to defend against an armed mob.

114. The St. Luke's leadership and security team kept their heightened security posture for two weeks after the Defendants' protests. They maintained an incident command process to coordinate the response to any issues at their facilities or the harassment of their employees away from work. This approach was necessary because Bundy, Rodriguez, and their followers continued to spread disinformation and make threats toward St. Luke's and their staff. The Defendants also implored their followers to flood St. Luke's phone lines and email accounts with calls and messages.

A protest phone call campaign was organized that completely jammed St. Luke's phone systems on several occasions for more than an hour at a time. The phone number for St. Luke's switchboard, which fields all incoming public calls to the hospital, was published on social media by Bundy, Rodriguez, and their entities. Phone calls were received by St. Luke's from approximately 30 different states. Some of the callers left threatening messages, while others relayed threatening or disruptive messages to the St. Luke's switchboard operators. Heat maps were produced by St. Luke's security team to show the concentration of calls received from the various states from March 13 through March 16, 2022. True and correct copies of the heat maps are attached as Exhibit C. St. Luke's retained records of threatening or disruptive messages for security purposes. True and correct copies of the noted messages left by supporters of Bundy, Rodriguez, and/or their entities are included as Exhibit D. One of the callers indicated that St. Luke's should be on the watch out for a trucker blockade of the streets surrounding St. Luke's.

St. Luke's has also undertaken research and investment in new security infrastructure as a result of the threats created by the March 15 protests. These efforts represent a significant capital expense. The efforts are necessary because the false information about St. Luke's and its providers posted online by Bundy, Rodriguez, and their entities remains on the Internet. Because of this, the "cause against medical kidnapping" could be taken up at any time in the future by someone else who comes across the false information.

St. Luke's has had to take steps to protect its providers and other medical staff. For instance, all profiles of the pediatrics team (20 individuals) were removed from the St. Luke's website shortly after the lockdown, a measure I believe we have been forced to take in reaction to the armed protests in March, instigated and incited by Defendants.

115. Based on the credible threat presented by Bundy, Rodriguez, and the People's Rights Network, it was reasonable and necessary to purchase upgraded equipment for the security team immediately after the protests. The security director implemented a pilot program to test new bullet proof vests, CS spray gel, Tasers, body cameras and drones. The cost of the pilot program was $18,800. The program was approved and the equipment was purchased for the security team. The security team also conducted training on all of the new equipment.

116. The St. Luke's leadership also authorized eleven new full-time employees and the purchase of a security program at a cost of $4,640,203. These improvements were necessary to ensure the safety of St. Luke's facilities and personnel. St. Luke's made improvements to access control at their facilities. They also started an immediate review of future construction plans.

117. It is my opinion that these increases in personnel, equipment, infrastructure, and technology are a direct result of the ongoing threat created by Bundy, Rodriguez, and the People's Rights Network. If these protests, threats, and continued doxing never happened, St. Luke's would not have a need for these expenditures.
